May 4, 1745, died there, May 7, 1838, buried in North Laurel Hill Cemetery. He was a printer and publisher in Philadelphia. During the revolution he was captain of a militia company, also deputy commissary general of prisoners in American army with rank of lieutenant-colonel. He married, November 23, 1768, Mary Fisher, daughter of Samuel Fisher and Elizabeth (Coleman) Fisher. Issue, six children.

Samuel Fisher Bradford, son of Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas and Mary (Fisher) Bradford, was born in Philadelphia in 1776. He was a publisher in Philadelphia and New York. He married, March 7, 1799, Abigail Inskeep, daughter of John Inskeep, and died August 2, 1837. Issue, seven children.

Major Edmund Bradford, son of Samuel Fisher and Abigail (Inskeep) Bradford, was born at Philadelphia, July 31, 1816. He graduated with distinction at the West Point Military Academy, and served throughout the Mexican war, and in recognition of his gallantry was presented with a handsome sword by his native city of Philadelphia. After some years he resigned from the United States army and retired to private life. When the civil war broke out he enlisted in the Confederate army and served until the end of the war when he returned to Norfolk, where he resided until his death April 26, 1889. He married, October 7, 1847, Anne Elizabeth Tazewell, born October 28, 1817, died December 15, 1898, daughter of Governor Littleton Waller Tazewell, of Virginia. Children: 1. Littleton Waller Tazewell (changed from Bradford), born July 16, 1848; married, November 6, 1883, Mary Louisa Walke, born March 28, 1856; children: Littleton Waller, born February 13, 1887; Calvert Walke, October 14, 1888; Edmund Bradford, October 25, 1891. 2. Annie Nivison, married Richard Walke (see Walke VII). 3. Mary Fisher, born March 21, 1852, died August 18, 1884; married, June 22, 1876, William Turnbull Burwell, lieutenant in the United States navy; children: Edmund Bradford, born April 13, 1877; Mary Fisher, June 20, 1880; William Turnbull, May 4, 1883. 4. Samuel Sidney, born November 25, 1853; married, November 25, 1880, Kate Spotswood Braxton; children: Edmund Marshall, born October 29, 1882; Samuel Sidney, April 2, 1884; Olivia Braxton, June 9, 1887. 5. Edmund De Vaux, born March 15, 1856; married Virginia Cooper; died January 4, 1901. 6. Ella Tazewell, born March 30, 1857; married, October 24, 1895, William Turnbull Burwell, commander United States navy.

William James Woodward. History informs us that several persons bearing the name of Woodward suffered persecution among the Friends of England, and one of them, named Henry, died in prison. In Worcestershire we find the names of Joan, John, Richard and Thomas, all of whom suffered more or less for their religious opinions. From careful research we find that there appears to have been as many as five different settlements of those bearing the name of Woodward in the early colonization of this country. They settled in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia. Those of Maryland, in the counties of Anne Arundel and St. Mary's were found there among the earliest settlers, near St. Anne's chapel, which is supposed to be one of the earliest churches of the Episcopal denomination in America. The Woodwards of Virginia antedate all others of the early settlers. Henry Woodward came to Virginia in the ship "Diana," and was living at Hog Island, with Jane, his wife, in 1624. The Rev. James Bacon, of England, first cousin of Sir Francis Bacon, married Martha, a daughter of George Woodward, of Buckinghamshire, England, and had issue, Nathaniel, born 1620, died in 1692, member of council in Virginia, 1657; burgess of York, 1659; acting governor, 1689; this was not the rebel. During the reign of Charles, fifteen thousand families had been ruined for their religious persuasions, and on the accession of James, twelve hundred Friends were released from filthy prisons and noisome dungeons, in which five thousand had perished for conscience's sake. In 1690 grants of land were made in North Carolina to William and Samuel Woodward. In 1719, grants were made to Henry, James and Edward Woodward. We find other records as follows: Thomas Woodward, clerk of the assembly, in March, 1655; Thomas Woodward, of the Isle of Wight, in 1678; Thomas Woodward constituted sole surveyor of North Carolina, in 1662. Captain Henry Woodward was an active participant in the French and Indian wars, 1755-57. Eliza Cocke married Lawrence Woodward, a descendant of Christopher Woodward, mentioned below.

Christopher Woodward, born in 1594, came to Virginia in the year 1620. In 1629 he was burgess for Westover. The name was found in Henrico county, where the patent was found at a later date. Christopher Woodward received a grant of three hundred acres on the Appomattox river for transportation of wife and four persons. He married (first) Margaret ———, (second) Dorothy ———.

Samuel Woodward, son of Christopher Woodward, of Charles City county, Virginia, died in 1680. He was prominent in Virginia, and wealthy, owning a large part of Turkey Island. He married Mrs. Sarah (Hallam) Sturdivant, a daughter of Robert Hallam, of James City county, Virginia

Samuel Woodward, son of Samuel and Sarah (Hallam) (Sturdivant) Woodward, was born in Virginia, and removed to Boston, Massachusetts. In the county records there is a deed, dated 1705, from this Samuel Woodward, conveying to William Randolph a one-third interest in one thousand acres of land on Turkey Island. He had inherited Turkey Island from his mother. There is a record of his removal to Massachusetts, at which time he left a power of attorney for the sale of his property in Virginia. Subsequently he removed from Massachusetts to North Carolina, where he became a large land owner. He was known as Captain Woodward, 1730-31 (?). An act of assembly appointed Samuel Woodward, Esq., powder receiver of Brunswick county, North Carolina, 1739. He died March 13, 1752. He married (first) Elizabeth ———; (second) Sarah, daughter of Edward Cannon. Children: Samuel; Edward; Richard, of further mention; Elizabeth, Richard Woodward, son of Samuel Woodward, married, in 1752, Abigail White, and removed to Portsmouth, Virginia. Children: Francis, served in the continental army, as private in Captain William Hoffen's company, First Virginia Regiment; John, a private in Captain George Vashenn's company, died in service; Richard, of further mention.

Richard Woodward, son of Richard and Abigail (White) Woodward, married Jemima ———, and had children: William, born in 1779; James, of further mention; John, born October 27, 1793.

James Woodward, son of Richard and Jemima Woodward, was born September 19, 1791, and died May 24, 1845. He married, December 10, 1817, Mary, a daughter of James and Elizabeth (Cowling) Vaughn. They had children: 1. Richard Lafayette, born October 2, 1824, died August 13, 1864. He married, December 27, 1854, Missouri, daughter of Miles Lassiter, and had children: Henry B.; Mary M., married Judge R. H. Rawles, of Suffolk, Virginia; Richard L. 2. James, of further mention. 3. Thomas C. 4. William B. 5. Ann Eliza. 6. Elmo. 7. Martha Virginia.

James Woodward, son of James and Mary (Vaughn) Woodward, was born in Suffolk, Virginia, in 1826, and died in Portsmouth, Virginia, in 1876. He was educated in private schools and Suffolk Academy, and was engaged in farming until the outbreak of the civil war, when he enlisted in the Confederate army. He was a member of the Thirteenth Regiment, Virginia Cavalry, being assigned to Chalmer's Brigade, and later under General J. E. B. Stuart, the dashing cavalry leader, participated in all the battles fought by the Stuart brigade. He shirked no duty, was always at his post, serving three years and four months. He was miraculously preserved from death in battle, once being shot through the crown of his hat, and again struck by a minie ball in the breast, an old daguerreotype of the family which he carried with him, preventing the ball from entering his body. His military service continued until the surrender at Appomattox, although the last week of his service was spent as a prisoner of war. He was on the march, but he and a few of his comrades stopped to prepare a simple meal of hoe cakes, when they were surrounded by the Federals, taken prisoners and taken to Point Lookout Prison. His experiences as a cavalryman were varied and most thrilling; he bore a charmed life, but while escaping the bullets of his enemies, he did not escape the effects of privation and exposure, and he returned to his family broken in health, and he did not recover sufficiently to enter business life until four years later. He then engaged in the retail grocery business in Portsmouth, Virginia, for a short time, when ill health compelled his retirement a few years prior to his death. He was devoted to his home and family, and had no interest in societies, clubs or in political life. He was an attendant at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Woodward married, December 29, 1852, Maria P. Harrell, born July 27, 1835, died May 1, 1900. Children: Restonica, born August 10, 1854, married, February 27, 1884, James Hoskins Jones, died, November 17, 1892; Mary Middleton, born April 12, 1858, married, April 30, 1878, William Aurelius Wrenn (q. v.); William James, of further mention.

William James Woodward, only son of James and Maria P. (Harrell) Woodward, was born in Portsmouth, Virginia, October 15, 1860. He attended private schools until fourteen years of age, and then began business life as clerk in the office of Crookston & Smith, lumber dealers. He remained with this firm five years, then, in 1879, went with the firm Upshur & Henderson for one year, then in succession with Gurley, Hardison & Company, and Gurley & Brother, all these firms being engaged in the lumber business. In 1887 Mr. Woodward commenced his long connection with the firm of Nottingham & Wrenn, coal and lumber dealers, a connection that has now existed more than a quarter of a century. In 1891 the firm was incorporated as The Nottingham & Wrenn Company, Mr. Woodward then becoming manager of the lumber department. In 1910 he was elected secretary and manager, which dual position he now fills. He is thoroughly the energetic, capable man of business, understands every detail of the large business he manages, and possesses a whole-souled, generous disposition that wins and holds all who come in contact with him. He is a member of many clubs and societies, is past sachem of Minerva Tribe, Order of Red Men; past consul of Woodmen of the World; member of the Improved Order of Heptasophs; Hampton Roads Yacht Club; the Hoo-Hoo Lumber Organization; Norfolk Board of Trade, and the Business Men's Association. He is a Democrat in politics, and in religion is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, being a member of the board of stewards, and having served for nine years as treasurer of the church.

Mr. Woodward married, June 26, 1882, Augusta Virginia Minter, born July 24, 1862, a daughter of Augustus C. and Mary Virginia (Crocker) Minter, of Norfolk, Virginia. Her maternal grandfather, Captain David Crocker, born in Boston, Massachusetts, February 22, 1804, died April 10, 1874, was a sea captain, as was her father, Mr. Minter. Captain Crocker married Mary Isetta Henry, born in 1804, died in July, 1880. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward had children: 1. James, born in Norfolk, Virginia, September 7, 1883, was educated at Norfolk Academy and Randolph-Macon College, and after a business course of two years, he entered the employ of the Norfolk National Bank. In 1913 he entered the employ of the Nottingham & Wrenn Company with his father. He is a young man of high standing, is master of Atlantic Lodge, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons; is a companion of Norfolk Chapter, Royal Arch Masons; a cryptic Mason, Norfolk Council, Royal and Select Masters; a sir knight of Grice Commandery, Knights Templar, and a noble of Khedive Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He is a member and active in the Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday school, and in politics is a Democrat. 2. Mary Middleton. 3. William Harold, was born in Norfolk, Virginia, May 10, 1890. He was educated at Norfolk Academy and Fishburn Military School, entering busines life under his father, with the Nottingham & Wrenn Company.

Everett Webb Gee, M. D. Dr. Gee descends from an old Virginia family, long seated in Lunenburg county, where his grandfather, Everett Gee, a wealthy planter and slave owner, born in 1800, lived to a good old age. His wife, also a Gee, bore him eight children, of whom three are yet living: Joseph, living near Williamsburg, West Virginia; Charles, near Ronceverte, West Virginia; Carrie, at Blackstone, Virginia.

Edward Crimes Gee, M. D., a son of Everett Gee, was born in Lunenburg county, Virginia, in 1837, died October 1, 1893. He practiced his profession in his native county and was also the proprietor of a mercantile establishment at Lochleven. During the entire period of the war between the states he was officially connected with the Richmond hospitals, caring for the soldiers. He married, in 1859, Frances, daughter of Garner Webb, a farmer of Lunenburg

MAJOR BENJAMIN WOODWARD AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

By Theron Royal Woodward, Chicago, Ill.
Life Member o N. E. H. & G. Society.

1. Major Benjamin Woodward, a gentleman residing in Chester, England, raised a regiment or body of troops about 1649–50, and led them to Ireland, where he fought under Oliver Cromwell, Lord High Protector of England. Many estates were confiscated, and large grants were made in Ireland to those who had assisted in overturning the rebellion. Among others a large tract of land was awarded to Major Benjamin Woodward. Major Woodward abandoned the cause of the Parliament early in 1660, and welcomed the accession of Charles the Second in that year. General Monk, afterwards Duke of Albemarle, had been sometime planing the return of Charles, and was supported by Major Woodward and most of the army. Edmund Ludlow, one time Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and in 1660 Member of Parliament, says in his Memoirs (1698), vol. II, p. 849, that Captain Walton who had been an officer in Ludlow's Regiment, went towards Chester in the interest of the Commonwealth (1660), and being within twelve miles of that place, he sent a letter to Major Woodward, of whose fidelity to the Parliament he thought himself sure; but so great a change had the late turn wrought in men's minds that the Major gave Captain Wolcot's letter to Colonel Redman, who by General Monk's order then commanded the Irish Brigade, and who immediately sent a party of horse who seized the Captain, but gave him an opportunity to escape. Charles landed at Dover, May 25, 1660, and after his accession the main question in Ireland was how to satisfy alike the recent English immigrants who had received lands from Cromwell, and the Irish proprietors who had been deprived of their lands in favor of the intruders. In 1661, at the King's desire, an Act of Settlement was passed attempting to satisfy as many as possible of both parties, but as the Irish House of Commons was filled with men of English descent and Protestant religion, the English continued to maintain much of what they had taken with the strong hand. Thus Major Benjamin Woodward held the Irish estates which were given him by Cromwell.

These lands were situated in Meath and West Meath Counties and were entailed, yet subject to an annual tax of three pence per acre. In consequence of the war and other reasons, large tracts of these lands were not cultivated and did not yield any income, and as the taxes continued to accumulate, the Woodwards relinquished some of their rights. A portion of the estate was transferred to the Marquis of Headford, ancestor to the Duke of Wellington, and the city of Kells occupies some of the old Woodward lands. The family retained the De Mesne or

Manor of Drumbarrow near the city of Kells in County Meath. This large and productive estate has only recently passed out of the Woodward name. Most of the following records are taken from the old family Bible dated 1603. We have many facts preserved in manuscript written by magnates of the family, and there is no question but what this line of Woodwards were legitimate descendants of the nobility of England. Major Benjamin Woodward died Jan. 15, 1702. His children from family Bible:

2 i. Joseph,[2] b. Oct. 25, 1654; d. May 20, 1726.
ii. Elizabeth, b. Aug. 11, 1662.
iii. John, b. Nov. 4, 1664.

2. JOSEPH[2] WOODWARD (Benjamin[1]). He was known as "Black Joe." He m. (1) Ann Clements, Jan. 14, 1705; d. March 20, 1705; m. (2) Mary Parkinton, Aug. 20, 1706; d. Dec. 12, 1717; m. (3) Mary Elwood, Aug. 13, 1719. He resided at Drumbarrow Manor where his children were born as follows:

i. Peter,[3] b. July 12, 1707; d. July 23, 1707.
ii. Joseph, b. Oct. 24, 1709, d. Nov. 7, 1709.
3 iii. Benjamin, b. Nov. 20, 1710; d. Jan. 9, 1761.
iv. Abigail, b. Feb. 6, 1713.
v. Joseph, b. Oct. 1, 1716; d. Sept. 10, 1747, at Wilmington, N. C.

vii. Mary (twin); b. Dec. 1; 1717.
viii. Samuel, b. May 16, 1720.

3. BENJAMIN[3] WOODWARD (Joseph,[2] Benjamin[1]). He was generally known and spoken of as "Big Ben," and in the family pedigree is so designated. He m. Judith Meredyth, Oct. 20, 1733; she was a sister of Sir John Meredyth, and first cousin to the Earl of Farnham. Benjamin succeeded to the estate on the death of his father. In celebrating the Battle of the Boyne, he was badly wounded by the bursting of a cannon July 1, but lingered until Jan. 9, 1761, following, when he died. His wife d. Dec. 12, 1779. Children:

i. Judith,[4] b. May 3, 1738; m. (1) a brother of the Earl of Bective; m. (2) the Earl of Antrim, whose son was afterwards the Marquis of Antrim. She owned a large estate a few miles from Dublin, and d. in 1824, at her home in Middle Gardner St., Dublin.
4 ii. Charles, b. Jan. 1, 1740; d. Jan. 9, 1793.
iii. Thomas, b. March 26, 1742. He was doubtless in the naval service, as he was killed by a cannon ball while on board the Elizabeth near the fort at St. Davids, April 29, 1758.
iv. Joseph, b. Oct. 27, 1743; d. March 15, 1745.
v. Catherine, b June 29, 1749; d. Feb. 17, 1769.
5 vi. Benjamin, b. July 19, 1750; d. at Charlton Mackrell, Somersetshire, Eng., Jan. 16, 1816. His grave is in the churchyard, 14 paces south of the Cathedral tower, and 3 paces north of a small pine tree, and just east of the graves of the Penny family.

4. Rev. Dr. Charles[4] Woodward (Benjamin,[3] Joseph,[2] Benjamin[1]). Heir to the manorial estate of Drumbarrow. He was a rector of the Church of England, and his monument, erected by his children, stands in the Parish church in Kells. He m. (1) Sept. 8, 1764, Esther Waite, dau. of Hon. Thomas and Lucy (Grant) Waite, the Secretary of the Governor-General of Ireland, and member of the Privy Council. She d. Aug. 5, 1776. He m. (2) June 18, 1780, Elizabeth Minchin; who d. Nov. 19, 1788. Children born at the Manor house, Drumbarrow:

i. Benjamin,[5] b. June 24, 1765 (godmother Lady Farnham); d. July 25, 1776.
ii. Esther, b. June 18, 1766 (godfather Lord Bective); she m. William Grant, and d. Feb. 12, 1830.
iii. John Paine, b. April 18, 1767; d. Oct. 19, 1767.
iv. Catherine, b. Dec. 23, 1769 (godmother Lady Antrim).
v. Judith, b. Oct. 17, 1771.
6 vi. Henry, b. Sept. 24, 1775; d. Nov. 22, 1838.
vii. Charles, b. July 29, 1781. He m. Mary Stenison. He was a captain in the Royal Meath County Regiment. Our minutes of him are very brief, and only one child is mentioned:
i. Charles,[6] a lawyer of Dublin, who m. 1839, Alicia Hamos, and had: Charles Roland,[7] b. 1842, a surgeon in the Queensland Government service; Richard Caleb,[7] b. 1843; m. Frances Kellet, and has: Charles,[8] and probably others; Mary Olivia,[7] b. 1845.

5. Benjamin[4] Woodward (Benjamin,[3] Joseph,[2] Benjamin[1]). He was a merchant at Dublin, Ireland. In 1798, in consequence of the rebellion, he sold his possessions in Ireland and removed to Charlton, Somersetshire, England, where he died. He m. (1) a Miss Boyd, dau. of a British merchant residing at Bordeaux, France. She d. in child-birth. Ten years later he m. Elizabeth Grant, Jan. 7, 1783; she d. at Hector, N. Y., April, 1848, aged 86, having survived her husband 32 years. She was dau. of John Grant, of St. Anstle, in Cornwall, England. She descended from a long line of titled ancestry. She was grand-daughter of Archdeacon Grant, of Exeter, who m. a dau. of Stephen Weston, Bishop of Exeter, whose father was also a Bishop. Her great-grandfather was rector of a church in Fleet St., London. The Earl of Buckingham, when Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, acknowledged her as his relative, and gave her brother William his first commission in the army. When nearly 80 years old she wrote as follows from Hector, N. Y.:

"My father died when 38 and left his five children with small fortunes. I was kept in school from 6 to 18, my last year being at Mrs. Hannah More's, where French alone was spoken. When 18 I went to my father's sister, Aunt Waite, and was at once ushered into the first circles of Ireland. I spent three years with her, one in Bath, and one in London, and we spent a life of, alas, great gayety and grandeur. My Aunt Waite was wife of Hon. Thomas Waite, one of the Secretaries of Dublin Castle, and Privy Councilor to his Majesty, George Third. She was Housekeeper to Dublin Castle, and Keeper of the Royal Robes. They had seats in the Royal Chapel. My brother William was Captain in the 19th British Infantry. Served in America, in Holland with the Duke of York, and in the Indies. A sister of my grandmother (Weston) married Archdeacon Baker, of Exeter, whose son, Sir George Baker, was physician to Queen Charlotte for many years. A brother was Archdeacon Weston, afterward one of the "Golden Prebends," as they were called from their great income. My uncle Weston was Secretary to George 2d, and after to George 3d, and took my brother Edward when he was 8 years old. The wife of Thomas Shorlock, Bishop of London, was my great-aunt, and Dean Fountain, of York, married another of my aunts. Sir Charles Gould, Master of the Horse, was a relative of ours and a number of the great folks of Wales; of their grandeur I have heard, but nothing of their saint-ship. King George often went over to his beloved Hanover and always took my uncle Weston with him. We are descended from William of Wykeham, and any one of my family, if sent to Westminister school for two years, could enter Oxford. I made out the whole pedigree with the assistance of Simon, the old Earl of Harcourt and his dear lady, who took great pains to help us. I have many rich, and some noble relatives, who were very intimate with "Miss Grant" and "My dear cousin," until I refused a very great offer, and gave my hand and heart to a very respectable foreign merchant, when I was not of rank sufficient for them."

After the death of her husband she came with her son John and family to America. They sailed in the ship Acaster, Capt. Chadwick, the day after Good Friday, April, 1825. The first week they failed to get out of sight of land, the next six weeks were spent on the ocean, and after sighting land, it was a week before they reached the pier in New York. They then went by a barge, towed by a steamer, to Albany, thence by the Erie Canal to Cayuga Bridge, and after being towed up Lake Cayuga, they were poled up the inlet to Ithica. They then proceeded through the woods to Hector, Schuyler Co., New York, where John had purchased a farm. Here they settled, living in a log house, and suffering all the privations incident to a new country. Children, some probably born in Dublin, Ireland, were:

i. Benjamin,[6] b. Oct. 25, 1783 (godmother Aunt Dowager Countess Antrim). Captain in the 9th Regt. of Native Infantry; d. 1806, in Bengal, East Indies, between Madrass and Singapore.

THE BARNES FAMILY OF EASTHAMPTON, L. I.

By RICHARD WYNKOOP.

There are several families of Barnes, in these United States, and they cannot be traced to a common origin here. And it would be difficult, and probably impossible, to find a common source for them in England, from which country they came. They are found in Cambridgeshire, Norfolkshire, Hampshire, Gloucestershire, and Dorsetshire.* Charles, who is claimed herein, as the progenitor of the Easthampton Barnes, was from Norfolkshire, and it is probable that Joshua was his brother.

The name appears with the termination in e s, also as s with-

SOME DE GROVE POSTERITY.

CONTRIBUTED BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

It appears from the Report of the Commissioners of the Land Office of the State of New York, dated April 1, 1835, found among some family papers, that Edward W.[4] DeGrove petitioned them, in pursuance of the 23d Section of "An Act concerning Escheats" passed April 29, 1833, for a release of No. 33 Wall St., which had escheated to the people of the State for lack of an heir-at-law capable of inheriting the estate (of which this realty was part) of his cousin Rachel[3] Anderson, who married Capt. Thomas White and lived only a brief space thereafter. "White," says Valentine's Manual, 1860, p. 543, was "a wealthy Englishman then (1762) lately become a resident of this City." He bought that year the corner of Broadway and Ann St., the quondam site of Barnum's Museum and later of the Herald Building. With his second wife Ann, he joined in selling the corner plot of this purchase to Andrew Hopper, April 20, 1773 (L. 40, 359) and Aug. 10, 1784, Ann, the widow, conveyed to the same grantee (L. 42, 167) land adjoining "on the southerly side of a certain Street lately laid out and intended to be opened by the said Ann White leading from the Commons to Nassau St., and intended to be called and known by the name of White St." Various have been the surmises made to account for the origin of the name of Ann St. Let us hazard the assertion that as Ann opened it, very naturally it assumed her name after her husband's death.

Peter DeGrove and Rebecca his wife, conveyed the property No. 33 Wall St., in 1746, to their son-in-law John Anderson for £180, so says the petition (deed not of record) and the latter's daughter Rachel, who became the wife of Capt. White, inherited it. In 1779 Capt. Thomas White was attainted of adhering to the enemies of this State and his estate escheated to the people. (1 Greenleaf, 26; Laws of 1779, Chap. XXV, Sec. 1.) Pultney of England. He acquired his title from Robert Morris. Morris in turn had received his title from Phelps and Gorham. They had bought for the sum of $100. 000, that area of Western New York, from the state of Massachusetts on Nov. 21, 1788. Phelps and Gorham had previously purchased the title to this land from the Indians. Steuben county was surveyed in the summer of 1789.

In the early days, the Cohocton River was navigable from its mouth on to the 22 mile tree in the northern part of Cohocton, or Atlanta as it later became known. While it was navigable, many rafts of grain and lumber went down to the Cheaspeake. During the Revolutionary War, canoes on the Cohocton and the Canestio Rivers carried Indians and Torries from Fort Niagara down to the Susquehanna to raid frontier settlements. Cohocton was one of the early lumber points, with rafts being sent out by Jonas Cleland, James Woodward, Calvin Blood. (8) It is believed that Richard Hooker was the earliest settler in Cohocton. Around 1791, he set out from Baltimore for the northern country. He had been a wealthy plantation owner, but had become a Quaker, sold his land and gave his 100 slaves their freedoom. Two slaves went north with his family of four sons and seven daughters. (9) Mr. Hooker had expected to reach the Genesee River at the General Wadsworth's settlement, but conditions forced them to spend the winter in what is now the town of Cohocton. When spring came with no forage to buy for his horses, he decided to remain He died February 10, 1801. (10)

Another pioneer was Joseph Biven, who in 1794 built the first tavern at the 22 mile tree mark. When he married Sarah Hooker, Richard Hooker's daughter, in 1798, it was Cohocton's first marriage. Their daughter Bethuel, was born in 1801, was the first white child born in the town. (11) Later Biven built a house in North Cohocton, which in 1815 was sold to Samuel Hartwell. About this time a Frenchman, by the name of Liancourt was traveling through the wilderness and passing by this region June 1795 left this description in his diary;

> ". . . Two miles on this side of Biven's house we had observed the commencement of a range of mountains which appeared to us to separate, in these parts the waters of the Susquehanna from those of the lakes. (Finger Lakes) After we passed the above English settlement near Bath, we met with no habitation but at a distance of eighteen, twenty, and twenty-two miles." 12

In 1822, James Woodward came here from Vermont, with a large family of sons. One son, Aruna, settled on the Hooker homestead and kept a tavern, called the Half Way House between Bath and Dansville. (13) Guy McMaster describes in his book the reactions of a traveller who is with two companions, a land agent from Bath and a foreigner.

> ". . . A short distance from the house was a fine looking young man. . . He was dressed in a tow-frock and trousers, with his head and feet bare. He asked us to dismount and rest ourselves, urging that the distance to the next house was six miles. . . The wife was a pretty young woman dressed in a coarse loose dress, and bare footed. . . The house was 20 by 30 feet

WOODWARD

EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD was born about 1624, since in 1672 he deposed[2] that he was about fifty-eight years old. He evidently emigrated to New England by or before* 1650 since he is said[1] to have acquired land in Boston in 1651, and since in November, 1668, he deposed at Salem that he had known Thomas Wells, then a defendant, for seventeen or eighteen years. His life until about 1660 was spent at Boston where he had married about 1650 as his first wife ANNE[2] BEAMSLEY (see Beamsley, p. 85), the mother of all of his children. On September 14, 1658, the day that WILLIAM[1] BEAMSLEY made his will he also signed a confirmatory deed to EZEKIEL[1] and his wife ANNE of a portion of the BEAMSLEY home lot (see map, p. 31) on which the young couple had lived about seven years, worded as follows:[3]

> "Whereas there was a form[r] graunt giuen by me WILLIAM BEAMSLAY, vnto my Daughter ANNE WOODWARD now the wife of EZEKIELL WOODWARD of a Certaine house and Orchard, as it is now fenced in wherein they haue liued, Seaven yeares, or thereabouts, I doe now againe Confirme the aforesaid graunt, vnto the aforesaid EZEKIELL WOODWARD & his wife, & to them & to heires foreuer, & also a little Coming in of his new house into my Garden, w[ch] is a matter of a foote, that, that also may not be altered, but he shall quietly enjoy it, so farr as the house Stands and no further, and further that he shall haue libertie to wharfe vpon the flatts, So broad as betweene my Gate post, and his outmost bounds next to m[r] Hollyoack w[ch] is a matter of twentie fowre foote or thereabouts, Provided that the said EZEKIELL WOODWARD shall not erect any building or frame neare my house, whereby to darken any lights about my house, neither in my dayes nor in my wifes nor shall he let my Brother Coop or Smith haue a shope vpon this Side the Streete, whereon my house stands, w[ch] may disturbe or annoy my house neither in my dayes nor my wifes Boston 14th of September 1658.
> WILLIAM BEAMSLEY."

WILLIAM[1] BEAMSLEY died two weeks later, on September 29 and on October 28, 1658, his will[4] was probated. EZEKIEL[1] and ANNE retained the ownership of this property when they removed to Ipswich about 1660 but under date of August 14, 1662, they deeded it to Thaddeus Riddan of Lynn using, in part, the following description:[3]

> ". . . a peice or parcell of land, conteining in the front Twenty fowe[r] ffoote and in the reare, twenty & Seuen foote & a halfe. foote more or lesse. & in length one hundred fourty & Eight foote more or lesse together w[th] the dwelling house & workhouse one part thereof Standing the wharfe before it & priviledge of Beech & flatts vnto. the lowe water according to the Towne graunt to lands so lying the sajd land. & house bounded by the lands of Martha Beamsley Widdow (of WILLIAM[1] deceased) on the no[r]theast & No[r]thwest . . ."

*One writer says[30] that EZEKIEL[1] "witnessed Pemberton's deed in 1648."

EZEKIEL[1] signed with his mark, and ANNE by her initial "A", and they acknowledged[3] their marks on August 15, 1662.

EZEKIEL[1], whose trade was carpentry, is not recorded as having taken any part in public affairs during the ten years he lived in Boston nor as having church membership nor freemanhip but five of their nine children were born during that period so ANNE was a busy woman and EZEKIEL[1] must have been active in his carpentry to have cared for them all. One more contact of this family with Boston is of record, namely the settlement of the estate of WILLIAM[1] BEAMSLEY whose will[4] had required that after the death of his wife his property should be appraised, sold and the proceeds equally divided between his living children and Edward[3] Bushnell, son of his second wife.* As a result, his six children including ANNE and her husband, with Edward[3] Bushnell deeded[3] to Key Alsop on November 16, 1668, for £200 (with the consent of the trustees named in the testator's will) the houses, orchard, yards, garden &c which had been the home of WILLIAM[1] BEAMSLEY and them all. EZEKIEL[1] and ANNE WOODWARD acknowledged[3] their signatures on November 17, 1668.

Henceforth our relationships to the WOODWARD family appear only in Essex County. EZEKIEL[1], as of Ipswich, in March, 1661, paid £60 to Ralph Dix for a tract[5] of two and one-half acres and a house "by the smaller falls" and near the Great Bridge[8,10] which was built in 1672. He lived in this property, which was bounded on the northeast and southeast by Mill River, for about ten years, but in October, 1672, after the death of wife ANNE and about the time of his own removal to Wenham, EZEKIEL[1] sold a part of the Ipswich tract[5] to Shoreborne Wilson and sold the house and remainder of the lot in 1679. In 1664 EZEKIEL[1] with most of the other colonists had become greatly concerned at the arrival of the Commissioners sent over by the King to enforce his requirements on various points (see Appendix "B", p. 694). The report of the Commissioners to the King was critical, and the safety and continuance of the charter to the colony was threatened as a result. A letter from the King necessitated a careful reply which was prepared in September, 1666. It took the form of a petition from each of the several towns, the one from Ipswich[8] bearing seventy-three names included those of EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD, DANIEL[2] WARNER and JOHN[2] PERKINS. These petitions protested complete loyalty and were followed by a gift to the King of a shipload of masts for the royal navy, which cost the colony £1,600 sterling for the freight.[11] These proceedings put off, for the time being, the threat of loss of the charter.

By 1664 the town of Ipswich had come to consider the desirability of individual ownership of grazing lands instead of their use in common, so it was voted[8] that Plum Island, Hogg Island and Castle Neck (see map, p. 209) should be divided to the residents in proportion to the taxes they paid. Those who did not pay more than six shillings eight pence in personal and property tax were to be entitled to a single share; those whose tax did not exceed sixteen shillings were to have a share and a half; while all whose tax exceeded sixteen shillings, together with their magistrates, minister and schoolmaster were to have double shares.[8] EZEKIEL[1] acquired a single share on Plum Island.[7] The town in 1665 voted[8] that oak and walnut trees were not to be cut without permission, but that same year EZEKIEL[1] was given permission[7] to cut certain trees. In 1666 EZEKIEL[1], Nathaniel Piper and Nathaniel Tredwell were given liberty to build a gallery in the church for their families' use, which was undoubtedly the one about which a frivolous* "poem" was written several years later.

In April, 1667, EZEKIEL[1] was taken sharply to task[9] "for his great offense in affronting the constables in the execution of their office." The court ruled that he should be fined or make a public acknowledgment of his fault on the next lecture day, and he is recorded[9] as having chosen the latter. The conditions concerned the punishment of four young men who had torn up a bridge and were sentenced each to sit for an hour in the stocks and then be returned to jail until a £3 fine was paid for each of them. While they were in the stocks the citizenry including EZEKIEL[1] evidently crowded around, and two constables ordered them to "keep further off" and presumably pushed EZEKIEL[1], for he was quoted as saying to them that "it was the King's ground, that he had a right to stand there as well as they, and if they thrust him again he would sett them further off." Another witness claimed that EZEKIEL[1] said to one of the constables "what will you? breed a mutanye[7] and if you had stroake me, I would a laid you over the head!"[9]†

On June 1, 1667, it was "agreed with EZEKIEL WOODUARD and Freegrace Norton to gett and hew the [two hundred feet of] timber for the meeting house roof"[8] and in June, 1668, EZEKIEL[1] entered into a contract with the selectmen to shingle the meeting house.[7]

By means of the quarrelsome episode over the so-called "poem" (vide supra) which appears to have been a tempest in a teapot, we are able to deduce that ANNE (BEAMSLEY) WOODWARD was living in late 1670 or very early 1671 but she soon died, though no recorded date is found, for by 1672 EZEKIEL[1] removed from Ipswich to Wenham where the rest of his life was spent and he married there,[12,14] secondly, on December 20, 1672, the widow Elizabeth Solart. The removal of EZEKIEL[1] to Wenham is verified by the action at a town meeting there on July 18, 1673, when he and six others were appointed[13] a committee to build a home for the minister and to make a rate for defraying the cost thereof. In June, 1673, EZEKIEL[1] had started legal action[16] against Samuel Hunt and his wife

*These verses[9] were entitled "The Galery" and were signed "J. L. and N. W." which is believed to have pertained to Nathaniel[3] Warner (DANIEL[2], WILLIAM[1]). They were intended as a "take off" on certain persons, either named or hinted at, who occupied one of the galleries . . . presumably the one built in 1666 by EZEKIEL[1], Nathaniel[1] Piper and Nathaniel Tredwell. On March 7, 1670–1, Nathaniel Piper gave a letter of attorney to John Brewer of Ipswich to prosecute a complaint against Nathaniel[3] Warner and Simon[2] Stacy for libel that was published by them or others and they two were fined. Simon[2] Stacy had found the verses in his barn but Nathaniel[3] Warner had possession of them, and in 1671 had been reading them to a group gathered at Goodman Bridge's house. As he read he would interpolate: "this hints to goode norton & this hints to goode sparks & this hints to goode Brewer & such a thing yt hints to goode rust & there was goode WOODWARD & her daughter Ann[s] names in it." JOHN[2] DANE was accused by some as being the author but he commented, "I warrant yuw the writing will not Come to light, thou [though] pyper and WOODWARD and Norton Thinks that I had a hand in it . . ." and added that the complainants "make themselues Redgeolus amongst men, for If that they koold get the Ryting, then they Think that the Ryting being found and Coms to Sylhgt, that then they shall know the hand that writ it."[9]

The poem about the new gallery mentioned the names of several other persons who supposedly were seated therein, including Goody Kinderick and Goody Peters; while at the end of every verse Warner read "Set aside M[r] such a one," naming the women, "Goode Rust, mother WOODWARD & Ann pray find me such three agayn if ye can."[9]

While these young men sat in the stocks another citizen, Thomas Bishop, offended the official dignity by protesting that the penalties dealt out to them were too severe. He was fined and ordered also to make a public acknowledgment; and though EZEKIEL[1] is recorded[19] as having chosen the acknowledgment, he is also recorded[19] as having joined Bishop and one of the young men in paying a fine which totaled £10-12-10.

Elizabeth and against Nathaniel Browne and his wife Judith for slander against his daughter Elizabeth[2] Woodward. It also develops that in March, 1674, one Thomas Davis aged about twenty-six stole[14] a bag of nails from the bark of Nathaniel[1] Piper, brought them to his shop, hid them under a heap of coals and later sold most of them. He sold 8500 shingle nails to EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD the carpenter for three shillings four pence per thousand. He sold six hundred board nails and six-penny nails to Quarter Master JOHN[2] PERKINS and more to other men.[14] Davis was ordered to be whipped and to pay all charges.

The service of EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD in King Philip's War of 1675–6, though he was resident at Wenham, seems to have been accredited to Ipswich where he had lived from about 1660 until 1671–2. He served in the regiment of Capt. (later Maj.) Samuel Appleton[17] having £5–17 already due him by December 10, 1675. Then he, with the rest of the army of one thousand men (the largest which had been gathered in New England up to that time) marched to Dedham Plain where the men were promised a bonus of land "if they played the man, took the Fort, and Drove the Enemy out of the Narragansett Country, which was their seat . . ."[18]

They made their way south to Wickford (see map, p. 618) in early December, 1675, carrying on their backs such slight equipment as had been provided. They had no tents, nor even sufficient food and had to depend largely upon the beneficence of the settlers they passed (see Upham, p. 627). On December 18–9, 1675, occurred the trip through deepening snows from Wickford to the Narragansett camp, the terrific six hour battle there and the staggering task of the return to Wickford through the darkness, with the uninjured carrying the dead and wounded.[17] "Several weeks of partial inactivity ensued, while both the English and the Indians were seeking to recover somewhat from the severe blow each had received."[18] The Massachusetts men remained during this interim at Smith's garrison at Wickford awaiting reinforcements while the Indians worked their way north and west to the Nipmuck country through what is now Woodstock, Connecticut, heading for the old Quaboag Fort (Brookfield, see map, p. 618). About January 28 the colonists began a pursuit of the Indians. But presently, Gen. Winslow finding his provisions so scanty, his men so worn, and no prospect of bringing the enemy to battle, decided to abandon the pursuit and ordered a return to Boston (via Marlborough) which the infantry reached on February 5, 1676. Provisions had been so short that the army had killed and eaten many of their horses and this march was thenceforth called the "Hungry March."[17] As has been told, the injury sustained by Lt. PHINEAS[2] UPHAM at the Swamp Fight, closed the campaign for him but as far as is known, EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD, AMBROSE[2] DAWES and EDWARD[1] HARRADEN all took part[17] in this "Hungry March." In the Narragansett Campaign EZEKIEL[1] was listed as a Sergeant (acting Ensign) and on February 29, 1675–6, had £2–4–0 due him.[17] In 1735 when the bonus of land (which had been promised the soldiers in 1675 on Dedham Plain) was finally given out, his portion fell at what became Buxton, Maine where two lots were drawn on the right of EZEKIEL[1] WOODWARD but were claimed by one John Fowle and a third lot was claimed[17] by Joshua Coffin, as assignees or purchasers no doubt.

EZEKIEL[1] was chosen one of the two surveyors of highways in Wenham in 1678; in 1680 was one of four[13] to see to shingling the pastor's house "with all conveniancie," and he continued to serve the public needs of the town as to carpentry in 1689 and in 1693–7, both inclusive, being paid each of those years from the town funds for "Expences about the Townes buisness" and in one case he received also "a wood Rate of thirtey Cords . . ."[13]

Soon after his second marriage EZEKIEL[1] was first licensed in March, 1673, to keep the ordinary in Wenham (but one was permitted by law) for one year and to "draw liquor," which proves to have been beer and "sider," for that period but this permission was granted annually thenceforth until March, 1680, which implies heavy work for his wife Elizabeth until her death[12] on February 3, 1678. During his life with widow Elizabeth they occupied at least a part of the property which had belonged to her first husband, John Solart, and EZEKIEL[1] continued to occupy it after her death, paying a rental of £3 for it during at least a part of this time, and as a consequence was involved in a series of law suits[15] with the executor and the heirs of Solart from April, 1679, until November, 1682. In September, 1681, EZEKIEL[1], as well as Isaac[2] Hull (ISAAC[1] see Dawes–Gates II, 467), one of the heirs, agreed to abide by arbitration[15] and in November, 1682, the court granted a petition of the heirs for a division of the estate of John[1] Solart. On February 27, 1687–8 "with the consent of his [third] (vide infra) wife Sarah", EZEKIEL[1] deeded[31] to the heirs of John Solart all the land of Solart's which was in his possession. He must have been thankful to be rid of the matter. As late as 1685 an exchange of land in the neck involved[13] an eighteen acre tract of which seven acres had belonged to Solart and eleven acres belonged to EZEKIEL[1], which would probably have further complicated their business relations. In November, 1680, EZEKIEL[1] became a surety[15] for Walter Fairfield (who had acted as executor of the estate of John Solart) and that year also refrained from asking for a license to run the ordinary for the coming year so that Fairfield might run one in order to earn extra money to complete his new house.[16] EZEKIEL[1] petitioned on March 22, 1682, for a renewal of the licenses which he had held for seven previous years, explaining that in 1681 he passed it up to help Fairfield and because of the uncertainty of his continued use of the Solart house (on account of the heirs' legal action). Now however, he requested that he "may keepe a house of publique entertainment for the selling of beere, sider & prouvisions for horses and men" claiming that he was "disinabled by [for?] my labour, by means of much harme I got at the fire last at Boston: so that I am attended with the goute and other pains . . ." The selectmen of Wenham on March 27, 1682, granted his request because of "his inability of body (By Reason of Some Lameness) to follow his Caling" (carpentry). But Fairfield was unwilling to give up the license and pleaded that he be permitted to at least sell such liquor as he had on hand. That was granted him if he would close it out before the next term of court. Fairfield was peeved at the threatened loss of his position as inn-keeper and insolently claimed of EZEKIEL[1] that "as to his pretenc that he is disabled by the fier at Boston from his labor of body but it is most euident that it is the fier of enuie that moueth now for he did keep the ordinary since the fier at Boston and soe he Rejicted the ordenary since he Receued the hurt that he pretendeth to."[14] In September, 1682, a license was re-granted to EZEKIEL[1] in spite of the quarrel that had been carried on between him and Fairfield, who were complaining against each other for illegal selling of drink, until in November, 1682, the court fined them both.[19]

Intermediately, however, during the spring of 1679 (having lost his second wife Elizabeth in 1678) EZEKIEL[1] was married thirdly* to Sarah (Knowlton?) Piper, widow of Nathaniel[1] of Wenham, above mentioned, and thereby hangs a tale,[14] for she had been receiving attentions from one John Poland and may even have been engaged to marry him. After her marriage to EZEKIEL[1], certain men taunted Poland with having "lost his widow," asked how "WOODWARD got along with his new wife" etc. In order to "save his face" Poland began to peddle lies and on June 20, 1679, EZEKIEL[1] brought suit against Poland for defamation, for slandering him and his wife. The case came to trial in September, 1679, and witnesses testified that Poland had said the widow had a poor bargain with EZEKIEL[1] and she repented of it; that EZEKIEL[1] did not deserve her, and her friends wondered that she left Poland. Then Poland became intrigued with his subject and claimed that the widow's brother Knowlton "sayd to me y^t^ shee came To him slaubering & crying & sayd y^t^ she was undonne by maring WOODWARD: & That shee was very much Troubled That she had wronged me: y^t^ is poland & That she was not able To see me but watterd hir plants at The meetting at the very sight of me & did grately bemone hurself That shee should offer so much wrong To polend & That I derst not goe To The meetting at wenhem for every Time she see mee she is nott able to bare it but is ready for To swound away."[14]

A verdict was rendered in favor of EZEKIEL[1] and Poland was ordered to make acknowledgment of his fault so at this same court he "made open confession in court that he had done wrong to widow Piper, now the wife of EZEKIEL WOODWARD, in speaking the words to which the witnesses testified, and was sorry for it, desiring the court and them to forgive him"[16] — which seems an easy way out for him!

In March, 1693, liberty was granted[13] to EZEKIEL[1] to cut two hundred "Rayles" and posts and sometime before 1696 he sold to Joseph Fowler some Wenham land "cald Wild mans neck & Rootses meadow."[13]

During the later years of EZEKIEL[1] no record of activity on his part is seen but from at least April, 1692, until February, 1699, Goodwife (Sarah) Woodward ran an eating house, for on seven occasions during that period she "entertained" the selectmen[13] when they were annually "makeing the list of Assesment for the Countray Rates" and her receipts on these occasions ran from five shillings to fourteen shillings eightpence,[13] so she may have run the ordinary after EZEKIEL[1] became too feeble to do so. The date of her death has not been seen but EZEKIEL[1] died[12] at Wenham on January 29, 1698–9.

The children of EZEKIEL[1] and ANNE (BEAMSLEY) WOODWARD, the first five born in Boston and the others at Ipswich, were[5,6]

EZEKIEL[2] WOODWARD(Ezekiel[1]) was born[6] on August 9, 1666, at Ipswich, died[21] at Gloucester on January 13 or 16, 1743–4, aged seventy-three or "about 75." Among all of our American ancestors he takes first place as a much married man, having acquired as the years rolled by, five different wives. He married[23] first, probably at Ipswich and in or before 1697 HANNAH[4] PERKINS (see Perkins, p. 491) mother of all of his children; married secondly at Gloucester on April 15, 1719[21,24] our MARY (HASKELL) DAVIS, widow of JACOB[3] DAVIS; married thirdly,[24] there, on June 22, 1722, Rachel (Elwell) Haskell, widow of Joseph[3] Haskell (WILLIAM[2], WILLIAM[1]); married fourthly there on April 13, 1732, Mrs. Anna (——) Low called of Ipswich and finally married fifthly at Gloucester on November 24, 1740, Rebecca (——) Bennett widow of Anthony[3] Bennett (Anthony[2], ELINOR[1]). Most of the childhood of EZEKIEL[2] must have been spent in Wenham, since he would have been only about six years old when his father settled there. He testified[19] in November, 1682, at the age of about seventeen, in company with his father, that the wife of the erstwhile innkeeper, Walter Fairfield, had sold rum to an Indian. Since HANNAH, the first wife of EZEKIEL[2] was a member of an Ipswich family, their marriage probably occurred in that town, though no record of it is found nor of the birth of their eldest child, our EZEKIEL[3], in about 1697; but their removal to Gloucester must have occurred about 1701–2 since a child was recorded there in May, 1702. The earliest evidence of land ownership[22,24] in Gloucester by EZEKIEL[2] pertains to 1707 when he purchased from our JACOB[3] DAVIS a home and one hundred acres of land at Little River.

When their youngest child Stephen[3] would have been less than two years old EZEKIEL[2] lost his wife[21] HANNAH on February 2, 1718–9, aged about forty-three and the need of a housekeeper and caretaker may in some degree excuse him for marrying secondly our MARY (HASKELL) DAVIS (who had been widowed for over a year) in less than three months. In this family a rather unusual situation occurs of our claiming as forbears the first two wives of EZEKIEL[2], though descended from him through but one, for the first wife's son and the second wife's daughter decided to try what they could do in furnishing genealogical anomalies, or unique relationships, by their own marriage. We may reasonably infer from this marriage of the younger people, that widow MARY brought some of her own flock to the WOODWARD home. If this habit continued (see note below) EZEKIEL[2] and his father would both have needed sizable homes. MARY spent about two and a half years with EZEKIEL[2] until the dreadful smallpox took her life[21] on November 1, 1721, when she was about fifty-three years old. The disease probably affected others of the family and may account for unrecorded deaths of the younger children. The death dates of the three subsequent wives of EZEKIEL[2] have not been found.

The known children of EZEKIEL[2] and HANNAH (PERKINS) WOODWARD*, all but the first one recorded in Gloucester were[21]

*EZEKIEL[2] had nine children of his own by his first wife HANNAH. He became stepfather to seven children by his second wife, to eight more by his third wife, and to thirteen more by his fifth wife, beating his father's record by one stepchild!

EZEKIEL[3] WOODWARD (Ezekiel[2], Ezekiel[1]) was born about 1697, probably at Ipswich, died[21] at Gloucester on September 4, 1771, aged seventy-four, having married[21] there on November 30, 1720, as his first wife, ELIZABETH[4] DAVIS (see Davis, p. 283); and having married secondly at Gloucester[21] on March 18, 1767, Ruth (Riggs) Wellman.* The first school house at Gloucester was built[26] in 1708 at a cost of £24–15. Its dimensions were twenty-four by sixteen feet and previously school sessions had been held in the meeting house. This building would have served the children of EZEKIEL[3] and ELIZABETH. The family removed to and "settled at the Harbor about 1738 and carried on the fishing business. He [EZEKIEL[3]] was a deacon of the First Church several years, and otherwise a prominent citizen."[22] His service as deacon began[24] as early as 1762 and continued through his life.[21]

The children of EZEKIEL[3] and ELIZABETH (DAVIS) WOODWARD, all born at Gloucester were[21]

i. Elizabeth[4], b. Feb. 1, 1723–4; d. Apr. 4, 1730, ae. 4 yr. 1 mo.

(The Woodard Line)

The following material is largely furnished by Rev. D. H. Woodward, North Abington, Massachusetts, to whom credit is freely given. The name Woodward or Woodard is supposed to be a trade name, probably derived from the English common noun woodward. The Woodwards were park and forest keepers.

(I) Richard Woodward embarked at Ipswich, England, April 10, 1634, with his wife, Rose, and their two sons, George and John. He was forty-five years of age; was admitted a freeman, September 2, 1635, at Watertown, Massachusetts, and his name is on the earliest list of proprietors of that town. He owned fourteen lots of land amounting to over three hundred acres. His wife, Rose, died October 6, 1662, aged eighty years, and he soon after married Ann Gates, widow of Stephen Gates, of Cambridge, Massachusetts. His sons George and John were his administrators. (See Bond's History of Watertown, Massachusetts). He died February 16, 1664-65.

(II) George, son of Richard Woodward, was born in 1619. He was admitted a freeman at Watertown, Massachusetts, May 6, 1646. He was selectman in 1674, died May 31, 1676. (Bond's-Watertown). By his first wife, Mary, he had eight children: Mary, Sarah, Amos, Rebecca, John, Susanna, Daniel and Mary (probably Mercy). He married (second) Elizabeth Hammond, August 17, 1659, and they had five children: George, Thomas, Elizabeth, Nathaniel and Sarah.

(III) John, son of George Woodward, was born at Watertown, Massachusetts, March 28, 1649. He removed from Watertown to Newtown, Massachusetts, about 1675. He married (first) Rebecca, daughter of Richard Robbins; (second) Sarah Bancroft, who died September 22, 1723. He was a weaver by trade and owned and resided on a farm near Newton Upper Falls. He died November 3, 1732. His will dated February 26, 1727-28, mentions his children: John, Richard, Daniel and Jonathan, and heirs of his son Joseph, Ebenezer, Rebecca Hunting and Abigail Greenwood. Of these children, John, Richard and Joseph, settled in Connecticut early in the eighteenth century.

(IV) John (2), son of John (1) Woodward, was born in Newtown, Massachusetts, or possibly Watertown, Massachusetts, April 16, 1675. He married, January, 1698, Hannah Hyde, born March 1, 1677-78, died January 15, 1724. Children: Hannah, Mary, John, Ephraim and Deliverance. John Woodward married (second) Abigail ———. There is no record of any children. He was elected first deacon of the first church of Brooklyn, Connecticut, in the second quarter of the eighteenth century, and was moderator of the town meeting in Canterbury, December 10, 1717. His will dated April 15, 1743, mentions his wife, daughter Mary Cleveland, children of daughter Hannah Bacom, and sons John, Ephraim and Deliverance. He died April 1, 1767, at Brooklyn, Connecticut. (See "Larned's History of Windham county, Connecticut.")

(V) John (3), son of John (2) Woodward, was born at Newtown, Massachusetts, March 2, 1702, died at Pawling, Dutchess county, New York. He married, December 28, 1727, Mary Spalding; he removed to province of New York in 1749; died in 1773. Children: 1. Hannah, born August 8, 1728. 2. John, May 9, 1739. 3. Samuel, July 24, 1732, died young. 4. Phineas, December 9, 1734. 5. Mary, March 26, 1737. 6. Bridget, February 28, 1739-40. 7. Samuel, of whom further. 8. Jonathan, June 12, 1744. 9. Sibbil, February 14, 1745-46. 10. Josiah, April 28, 1748. 11. Ephraim, September 16, 1750. 12. Joseph, October 7, 1754. The will of John Woodward, of Pawling, Dutchess county, New York, is on record in the surrogate's office of the county and gives Samuel Woodward his Duroy coat.

(VI) Samuel, son of John and Mary (Spalding) Woodward, was born June 5, 1742. He served in Colonel Swartwout's regiment in the American revolutionary war, and probably removed to Washington county shortly before 1790. (See census record.) He married and had issue: Samuel, John, Archibald, of whom further.

(VII) Archibald, son of Samuel Woodward, was born April 16, 1769, died February 5, 1841. He settled in Hebron, New York, previous to 1790. He married Anna, daughter of Peter Scott, and had issue: Squire, died aged five; Daniel, of whom further; Benjamin; Sally, born June 10, 1797; Polly, August 14, 1799; John; Anne; Phoebe; Archibald; William; Samuel.

(VIII) Daniel, son of Archibald and Anna (Scott) Woodward, was born at North Hebron, New York, January, 1792, died May, 1877. He was a prominent farmer of North Hebron, and a leading member of the Baptist church. He married, January, 1813, Anna Case, born August 8, 1795, died May, 1877. She was a daughter of Abram Case, of Hebron, New York, and granddaughter of Phillip Case and Othneil Preston, both in the revolutionary service. Children: 1. Lucina, born 1814, died May 6, 1900; married Daniel Braymer. 2. Abraham, married Hercelora Thompson; child, Hercelora. 3. Archibald, born 1818, died May 10, 1885, married Mary Herron; children: Fannie and Archibald. 4. William, born 1820, died in Allens Grove, Wisconsin, December 23, 1883, married Achsa Nelson; children: William, Harriet and Almond and one son who died in childhood. 5. Lucinda, born September 24, 1824, married, March 1, 1849, Jesse Sherman; children: Sterling, Daniel, Cora, William, Carrie and Emma. 6. Mary, born March 21, 1827, married Edwin Temple; children: Charlotte, Orley, Ralph. 7. Martha, born December 1, 1831, married, March 1, 1852, John Qua; children: Andrew, Mary, Anna and Adelaide. 8. Daniel (2), of whom further. 9. Anna, born October 4, 1830, married, January 31, 1850, Joseph Ely; children: John D., Helen and Annita. 10. Phebe, January 19, 1837, married, March 25, 1856, James E. Pratt; child, Carrie. 11. Ely, died young.

(IX) Daniel (2), son of Daniel (1) and Anna (Case) Woodard, was born in North Hebron, New York, August 31, 1822, died June 13, 1887. He married, January 7, 1845, Miriam McNitt, born March 2, 1826, died October 20, 1902, daughter of James and Lydia (Martin) McNitt. James McNitt was born January 17, 1782, died January 22, 1861. He was a son of Daniel McNitt, born 1750, died November 21, 1829, at Salem, New York, a sergeant in a Salem company in the revolution, and a grandson of Captain Alexander cNitt. Alexander McNitt, born in Scotland, 1720, died November 29, 1807. On his [illegible] to America he settled first at Poughkeepsie, New York, later removed to Salem, Washington county, New York. He served in the revolution as captain of militia and saw service in the campaign against Burgoyne. Lydia (Martin) McNitt, born in 1792, died May 17, 1846, was a daughter of Moses Martin, born 1744 (adjutant in Colonel Williams' regiment from Washington county), and Lydia (Moore) Martin, and granddaughter of Adam and Sarah (Newell) Martin, and great-granddaughter of John Newell. Children of Daniel and Miriam (McNitt) Woodard: 1. Lydia, born January 30, 1846; married William Shaw, died April 18, 1900; children: Carrie, Emma, John and Woodard. 2. Emma, born December 29, 1847; married Captain Joseph Hays; children: Miriam, Roscoe, Norton, Georgia, died unmarried, and Mary. 3. James McNitt, born September 8, 1849; married (first) Georgia Bockes; children: Bertie and Ross; (second) Elizabeth Stetson; child, Marion. 4. Francis, born December 22, 1851, unmarried. 5. Daniel D., born January 7, 1854; married, January 29, 1879, Elizabeth Westcott; children: Ethel, born 1882; Allan, born 1885, Madeline, born 1890. 6. Martin, born January 19, 1856, died April 5, 1899; married ———; children: Frankie and Mae. 7. Eli, born January 13, 1857; married Nettie Bush; children: Irene, died in childhood, and Henry. 8. Archibald, born October 27, 1859, died in childhood. 9. Marian, born May 10, 1863; married S. F. Farrar; removed to Braymer, Missouri. 10. Lucina, born August 9, 1867; married Silas E. Everts.

(IX) Lucina, daughter of Daniel and Anna (Case) Woodard, was born in Hebron, Washington county, New York, July 17, 1814, died May 6, 1900. She married Daniel Braymer (see Braymer III), son of Jacob and Anna (Blakslee) Braymer. Children: Jenette, Jacob, Alfred, Daniel, Rosalinda, George, Winfield.

(X) Rosalinda, daughter of Daniel and Lucina (Woodard) Braymer, was born June 3, 1846. She married, March 12, 1868, Richard Durham, son of Durfee and Anna (Hall) Durham, born May 6, 1838, at Easton, Washington county, New York. He died December 9, 1901 (see Durham IV).

BRAYMER The Braymer family of Granville, New York, descend from German ancestors. The first of the line here under consideration of whom we have information was David Braymer, born in Baden, Germany, March 23, 1733. He was pressed into the British army while pursuing studies at a medical college in England, given the rank of surgeon, came to America in the British army in 1754, served throughout the French and Indian war, and was discharged. He returned to Germany, married, and again returned to America, settling in Nova Scotia, where he engaged in the tanning trade. He left Nova Scotia in the year 1776, going to New York City, where he followed the trade of tanner and furrier until 1781, when he moved to the town of Hebron, Washington county, New York, engaging in the trade of tanner. A child named George was born to David Braymer by his first wife in 1765, but beyond this there is no knowledge concerning his first marriage. He married (second) Phryria ———, of German descent. Children: Andrew, of whom there is no information; William, went to Erie county, Pennsylvania; Jacob, see forward; John, died August 27, 1817, aged eighteen years; David, went to Crawford county, Pennsylvania. Both David Braymer and his second wife are buried in the Braymer burying ground in the town of Hebron, Washington county, New York. He died February 23, 1814, aged eighty years; she died January 28, 1825, aged eighty-one years.

(II) Jacob, son of David Braymer, was born February 8, 1779. He located in the town of Hebron, Washington county, New York, followed the trade of tanner in addition to farming, made shoes, and lived on the same farm until his death. Some traces of the old vats can be seen there today. As he prospered, he remodeled the buildings and built the brick house which still stands there. He was married, January 7, 1802, at the old Blakslee homestead in Granville, Washington county, New York, by Phineas Hitchcock, Esq., to Anna Blakslee, born 1782, died January 25, 1857. He died March 2, 1855. Children: 1. Sarah, born December 25, 1802, died February 10, 1881; married, September 12, 1824, Stephen McFadden, born in Sligo, province of Connaught, Ireland, September 22, 1795, died May 8, 1870; children, born in Waterford, New York: i. Michael, born August 30, 1825, died April 17, 1904, married, December 23, 1858, Margaret A. McClellan, born April 11, 1833; children: (a) Stephen John, born September 21, 1859, married (first) December 1, 1881, Mary Luella Temple, no children; she died August 17, 1894; married (second) October 30, 1897, Harriet Crosier, born February 20, 1870; children: Jessie, born May 24, 1898, and Elsie Margaret, June 13, 1900; (b) Sarah Margaret, born

SAMUEL WOODARD OF PAWLING, HEBRON AND ROCKLAND, N.Y.

By Lindsay S. Reeks, Pleasant Hill, California

Unpublished family records compiled by George Woodard in 1897, taken in part from earlier records compiled by his father, Ambrose Woodard before the latter's death in 1889, indicate that Ambrose's grandfather, Samuel Woodard, was from Dutchess County, N.Y., was in the Revolutionary War, and moved to Rockland, Sullivan Co., N.Y., in 1794, where he is said to have died Aug. 1815. Samuel's wife was Patience Alderman.

These family records listed the children of Samuel in this order, together with the information here reported: (1) Phoebe, who married Abel Sprague; (2) Archibald, who married Anna Scott; (3) Polly, who married Shemiah Chase, a Quaker, and lived at Little White Creek, N.Y.; (4) John, who married Hulda Brooks, and lived at Virgil [apparently Messengerville P.O.), N.Y.; (5) Samuel, who married Patience Snyder in Rockland and died in Virgil; (6) Patience, born 14 Feb. 1784, married 1st, ——— Wakely, and 2nd, Lewellyn Jenkins, and died in Andes, Delaware Co., N.Y.; (7) William, born 2 May 1787, married 3 July 1807 Elizabeth Kimball, lived in Rockland, N.Y., where their children were reportedly born, but died at Lew Beach, Sullivan Co., N.Y., 11 Feb. 1880; and (8) Isobel, who married David Snyder.

Proceeding with the above information, the early Dutchess County wills were searched and that of John Woodard of Pawling, dated 9 Jan. 1773, was found. It names his children, Phineas, Samuel, Jonathan, Ephraim, Joseph, Mary Prince, Bridget Shed, Hannah Premand, and Sybil Allen, and also refer to children of son John (who presumably was then deceased). The question is whether this Samuel son of John is identical with the Samuel of the above family records.

In line with the family record which stated that Samuel served in the Revolutionary War and was from Dutchess County, research brought to light only one applicable record, from the muster roll of Capt. William Pierce's Company of Dutchess County for 6 Aug. 1776, secured from the National Archives. This record shows that Samuel Woodard, a farmer, aged 34 and born in Connecticut, volunteered 1 Aug. 1776; he was 5 feet 11 1/2 inches in height, of fresh complexion, with brown curled hair and light eyes. An interesting description and one which provided valuable information for further research.

An obituary notice of Archibald Woodard [son of Samuel], obtained from the New York State Library at Albany, states that he was born in Pawling, Dutchess County, married Anna Scott, and settled in Hebron, Washington County, before 1790, where he died 5 Feb. 1841. Johnston's History of Washington County, N.Y., published about 1875, states that Archibald Woodard came from Dutchess County to Hebron in 1775-77. From this we deduce that Archibald's father, Samuel, was probably living in Pawling when he enlisted on 1 Aug. 1776.

Since Samuel was born in Connecticut according to the enlistment statement, we next consulted the Barbour Index of vital records of that state. At Pomfret, Conn., a John Woodard married Mary Spalding on 28 Dec. 1727 and had the following children recorded: Hannah, 8 Aug. 1728; John, 9 May 1730; Samuel, 24 July 1732; Phineas, 9 Dec. 1734; Mary, 26 Mar. 1737; Bridget, 28 Feb. 1739/40; Samuel again, 5 June 1742; Jonathan, 21 June 1744; Sybil, 14 Feb. 1745/6; Josiah, 28 Apr. 1748; Ephraim, 16 Sept. 1750 at Cateman's Ferry, N.Y.; and Joseph, 7 Oct. 1754 at Cateman's Ferry, N.Y. All of the above children are included in the above cited will of John Woodard of Pawling, with the exception of the first Samuel and Josiah, both of whom may be presumed to have died early. Also, our Samuel's age of 34 in his enlistment record of 1776, exactly coincides with the birth year of 1742 given above. Hence, the evidence is very strong that our Samuel was the son of John and Mary born at Pomfret, Conn., in 1742.

The last land transaction concerning John Woodard in Pomfret occurred in 1745. The family seems to have been in New York State in 1750 and 1754 when the last two children were born, but to have returned thereafter and before the births of said children were entered at Pomfret; but they must have removed permanently to New York State soon after that. It is not known when they settled in Pawling, as land records of John Woodard have not been found in Dutchess County.

It is known that Samuel's son Archibald was married and living with his wife and no children in Hebron at the time of the 1790 census, so it may be presumed that he was born by 1770 or earlier, and at Pawling as stated in his obituary. Probably shortly after or during Samuel's service in the Revolutionary War, he or his family moved to Hebron, Washington Co., N.Y.

The 1790 census shows Samuel living at Hebron with three boys under 16. These were doubtless John, Samuel and William, as they were the only boys except Archibald who, as we have seen, was already married and separately listed. Also Samuel had two females living with him. One was undoubtedly his wife, and the other probably his daughter Patience who was reportedly born 14 Feb. 1784. The daughter Phoebe was already married to Abel Sprague who is listed as living in Hebron at the time of the 1790 census. The daughter Polly Woodard, according to "Descendants of William Chase" [New England Hist. and Gen. Register, 87:366], was born 4 July 1768, married Nehemiah Chase before 1790, and died 15 Sept. 1841. The daughter Isobel, if the youngest child as indicated in the family record, could easily have been born shortly after the date of the 1790 census.

Further evidence comes from letters of a Mr. Allen Woodard from 1899 to 1904, now in the possession of the County Historian's Office at Hudson Falls, Washington County. The letters indicate that Joseph Woodard of Hebron was an uncle of Archibald Woodard of Hebron, and that John Woodard whose will was probated at Pawling was Joseph's father. That of course would mean that Samuel (Archibald's father) was brother of Joseph and hence also a son of the said John.

The marriage of Samuel Woodard and Patience Alderman has never been located. It is possible it occurred in Pawling, since Archibald, one of the older children, was born there. No will has been located pertaining to Samuel Woodard, nor has any burial or death record been found other than what the family records supplied.

The names Woodard and Woodward were often used interchangeably in the older records, and the alternate spellings became fixed in different branches of the same family. Many of the name, and on female lines as well, are descended from Richard Woodward of Watertown, Mass., and that is true of the present contributor. The name is spelled Samuel Woodward in the 1790 census record of Hebron, but we have followed the spelling Woodard in the article. The name John Woodard is so spelled in his will, though it was rendered John Woodward at the time of his marriage in Pomfret.

SAMUEL WOODARD OF PAWLING, HEBRON AND ROCKLAND, N.Y.

By Lindsay S. Reeks, Pleasant Hill, California

Unpublished family records compiled by George Woodard in 1897, taken in part from earlier records compiled by his father, Ambrose Woodard before the latter's death in 1889, indicate that Ambrose's grandfather, Samuel Woodard, was from Dutchess County, N.Y., was in the Revolutionary War, and moved to Rockland, Sullivan Co., N.Y., in 1794, where he is said to have died Aug. 1815. Samuel's wife was Patience Alderman.

These family records listed the children of Samuel in this order, together with the information here reported: (1) Phoebe, who married Abel Sprague; (2) Archibald, who married Anna Scott; (3) Polly, who married Nehemiah Chase, a Quaker, and lived at Little White Creek, N.Y.; (4) John, who married Hulda Brooks, and lived at Virgil [apparently Messengerville P.O.), N.Y.; (5) Samuel, who married Patience Snyder in Rockland and died in Virgil; (6) Patience, born 14 Feb. 1784, married 1st, ——— Wakely, and 2nd, Lewellyn Jenkins, and died in Andes, Delaware Co., N.Y.; (7) William, born 29 May 1787, married 3 July 1807 Elizabeth Kimball, lived in Rockland, N.Y., where their children were reportedly born, but died at Lew Beach, Sullivan Co., N.Y., 11 Feb. 1880; and (8) Isobel, who married David Snyder.

Proceeding with the above information, the early Dutchess County wills were searched and that of John Woodard of Pawling, dated 9 Jan. 1773, was found. It names his children, Phineas, Samuel, Jonathan, Ephraim, Joseph, Mary Prince, Bridget Shed, Hannah Premand, and Sybil Allen, and also refer to children of son John (who presumably was then deceased). The question is whether this Samuel son of John is identical with the Samuel of the above family records.

In line with the family record which stated that Samuel served in the Revolutionary War and was from Dutchess County, research brought to light only one applicable record, from the muster roll of Capt. William Pierce's Company of Dutchess County for 6 Aug. 1776, secured from the National Archives. This record shows that Samuel Woodard, a farmer, aged 34 and born in Connecticut, volunteered 1 Aug. 1776; he was 5 feet 11 1/2 inches in height, of fresh complexion, with brown curled hair and light eyes. An interesting description and one which provided valuable information for further research.

An obituary notice of Archibald Woodard [son of Samuel], obtained from the New York State Library at Albany,

SAMUEL WOODWARD OF SAUGERTIES, ULSTER AND ROCKLAND, N.Y.

By Eleanor S. Burke, Pleasant Hill, California

Unpublished family records compiled by George Woodd in 1907, taken up year from earlier records compilby his father, Andrew Woodward before the latter's eath in 1889, indicates that Andrew's grandfather, Samuel Woodward, was from Ulster County, N.Y., was in e Revolutionary War, and moved to Rockland, Sullivan
, N.Y., in 1790, where he is said to have died Aug.
1?. Samuel's wife was Philadelphia Alderman.

These family records listed the children of Samuel this order, together with the information data reated: (1) Phoebe, who married Abel Sprague; (2) Archibald, who married Anna Scott; (3) Polly, who married Benjamin Chase, a Quaker, and lived at Little Falls way, N.Y.; (4) John, who married Nulda Brooks, and ved in Virgil (Lawrenceville) Washington Co., N.Y.; (5) Samuel, who married Hillmore Snyder in Rockland and ved in Virginia; (6) Ephraim, born 18 Feb. 1768, maried Jane ------ Wright, and lived in Jericho Junction, and ter in Andes, Delaware Co., N.Y.; (7) William, born
May 1778?, married 5 July 1807 Elizabeth Kimball, ved in Rockland, N.Y., where their children were ba-tized Dutch Reformed, but died at Cox Eddy, Sullivan Co., N.
, 11 Feb. 1860? and 1861 respectively, and married Deborah Baker.

Proceeding with the above information, the early Ulster County wills were searched and that of John Woodward of Saugerties, dated 5 Jan. 1773, was found. It ed his children, Thomas, Samuel, Jonathan, Ephraim, Joseph, Mary Fitzsimmons, Bridget Dean, Abigail Howard, and Jemima Allen, and also under to children of John Jr. who previously was John deceased. The question is whether this Samuel son of John is identical with the Samuel of the above family records.

In line with the family record which stated that Samuel served in the Revolutionary War and was from Ulster County, research proceeds to Albany County archives for pension record, from the muster roll of Capt. William Ten Eyck's Company of Dutchess County for 3 Aug. 1776.
Samuel from the Saratoga Archives. This record shows that Samuel Woodward, a farmer, aged 36 and born in Ulster County, volunteered 1 Aug. 1776? he was 5 feet 11 inches in height, of fresh complexion, with brown hair and light eyes. An interesting description of the soldier provided valuable information for further research.

An obituary notice of archaeologist Woodward son of Sauel, contained from the New York State Library at Albany, states that he was born in Pawling, Dutchess County, married Anna Scott, and settled in Hebron, Washington County, before 1790, where he died 5 Feb. 1841. Johnston's History of Washington County, N.Y., published about 1875, states that Archibald Woodard came from Dutchess County to Hebron in 1775-77. From this we deduce that Archibald's father, Samuel, was probably living in Pawling when he enlisted on 1 Aug. 1776.

Since Samuel was born in Connecticut according to the enlistment statement, we next consulted the Barbour Index of vital records of that state. At Pomfret, Conn., a John Woodard married Mary Spalding on 28 Dec. 1727 and had the following children recorded: Hannah, 8 Aug. 1728; John, 9 May 1730; Samuel, 24 July 1732; Phineas, 9 Dec. 1734; Mary, 26 Mar. 1737; Bridget, 28 Feb. 1739/40; Samuel again, 5 June 1742; Jonathan, 21 June 1744; Sybil, 14 Feb. 1745/6; Josiah, 28 Apr. 1748; Ephraim, 16 Sept. 1750 at Cateman's Ferry, N.Y.; and Joseph, 7 Oct. 1754 at Cateman's Ferry, N.Y. All of the above children are included in the above cited will of John Woodard of Pawling, with the exception of the first Samuel and Josiah, both of whom may be presumed to have died early. Also, our Samuel's age of 34 in his enlistment record of 1776, exactly coincides with the birth year of 1742 given above. Hence, the evidence is very strong that our Samuel was the son of John and Mary born at Pomfret, Conn., in 1742.

The last land transaction concerning John Woodard in Pomfret occurred in 1745. The family seems to have been in New York State in 1750 and 1754 when the last two children were born, but to have returned thereafter and before the births of said children were entered at Pomfret; but they must have removed permanently to New York State soon after that. It is not known when they settled in Pawling, as land records of John Woodard have not been found in Dutchess County.

It is known that Samuel's son Archibald was married and living with his wife and no children in Hebron at the time of the 1790 census, so it may be presumed that he was born by 1770 or earlier, and at Pawling as stated in his obituary. Probably shortly after or during Samuel's service in the Revolutionary War, he or his family moved to Hebron, Washington Co., N.Y.

The 1790 census shows Samuel living at Hebron with three boys under 16. These were doubtless John, Samuel and William, as they were the only boys except Archibald who, as we have seen, was already married and separately listed. Also Samuel had two females living with him. One was undoubtedly his wife, and the other probably his daughter Patience who was reportedly born 14 Feb. 1784. The daughter Phoebe was already married states that he was born in Fawling, Dutchess County, married Anna Secor, and resided in Hetrick, Westchester County, before 1790, where he died 5 Feb. 1841, leaving a widow. Secor of Westchester County, N.Y., possibly about 1775, states that Archibald Woodard came from Dutchess County to Rensselaer in 1775-77. From this we deduce that Archibald's father, Samuel, was probably living in Fawling when he enlisted on 1 Aug. 1776.

Since Samuel was born in Connecticut according to the enlistment statement, we next consulted the Barbour Index of vital records of that state, at Portland, Conn., a town Woodard mentioned many times in his pension. 1727) and had the following children recorded: Hannah, 8 Aug. 1730; John, 9 May 1730; Samuel, 24 July 1731; Phineas, 5 Dec. 1734; Mary, 26 Mar. 1737; Bridgen, 23 Feb. 1739/40; Samuel again, 5 June 1742; Hezekiah, 21 June 1744; Sybil, 24 Feb. 1746; Zenah, 23 Apr. 1748; Thomas, 12 Sept. 1750 at Gatsman's Ferry, N.Y.; and Joseph, 7 Oct. 1752, at Gatsman's Ferry, N.Y. All of the above children are indexed in the above cited work of John Woodard of Fawling, with the exception of the first Samuel and Zenah, both of whom may be presumed to have died young. Also, our Samuel's age of 24 in his enlistment record of 1776, exactly coincides with the birth year of 1752 given above. Hence, the evidence is very strong that our Samuel was the son of John and Mary born at Fawling, Conn., in 1752.

The last Jane Woodard connection concerning John Woodard in Fawling occurred in 1776. The family seems to have been in New York State in 1790 and 1792, when the last two children were born, but it has returned therefore and before the births of said children were entered at Fawling; but they must have resided temporarily in New York State about that time. It is not known when they settled in Fawling, as land records of John Woodard have not been found in Dutchess County.

It is known that Samuel's son Archibald was married and living with his wife and no children in Hebron at the time of the 1790 census, so it may be presumed that he was born by 1770 or earlier, and at Fawling as stated on his obituary. Probably shortly after or during Samuel's service in the Revolutionary War, he or his family moved to Hebron, Washington Co., N.Y.

The 1790 census shows Samuel living at Hebron with three boys under 16. These were doubtless John, Samuel and William, as they were the only boys except Archibald who, as we have seen, was already married and separately living. Also Samuel had two females living with him. One was undoubtedly his wife, and the other probably his daughter Patience who was remarried born in Feb. 1784. The daughter Phoebe was already married to Abel Sprague who is listed as living in Hebron at the time of the 1790 census. The daughter Polly Woodard, according to "Descendants of William Chase" [New England Hist. and Gen. Register, 87:366], was born 4 July 1768, married Nehemiah Chase before 1790, and died 15 Sept. 1841. The daughter Isobel, if the youngest child as indicated in the family record, could easily have been born shortly after the date of the 1790 census.

Further evidence comes from letters of a Mr. Allen Woodard from 1899 to 1904, now in the possession of the County Historian's Office at Hudson Falls, Washington County. The letters indicate that Joseph Woodard of Hebron was an uncle of Archibald Woodard of Hebron, and that John Woodard whose will was probated at Pawling was Joseph's father. That of course would mean that Samuel (Archibald's father) was brother of Joseph and hence also a son of the said John.

The marriage of Samuel Woodard and Patience Alderman has never been located. It is possible it occurred in Pawling, since Archibald, one of the older children, was born there. No will has been located pertaining to Samuel Woodard, nor has any burial or death record been found other than what the family records supplied.

The names Woodard and Woodward were often used interchangeably in the older records, and the alternate spellings became fixed in different branches of the same family. Many of the name, and on female lines as well, are descended from Richard Woodward of Watertown, Mass., and that is true of the present contributor. The name is spelled Samuel Woodward in the 1790 census record of Hebron, but we have followed the spelling Woodard in the article. The name John Woodard is so spelled in his will, though it was rendered John Woodward at the time of his marriage in Pomfret.

Rep. Men. + Old Families Vol. I married in 1792 Sarah, daughter of James Leach, and they resided in Bridgewater, Mass. He died in 1824 and she died in 1842. Their children were: Sylvanus, born in 1792; Jonathan, in 1794; Sally, in 1796; Robert, in 1799; Olive, in 1801; Edwin, in 1804; Albert, in 1807, and Harriet in 1810. Jonathan Keith was a soldier in the Revolution.

(VI) EDWIN KEITH, son of Jonathan and Sarah (Leach) Keith, born in Bridgewater, Mass., in 1804, married June 5, 1831, Betsey, born in 1807, daughter of Zebulon and Abigail (Leonard) Field, of Taunton, and granddaughter of Capt. Zebulon Field and of Col. Nathaniel Leonard. She died Nov. 16, 1885.

Mr. Keith was reared on a farm and had only such educational advantages as the schools of his town afforded. His uncle, Mr. James Leach, was engaged in business at Taunton, and thither young Edwin went at the age of eighteen years to learn the trade of a machinist under Mr. Leach's direction, apprenticing himself to him. In due time the young man was taken into partnership with the uncle, and they did business together under the firm style of Leach & Keith. Later, on the dissolution of the firm, Mr. Keith for a time was engaged in the insurance business in Taunton. During the years thus occupied he had so grown in public favor, had established such reputation as a capable business man of probity and integrity, that in 1855 he became identified with the Taunton Gas Light Company, and from thence onward until the time of his death his efforts were unreservedly given to the interests of that corporation, he serving it through all of those years as superintendent, clerk and treasurer. And not only were his qualities of mind and body shown in this company, but as selectman, member of the Taunton common council, director of the Bristol County National Bank, etc. He ever took a deep interest in all matters pertaining to the advancement of his adopted town.

Mr. Keith was a deservedly successful business man. His judgment was considered sound and his counsel was much sought for in business circles, his opinions being always sincerely given when sought. He was a man of exalted character, which in substance follows as portrayed by his biographer, Samuel Hopkins Emery, in his history of Taunton: Mr. Keith was known and loved for his genial temperament and amiable disposition. Though his life was a quiet, undemonstrative one, yet it was eminently a useful one. In the home circle it was said of him that his kindly nature carried always sunshine and peace, and with his sunny temperament were united incorruptible integrity and moral worth. He was a prominent member of the First Congregational Society and Church of Taunton, serving also as deacon of the church many years. He was a constant attendant on public worship, thus encouraging the heart of his pastor and giving his influence in favor of a suitable observance of the Lord's Day. While he was temperate, moral, strictly virtuous, and rigidly correct in his own deportment, yet his kindly heart was always lenient in judgment of the erring, and his opinions of his fellow men were tinged with the inborn charity of his nature. He was a man whose moral worth all who knew him attest, and Taunton sustained a severe loss in his death.

The death of Mr. Keith occurred at Taunton, Mass., April 30, 1882, suddenly and unexpectedly. He died almost instantly of heart disease. At this time, though well advanced in life, being in his seventy-eighth year, he was still in active business. He had passed upward of sixty years of business life in Taunton. The only child born to Mr. and Mrs. Keith is the present Miss Sarah E. Keith, who occupies the Keith homestead at Taunton, Massachusetts.

SANFORD. The town of Taunton, which included within its original boundaries the neighboring village of Berkley, has been the home of a branch of the Sanford family for about two hundred years. This Berkley-Taunton branch of the family, in the line of Capt. Joseph Sanford, an active patriot of the Revolution, has been more or less eminent in professional life. Four of the sons of Capt. Joseph Sanford were college graduates and ministers of the gospel; and several of their posterity have followed the learned professions. One of the grandsons of Capt. Joseph was the late Hon. John Elliott Sanford, of Taunton, lawyer, legislator, railroad commissioner, etc., who at the time of his death was characterized by the local paper as Taunton's "first citizen."

(I) John Sanford, the first settler by that name in New England, was the son of Samuel and Ellenor, of Alford, Lincolnshire, England. He came to Boston in the "Lyon" in 1631, with Rev. John Eliot, John Winthrop, Jr., and others, and his name stands one hundred and eight on the list of church membership. He was sworn a freeman April 3, 1632, and the same year made cannoneer of the fort. Gov. Thomas Hutchinson mentioned him among the distinguished citizens (Hist. Vol. I. p. 73).

In 1637 he was disarmed, i. e., deprived of his civil privileges because of his support of John Wheelwright and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson in their controversy with the Colonial authorities. In March, 1638, he left Boston for Aquidneck, now the island of Rhode Island, with William Coddington, Edward Hutchinson and sixteen others, having made, as the records show, "an honest purchase of the island." He held many important offices in the Rhode Island Colony. He was chosen constable for the year 1640 and lieutenant Jan. 13, 1644. The three settlements were united by a common charter in 1647, and on May 21st he was chosen assistant governor, and acted as coroner. He was reëlected general assistant May 23, 1649; chosen general treasurer of the Colony May 22, 1655; general recorder and treasurer on May 20, 1656; and "clarke" of the General Assembly, Roger Williams having at the same time been chosen moderator. He was reëlected "clarke" in 1657-58. He was later deputy for Portsmouth to the General Assembly at Newport; and Oct. 31, 1677, one of the committee to lay out East Greenwich. At the time of his death he was president of the Colony. He was married (first) about the time he went to Boston, to Elizabeth Webb, sister of Henry Webb. Their children were: John, baptized June 24, 1632; Samuel, baptized June 22, 1634; and Eliphalet, baptized in December, 1637. He married (second) Bridget, daughter of the celebrated Anne Hutchinson, and by her had ten children.

(II) John Sanford, son of John and Elizabeth (Webb), was baptized June 24, 1632. He was admitted a freeman at the General Assembly held at Newport May 17, 1653. He was a man of learning and filled high offices in the Colony. He married Aug. 8, 1654, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Henry Sparhurst, of Bermuda. She died Dec. 6, 1660. This marriage was blessed with children as follows: Elizabeth, born July 11, 1655; Mary, Aug. 18, 1656; Susanna, July 31, 1658; and Rebecca, June 23, 1660. John Sanford married (second) April 11, 1663, Mary, daughter of Rev. Samuel Gorton, of Warwick, and widow of Peter Green. To this union were born: Mary, March 3, 1664; Eliphalet, Feb. 20, 1666; John, June 18, 1672; and Samuel, Oct. 5, 1677.

(III) John Sanford, son of John and Mary (Gorton), was born June 18, 1672. He located in Taunton, that is, Berkley, about 1713, on July 1st of which year he married Abigail Pitts, born 1689, daughter of Samuel Pitts, of Taunton, and granddaughter of Peter Pitts. She received from her father a tract of land described in Liber 4, p. 150. Her brothers were: Peter, Ebenezer and Samuel. John Sanford was a large land owner and is described in one of the records as a mason by trade. To him and his wife Abigail was born, among other children, a son George.

(IV) George Sanford, son of John and Abigail (Pitts), born in 1725, lived to the good old age of ninety-four years, dying Feb. 19, 1820. His wife was Mary (or Mercy) Phillips (1727-1793).

(V) Joseph Sanford, son of George and Mercy (Phillips), was born at Berkley, June 24, 1761, and died April 12, 1835. According to his son, John, he was a man who "possessed a strong mind in a strong body." He taught school in his native town for forty winters. He had a reputation for skill in navigation, algebra and other branches of mathematics, and used to amuse himself in winter, after he had become too old to teach, by calculating eclipses. He was a soldier in the war of the Revolution, with the rank of captain. In 1785 he married Eleanor Macomber, born Aug. 3, 1763, died Aug. 11, 1844. Their children were: James, John, Eleanor (married Abner Pitts), Alpheus, Enoch, Joseph, Baalis and Mary. Four of these six sons were graduates of Brown University, James and John in the class of 1812, Enoch in 1820 and Baalis in 1823. They all afterward entered the ministry. James, born May 7, 1786, was for some years pastor of churches of the Congregational denomination in the States of New York and Massachusetts; John, born Sept. 12, 1788, is mentioned below; Enoch, born Nov. 30, 1795, was for two years a tutor at Brown and then pastor of the First Congregational Church at Raynham, Mass., for twenty-five years; Baalis, born July 16, 1801, after his graduation from the Andover Theological Seminary, in 1826, was pastor of the Congregational Churches at East and West Bridgewater, Mass., 1827-49, and of Trinity Church, East Bridgewater, 1850-61.

(VI) John Sanford, son of Joseph and Eleanor (Macomber), was born Sept. 12, 1788, at Berkley, and died at Taunton, July 11, 1866. In 1815 he was ordained a Congregational clergyman and for three years preached as an evangelist. From 1818 to 1829 he was pastor of the church at South Dennis, Mass. In 1824 he married Sophia Loud, of Weymouth, Mass., born May 4, 1790; died Nov. 11, 1869. Their children were: Baalis, born April 20, 1825, died Nov. 29, 1875; Sarah, born March 23, 1828, died Jan. 24, 1832; John Elliott, born Nov. 22, 1830, died Oct. 11, 1907; James, born May 10, 1832, died Oct. 23, 1832.

(VII) JOHN ELLIOTT SANFORD, son of John and Sophia Loud, was born Nov. 22, 1830, at South Dennis, Mass. He had a long and active life, the greater part of which he lived in Taunton, where his death occurred Oct. 11, 1907. The following sketch of his career appeared in the Taunton Daily Gazette of Oct. 12th, of that year:

"His withdrawal from the sphere of earthly activity causes general sorrow, for since he started out as an earnest and ambitious young man, he has been a leader easily in all things in which he interested himself and a guide and safe counsellor for others. No doubt heredity and the healthful associations of early home training had great influence in shaping his life. He was the child of a family where the typical plain living and high thinking of three quarters of a century ago was the rule, for his father was a country minister, and his home life as a youth was that of so many eminent men and women who were fortunate enough to have a similar ancestry.

"Rev. John Sanford, his father, was a native of Berkley, and came of the old-fashioned sterling New England stock which considered it an honor to a family and to a town to have one of its sons assume the responsibilities of the ministerial profession. The Sanford family, too, has made its record for the number of its sons who in the pulpit, law, medical and business field gave proof of superior ability in the chosen line of service by successful lives in widely diverging paths. During a settlement of the father as minister of the Congregational Society at Dennis, John Elliott was born on Nov. 22, 1830, and Dennis was his home for the early years of his boyhood. Life in a Cape Cod village nearly seventy-seven years ago was not broadening save in the matter of home influence, and the salary of a parish minister of those days, although sufficient for the necessities of life, called for the strictest economy and gave no room for luxuries. One thing is certain, the minister fared as well as his people, and his activities covered a wider mental range and his family felt the vivifying influence. Before his children were old enough to listen to the 'calling of the sea,' which used to lure almost all the boys of the Cape, Rev. Mr. Sanford determined to retire from the ministry and live where he could give his children the benefit of a liberal education. He chose Amherst as his home, and there at a good local academy the subject of this sketch was prepared for college and matriculated at Amherst in 1847, in his seventeenth year. He was graduated in 1851 and the character of his work was shown by the fact that he was the first scholar of his class and was awarded the honor of the valedictory address on the commencement program. The promise of his young manhood was not dimmed by neglect and failure in his later years. The high standard set by his ancestors and kinfolk was maintained until the end. For a time he served his college as a tutor and taught in other places, including Bristol Academy in this city, while studying law, which he had selected as his profession. His elder brother, Baylies Sanford, was a member of the Taunton law firm, Sanford and Morton, and with him he was enrolled as a student. In 1856 he was admitted to the bar. He began to practice and until the building was moved away a few years since his sign was over the door of a little office on the north-east side of City Square where an important business block now stands.

"In 1863 his fellow citizens thought well enough of him to send him to the Legislature and his public life began. In 1864 he was chosen senator from this district. His good service attracted the attention of others besides his fellow senators and in 1866 he was made insurance commissioner, holding that responsible place until 1869. In 1871 his Taunton neighbors again sent him to the Legislature and he was made Speaker of the House for the three following terms, declining to be a candidate in 1875. In 1876 and 1880 he was an active member of the Massachusetts delegation to the National Republican Convention.

"In 1882 he was made chairman of the State Harbor and Land Commission and filled that responsible position until 1892. In the latter year he was transferred to the Railroad Commission as chairman and served until 1899, when he resigned. During this time the consolidation of street railway lines in Boston occurred and there were many busy hours in the office of the commission.

"This resignation closed his active service for the Commonwealth covering most of the long period from 1863 to 1899, or over a generation, and all of it in positions dealing with vital interests of the State and its commercial and industrial life. Yet his activities were not so wholly absorbed that he was neglectful of civic duties. During this period he served the city as school committeeman, alderman and councilman, presiding over the latter branch for several years. Even at the time of his death he was a member of the board of Sinking Fund Commissioners.

"In private business matters, too, he was active, and his decease leaves the office of president of the Taunton Oil Cloth Company and the Taunton Gas Company temporarily vacant. He but recently resigned the presidency of the Taunton Savings Bank which he had held since 1876 and to which he always gave faithful service and was a prominent factor in its development. He was also a director in the Taunton National Bank and for years was a trustee of Bristol Academy.

"During all these busy years he did not forget his Alma Mater. He was chosen a trustee of Amherst College in 1874, was the first president of that board, an office still held at the time of his decease. As long as health permitted he was a frequent visitor and regular attendant on college anniversaries.

"A scholarship bearing his name as donor is one of the many proofs of his practical interest in the college and desire to help young men who seek all that a college can give. As a communicant and vestryman of St. Thomas Church his interest in the welfare of the Episcopal body was great. He was often an influential delegate to diocesan and other church conventions and served for some time as president of the Episcopalian Club of Massachusetts. Nor did he lack foreign recognition of his worth. He was an Honorary Fellow of the Statistical Society of London, there being only five so honored in the United States. He was also a member of the Union Club of Boston, of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts and of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

"He was married in 1856 to Emily James White, of Taunton, and her death in 1899 was a heavy burden for him to bear. Three daughters survive him.

"Dates and years and official positions catalogued, although they are many, are meaningless things unless they convey the impression to the listener of the unceasing activity, the steady application, the cool-headed devotion to a high standard of duty, the courteous treatment of associates and all others which must be the attributes of the man who fills the positions satisfactorily which came to Mr. Sanford's lot in his useful life. All these were his with an inborn sense of responsibility, an unassailable integrity and calm and quiet dignity which inspired respect. In thought and act he was an upright man with the temperament of his puritan ancestry tempered by a wide acquaintance with men, mellowed by extensive travel and his life-long habit of keeping his mind open and responsive to new impressions and new ideas, and not permitting his love for accurate scholarship and the good old-fashioned regard for what ancient scholars called 'the humanities' to be ground out of his life by the multifarious duties that came to him as a man of affairs. He was most tender to all who were nearest to him and his benefactions to others less fortunate were liberal but carefully concealed. It is probable that no other citizen of Taunton was ever called to undertake more varied duties and certain that all his work as a citizen, an official, a husband, a father, Christian and friend was well done. A city is fortunate to have had such a citizen.

"When the great silence fell upon him in turn, as it does to all men, and all that be said or accomplished in his long and useful life became in an instant a memory, no greater legacy was left to his children than that all his varied successes and honors came not through political manipulations and trickery, time-serving and trading honest manhood for position, but because integrity, ability, faithfulness, dignity and courtesy won them."

On Dec. 10, 1856, Mr. Sanford married Emily James White, born July 10, 1837, daughter of George Savage and Lavina Frances (Woodward) White. She died Sept. 16, 1899. They had three children: Kate Irving; Emily Loud, who married Morton Dexter, of Boston, Mass., and Mary, who married (first) Thomas Tempest Meates (died 1901), and (second) John James, both of England.

WASHBURN (Middleboro family). The early home of the Washburns of this section of Massachusetts was at Duxbury and the ancestor at that point sprang from the ancient English family whose seat was at Evesham, which family according to Burke came from the Difford and Great Washborne family. The earliest mention of Washburn at Evesham is in the reigns of Henry III. and Edward I., when the family occupied the Evesham Abbey lands, 1216-1307.

The Washburn name in this country is a distinguished one. Perhaps it is as yet only a tradition that John Washburn, the ancestor of the Washburns here considered, was he who first served as secretary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Several governors of our State have borne the Washburn name and at one and the same time four of the name occupied seats in the United States Congress. And the branch of the Massachusetts Washburns seated in Middleboro and vicinity have borne no small part in the annals of the Old Colony and later Commonwealth. Capt. Amos Washburn was in command of a company in the American

Dear Sirs:

Could you tell me or refer me to someone who could, if a man named ___?___ Woodard was ever Mayor of Little Rock?

If so, I would appreciate any data on his family background, parents, where born, etc., for geneological purposes.

I appreciate any help that you can give me in this matter.

Sincerely,

P.S. Mr. Woodard was Mayor somewhere 1875--1885, I think.

ARKANSAS GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, INC.
4200 "A" Street
Little Rock, Arkansas 72205

20 June 1978

Dear Mrs Jordan

THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR YOUR RECENT LETTER, we are glad to know you are interested in your family records.

THE ARKANSAS GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, INC. was founded in 1962, in Fayetteville, Washington County, Arkansas. Later moved to Conway, in Faulkner County, and since 1971 has had their headquarters at 4200 "A" Street, Little Rock, Arkansas 72205.

We will be happy to suggest a pofessional researcher, at your request. Direct contact with these researchers is suggested. (Most researcher's fees are from $3. to $5. per hour).

This Society does not work up family records for individuals. Our publication consists of information contributed and shared by our members (and others interested in sharing their genealogical records). You are encouraged to write to those who do contribute, and possibly share additional information with them. This is not done thru the society.

We are enclosing an application form, if you would like to become a member of the ARKANSAS GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, INC. (publishers of THE ARKANSAS FAMILY HISTORIAN) and receive our Publication The membership fee is $7. per year. Anyone interested in Family Records is invited to become a member. You do not have to ONLY be interested in Arkansas Families, as many came to Arkansas, some stayed, and some moved on and returned, and some just moved thru Arkansas. Our members are all over the entire United States, Canada and sometimes some are out of the United States.

Quarterlies are sent to members, soon after the membership is received (unless the issue is out of print). Renewal is hoped for soon after January 1st each year (or we do have some members already paid in advance, for several years). We are trying not to re-print, as paper and ink, etc. are so high, and our budget is very limited. However some back issues are available.

Individual copies of the Arkansas Family Historian are $2.00 each, and we do not have SAMPLE COPIES.

OUR QUERY SECTION is very popular. We will be happy to run your QUERY in a future issue of the ARKANSAS FAMILY HISTORIAN. At this time there is no charge, however many Queries are received and space is not always available, but it will be published as soon as possible. Be sure to make a good Query! Give the name of the Ancestor, spouse, dates of birth, death, marriage, and the names of the children when possible, and the area (County) and time they were in a certain area, if several different counties, mention this also, as that is very helpful. Members and readers are encouraged to help other members with even a tiny clue when possible.

All Genealogical letters should include a self addressed stamped envelope (S.A.S.E.) Many letters are thrown in the paper-basket, when S.A.S.E. is not included.

Our year begins January 1 and ends December 31. When membership is entered after the year begins, all issues for the current year is sent as soon as possible, by the Editor. (Unless the issue is out of print).

When the Quarterly is not received within a reasonable length of time, please notify: AGS, 4200 "A" Street, Little Rock, Ark. 72205.

PLEASE - WHEN IT IS NECESSARY FOR YOU TO MOVE! NOTIFY 4200 "A" Street, Little Rock, Ark. 72205 soon as possible. Postage is so high, especially return postage, and we are trying hard not to raise the membership fee, and this is one way you can help.

We mail our Quarterlies - NON PROFIT BULK MAIL - which means, this is controlled mail. All this mail has to be seperated into ZIP CODE, tied with string and either a Red D, a Green 3, or a Yellow S for State attached to each bundle. The Red D means - all in that bundle goes to that exact Zip Code (all the numbers have to be the same). The Green 3 means all in that bundle - goes to the first three Zip Code number. This takes much time and if it is not done correctly, your Quarterly may not reach you promptly. Therefore, we need to know as soon as possible, about your address change. The address can be stamped on the back of the Quarterly long before the mailing date, then attached to the rest of the Quarterly and tied for mailing. After the Quarterly is in the bundle and tied, it is hard to find.

We need a good address at all times. That means Controlled Mail needs, Your full name (spelled correctly); your address: House Number, and street or Route Number and for sure a box number (even if you have had the same mail-man, and lived in the same house all your life). The postal service is trying to help us, but they in turn need a lot of help. Our membership is over ~~800~~ 1000 members at present and still growing.

We would like to know if you do research in your area (for a fee). Many of our members would like to make a contact with someone in other states, who could do research for them. We need your name and address, and the type research you would be interested in doing. (Court records, marriage, deeds, probate, Wills, etc.) We keep a list of those in other states, who do research and would suggest to those interested to contact you, with their problems (direct contact).

If you have Family records, in your Bible, Newspaper clippings, etc., you would like to see preserved, this Society will be happy to know about your records, for possible publication. We do not want your original records, but would like a good copy that can be reproduced.

Confederate Veteran's Pension information is available at the Arkansas History Commission Office, 300 West Markham, Little Rock, AR 72201. It is necessary that you do your own research (or engage one who will research for you), as this office does not have a staff large enough to do research for the public.

Information and applications for birth and death certificates may be obtained from the Bureau of Vital Statistics: State Health Department, 4815 W. Markham, Little Rock, AR 72205 - Records are not available before about 1915 (some not for several years after). This fee is $3. or more and a researcher can not help here.

THANK YOU FOR REMEMBERING TO SEND A SELF ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE (S.A.S.E.)

YOU FORGOT TO SEND A SELF ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE.

Sincerely,

Mrs Mario B. Cia, Sr.

Dear Mrs. Cia:

Mrs. Gloria Counts gave me your name and address (some time ago!) in hopes that a query in your publication would help me find out something about my grandmother.

My maternal grandmother, Charlotte (Lotte) Woodard, wife of Enderss Stanton Hill, was born Dec. 1844 in N.Y. or Vt. Married 12 Feb 1863 in Montgomery Co., N. Y. She died 9 Oct 1917 in Little Rock, Ark. She was orphaned 'young' and had brothers 'Sam' and 'Jade'. She, her husband and children, came to Little Rock ca. 1880 to be near her brothers.

I would certainly appreciate any help that you could give me on this problem. I'm on the staff of Clayton Genealogical Library here in Houston and we certainly have lots of folks with ancestors in and around your state.

Sincerely,

Dear Librarian:

Please tell me if you have a collection of Little Rock newspaper obituaries. My grandmother, Charlotte M. Woodard Hill, died in Little Rock, Ark., 9 October 1917. If indexed, could this obituary be zeroxed and sent to me?

If they happen to be on microfilm, would you inter-library loan the reel, for the time period needed, from which ever is your most prominent newspaper for that time period? It would be loaned to Clayton Genealogical Library, a dept. of the Houston Public Library.

I enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your convenience. Thank you.

Dear Sir:

Would you please check your files for thedeath certificate of Charlotte (Lotte) Woodard Hill? The only death date I can give you is 1922, I think!

If possible, please check a few years before and after, 1922.

I know nothing about my grandmother, and it would possibly tell me something of her parents. Any help would truly be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Fraser:

Thank you for your search for my great grand-father's will or probate preceedings. You suggested I send the name of his wife and children and you would search some more.

This is all the information that I have on the Woodards;

1. The death certificate for my grandmother listed one A. J. Woodard as her father --b. N. Y. Elizabeth Stanton as her mother.----b.N. Y.

2. The 1850 Census Index of N. Y. lists A. J. Woodard and wife, Elizabeth in Whitehall, Washington, N. Y.-no children. They are not listed in 1860.

3. My grandmother was orphaned young (?) she had two brothers Ham and Jade--maybe others.

4. I know that my grandmother married in 1863. There are no Woodards in Montgomery Co., her place of marriage, in 1850 or 1860.

5. Death certificate says she was 77½ yrs old, born 1840!!!! She died in 1917 in Little Rock, Ark. Her name Charlotte (Lotte) M.

Anything that you can find to lend some light on this would really be appreciated. Don't know where else to look.

The Manuscripts and History Library is unable to answer the many requests for genealogical information it receives from persons residing outside New York State. However a number of persons in the Albany area are willing to undertake this research, and we have given them training in the use of our collections. Most of these people are members of local historical and heritage societies which have volunteered to provide assistance.

Listed below are the societies and individuals who can provide research assistance. You may write to them directly with your question. In some cases a small fee will be charged to cover expenses; we suggest that you reach an understanding with researchers before they begin.

Please be advised that the State Library does not direct this research or assume any responsibility for it. Nor should the fact that a name is listed below be taken as recommendation; the library does not recommend researchers.

THE NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY

General Information

The New York State Library has an excellent genealogy, local history, and manuscript collection. Although there is no comprehensive name index to the sources our catalogs serve as guides.

The staff of the library is very happy to assist researchers and to explain the catalogs and research materials.

Important sources for data in our library are: Church records, prior to 1880 (Protestant denominations only, and not for all communities); cemetery inscriptions, usually before 1880; New York Province marriage bonds, prior to 1784; transcripts of many newspaper marriage and death notices, Hudson and Mohawk valleys, 1784-1829, and death notices, Schoharie Valley 1828-1879; some township vital records, 1847-50; and unpublished Bible and other family records. Also we have occasional colonial censuses, those taken in New York State by the federal government, 1790-1880, and those taken by New York State 1825-1925 (our holdings of the State censuses are imcomplete; many are in the custody of county clerks). (Although our staff cannot conduct genealogical searches in unindexed church and census records, visitors are welcome to examine our copies of these records). Official State birth, marriage and death records began in 1880; requests for copies of those records should be addressed to: New York State Health Department, Bureau of Vital Records, Tower Building, Empire State Plaza, Albany, New York 12234.

In our collection are records of persons who served in the New York colonial and state militia to 1821, and of New Yorkers who served in national forces in the Revolutionary War and War of 1812. Additional state military records from 1812 onward (though Civil War records predominate) are in the custody of the Division of Military and Naval Affairs, Building 22, State Campus, Albany 12205.

Many records of genealogical interest can also be found in the offices of the county clerks of New York State. Deeds, wills, election rolls and local tax records are among the most popular sources of historical information that can be found in county files. The State does not have copies of these records.

The following books are also excellent sources of information on New York State:

1. Stevenson, Noel C. Search and research: the researcher's handbook Revised edition; Deseret Book Co., 1973 pp. 200-209 (Deseret Book Co. P.O. Box 659, Salt Lake City, Utah 84110. $3.50)

Census Records

Federal censuses

For information on having a search made of Federal census records 1790 to 1890 please write to the National Archives, GSA, Washington, D.C. 20408. However most of the 1890 records for New York State no longer exist. Later federal censuses are in the custody of the Bureau of the Census, Personal Census Service Branch, Pittsburg, Kansas 66762. The State Library has microfilm copies of the 1800-1880 schedules for New York State. They are for reference use only and may not be borrowed; however, the census for all of the United States 1790-1890 (the census for 1900 is available now only in part; the entire census will eventually be available there) are available at the Federal Archives and Center in your area and may be borrowed from the Center using the Interlibrary Loan System available at your local library. It is recommended that you contact the individual Record Center for detailed questions about their records and which of them are available on microfilm.

The following is a listing of record centers and areas covered: address inquiries to:

State censuses

Of the Census taken by the State of New York in 1790, (not the same as the federal census) only a portion of the Albany County record survives. It is in the custody of the New York State Library and can be viewed in the Manuscripts Room. There is no index and the library staff cannot search for individual names. There is a published version containing names of heads of households, but not including the statistical information:

SCOTT, Kenneth. New York: State census of Albany County towns in 1790. Genealogical Publ. Co. 1975

Electoral censuses taken by State in 1790, 1795, 1801, 1814 and 1821 were damaged in the Capitol fire of 1911. They are not open for inspection and many have been completely destroyed.

Censuses were taken every ten years from 1825 to 1875, in 1892, and every ten years from 1905 to 1925. Each County Clerk has these State census records for his county. However, many of the records have disappeared or have been destroyed. The State Library has the records of the entire state for 1915 and 1925, as well as Albany County 1855-1925, the City of Hudson, Vernon and Hartsville (E.D. 1) for 1845, the City of Rochester and Keene for 1855, Austerlitz 1825, and the 1835 censuses of Coeymans, Westerlo, Root, Ulysses and Gouverneur. These also are unindexed and one popular genealogical guide implies that the 1845 and '55 State census records have been published, but that is not correct. Only the statistical tables have been printed, not lists of names.

Many of the New York State censuses have been microfilmed by the Genealogical Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormons) and it is recommended that you contact them for detailed questions about their records. The address is:

The Genealogical Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints
107 South Main Street
Salt Lake City, Utah 84111

Special censuses

The State Library also has the following special censuses available on microfilm for reference use:

Census of Agriculture - 1850 - 1880
Census of Defective, Dependent and Delinquent Classes - 1880
Census of Industry - 1820, 1850, 1860, 1870 (Erie Co. onward), 1880
Mortality Census - 1850 - 1880
Social Statistics - 1850-1880

The library staff cannot search either the population nor the special census records. Useful books for searching the census records are:

McMullen, Phillip. New York in 1800; an index to the Federal Census schedules of the State of New York, with other aids to research. Prepared by Winston De Ville, Provo, Utah Bendex Corp. 1971.

Kirkham, E. Kay. A handy guide to record-searching in the larger cities of the U.S. Logan, Utah, Everton Publishers, 1974. $7.95

Both state and federal census records are arranged geographically and not by personal name. There is a microfilm index to the 1880 federal census for New York State. This index is available for reference use at the New York State Library.

Dear Mrs. Jordan:

Thank you for your letter of inquiry on your WOODARD names - I think that you are burdened with the same problem so many of us have - too many WOODARDs to find!!

I am only very sorry that I have no records in my possession which contain your names - the only possibility of reference that I can mention is that in our research for my husband's family we went through as many records in Jefferson County, New York as we could find - this is where we found the family in 1800 census, in the town of Champion in that county.

The first known of our family is recorded in the census as having been born in Vermont and probably married there about 1790. In going through the 1800 census of Vermont we found many Wood(w)ard families, but nothing to indicate a connection with ours so far!

From Champion, NY, the family of several sons of Rutsey W. (the 1st known) went up into Canada, where they lived for a few years in South Norwich Oxford Co, Ontario, before returning to N.Y. Some then went on to Speaker Twp in Sanilac Co, Michigan, others went on to Monroe Co., Wisconsin. My husband is from the Wisconsin branch, and there were quite a lot of Ws there!

I do wish you success in your search!!

Best wishes,

Mary L. Johnson

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Through the Everton Roots Cellar search, I've been sent your name as researching the Woodard family.

I've been doing research for many years, but this particular line has been stumped....my grandmother. This is what I know of her.

Charlotte M. Woodard b Dec 1844 (ref. Census)NY/VT?? m Enders Stanton Hill 17 Feb 1863 (ref.. marr. license)
d. 9 Oct 1917 (ref.. death cert.)
Little Rock,AR

From my cousins, who grew up in the household with her, I have this family story.

"Lottie" was orphaned 'young' and was sent to live with relatives where she was treated as a servant. One cousin stated she thought her grandmother had said that their names were 'Sanford'. 'Lottie' had two brothers, 'Ham' and 'Jade'.

Her death certificate stated her father's name was A. J. Woodard. Her mother's name was stated as being Elizabeth Stanton. These people have been found on the 1850 Census, Wash.,Co.,NY with no children...could not find them on the 1860 census, also I have found her in subsequent census after her marriage.

They married in Florida,Montg.,NY; lived in Harvard,McHenry,IL for a few years and then came to Little Rock because 'she had a brother there'. I have found a 'D. H. Woodard in 1880 census b in NY with wife and children, one boy named 'Hammie'..perhaps her brother, I don't know.

With this small synopsis, could your records help me? I would be ever so grateful. This brick wall that I've been fighting for too long is shrehard!!

A SASE is enclosed for your reply, which I await impatiently.

Most Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Jordan

Thank you for your inquiry on your WOODARD names - I think that you are burdened with the Everton Roots Cellar search, I've been sent your name as researching the Woodard family.

I've been doing research for many years, but this particular line has been a tough one. My grandmother. This is what I know of the records in my husband's family - the only possibility of reference I can mention is that in our research for my husband's family we found Jefferson York as we could find - this is where we found the family in 1800 census, in Champion in that county.

From Champion, NY, the family of several sons moved up into Canada, South Norwich Sanilac Co, Wisconsin. My husband is from the Wisconsin branch, and probably married there about 1790. In going back we found "Lottie" was orphaned 'young' and was sent to live with relatives who were, we learned as a servant. One cousin stated she thought her grandmother had said that their names were 'Sanford', 'Lottie' had two brothers, 'Ham' and 'Jade'.

Her mother's name was listed as being Elizabeth Stanton. These people have been found on the 1850 census, Wash.,Co.,NY with no mention of Lottie. Could not find them on the 1860 census, also I have found her in subsequent census after her marriage.

They married in Florida,Monty.,NY. lived in Harvard,McHenry,Il for a few years and then came to Little Rock because 'she had a brother there'. Have found ab'D. H. Woodard in 1880 census in Ch.,NY with wife and children, one boy named 'Hammie'..perhaps her brother, I don't know.

With this small approach, could your records help me? I would be ever so grateful. This brick wall that I've been fighting for too long is amazing!!

Dear Vivian,

Sorry for the delay. I have a son getting married in two weeks, so genealogy has taken a back seat.

Nothing very exciting on the Woodard family turned up. I, as anusual checked the D.A.R. Bible records and Rev. War index. Done some digging in the Montgomery County and Washington County area also.

Enclosed are a few Woodard records I did find. Although I can't see that they connect to your line, maybe at a later date they will tie in.

As soon as the wedding is over, I'll give the Mosher line another try.

I'll keep in touch.

Dear Vivian,

Sorry for the delay. I have a son getting married in two weeks, so genealogy has temporarily ceased.

Enclosed are a few Woodard records I did find. I thought you can't see that they correspond to your ancestors but later date they will tie in.

Dear Wood(w)ard Researcher,

Thanks for your recent letter of enquiry. Because I've received many letters, and several of you have asked similar questions, I am responding with a semi-form letter, then will make additional personal remarks, as appropiate.

First, to call our selves a WOODARD Association is slightly presumptious. Actually, we are a loosely knit group of descendants of John Wesley and Hannah (RAINS ?) WOODARD. This couple was born in Virginia, ca 1777, and North Carolina, ca 1786, respectfully. Our first documentation of them is a tax roll in Warren County, Tennessee in 1812. In 1820 they were still in this county. In 1830 they were in McNairy County, Tenn. All children were born by 1824, and all were born in Tennessee. In the late 1830's we find them in Tishomingo County, Mississippi, then by 1840 they were in Marion County, Arkansas and in 1850 they were in Yell County, Arkansas. Between 1852-55 they moved to Lamar County, Texas, where they died during the Civil War years. What stories they must have been able to tell!!! We know nothing of their parents, but have some information on their children and grand-children, then their gr-grandchildren become so numerous no one has compiled all of these in one place. That is a long range goal of mine.

At the annual reunion in Glen Rose, Texas, which is held on the third Sunday in July, I made copies of your letters and made them available to all who were there, with instructions to contact you directly, or to let me know if anyone recognized any of the names that were mentioned. As you read above, we are all from one family, and you see our migration route, so we were unable to make any connections.

As for how to start a family association, I'm afraid I have no sure fire way. Ours is merely an out growth of cousins gathering from all over Texas (mostly), setting a time and place, then a whole bunch of letter writing and encouraging. We have no regularly scheduled news letter.

Dear Mrs. Jordan,
I thought we might be able to work on the common name of "Charlotte Woodard", but have not found anything which might help you. Our line was too far south to be tied in with yours in the appropriate time frame. Enclosed is a copy of this couples children and grandchildren. Should you come across anything that might assist my work, I'd appreciate your help. I'll keep your letter on file, and let you know if I find a clue for you.

Sincerely,
Don Schimpf

Dear woodward/and Rosemunder,

Thanks for your recent letter of enquiry. Because I've received many letters, and several of you have asked similar questions, I am responding with a semi-form letter, then will make additional personal remarks as appropriate.

First, to call our selves a WOODWARD Association is slightly presumptious. Actually, we are a loosely knit group of descendants of John Wesley and Hannah (Haines ?) WOODWARD. Dear Mr. Smith:

I need your help in finding my grandmother!

Her name was Charlotte (Lottie) M. Woodard b Dec 1844 NY.

I never knew her but from cousins I have gleaned this family story; Lottie was orphaned 'young'; she had siblings...the only ones with names are brothers, 'Ham' and 'Jade', I do not know if they were older or younger. She was sent to live with cousins where she was worked as if a maid.

My records begin when she was married to my Grandfather, Enders Stanton Hill, 17 Feb 1863. in Montgomery Co., NY. The obvious census searches have been done to no avail, Indices checked for any Woodard/Woodward have proven fruitless. The 1855 State Census of NY has been looked at and I did find a Woodard 57 in Amsterdam, Montg. ,NY with wife and teen age ch, no Lottie.

The Morman IGI file has shown me some Woodards in Sullivan Co.

There is a Family Assoc. for Woodwards which I have had queries in for some time and no luck.

Researchers in Montgomery Co has looked for me, my Hill family was in and around Florida, NY from 1777 on but so far no connection for my Woodards.

Do you have any family histories on Woodards or do you know of anyone working on this line?

I'm enclosing a SASE for your reply. Any suggestions or directions would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

1830 & 40 Fed Census shows Bradford Woodard in Montg. Co.

Dear Mrs. Savard:

I saw your query re Maggie E. Woodard b 1848 NY.

I'm looking for any information on my grandmother, who was orphaned 'young' the family story goes, who had brothers 'Ham' and 'Jade'. I never knew her, these are the only clues that I have.

Her name, Charlotte (Lottie) M. Woodard b ca 1840/44 NY or VT was married in Ft. Jackson, Montgomery, NY 1863. Died in Little Rock, AR 1917.

The reason your query caught my eye, other than the surname, was 'Maggie E.'. A cousin, quite elderly in Little Rock, grew up with our mutual grandmother in the household. This cousin, had, years ago, photo albums and I remember distinctly a Maggie E. Woodard.

I can hardly wait to get an answer from you. Not knowing your postage rates, please tell me your expense and I'll gladly refund your postage.

P. S. Nancy wishes me to add, that her & Calvins mother died on the 15th of April last. You have probably heard of it.

She also wishes me to write you that there is some prospect of getting a large fortune from Holland that belongs to the Heirs of the House family, in conjunction with the Maybie family, who emigrated from Holland some 200. years ago, Calvins Great Grandmother was a Maybie. The rumor is that $15,000,000 have been deposited with the Holland Government, for the Maybie & House heirs. The House & Maybie families are very numerous, therefore each heir cannot expect many thousand Dollars. The report may be true, & it may be false. It is being investigated. We'll write again as soon as I get any news. M. L.

Richfield Springs Oct. 15th 1868

Mrs. Calvin Woodard,
Hubbardston, Michigan,

Dear Sister

It is a long time, since I have heard from you, or, your family. I concluded therefore, that it was my duty to write you, as you did not write me, not recollecting which wrote last. In looking over my papers some two, or three days ago, I unexpectedly came across the Mortgage you & Calvin gave me Jan. 21st 1854. I had supposed that I sent it to Calvin, when he wrote me to release a portion of the lot, the Mortgage covered, I was glad to find it however, I had kept it in my trunk with other valuable papers previous to the time he wrote me for a release, & supposed I had returned it, to its proper place, but it seems, it had got into a pigeon hole, in my writing desk, with other old papers, that I had put in there, never expecting to look at them, only in case it became necessary to do so, I was looking through those papers more out of curiosity, than otherwise, when I found it, I suppose you would be glad to get it, & the note that was given with it, which I will send you as soon as I can cancel the mortgage, by its being paid, which it will be necessary for me to do, before it will be of any value to you, That I promise to do, as soon as you remit to me the amount that will be due me when I recieve it, which I hope will be soon, I sent you a copy of the note with endorsments some time ago, On the 14th of Oct. 1865, at the date of last endorsement there was due $42.95/100 $52.07/100 (Fifty two Dollars seven cents) being due, on the 14th of Oct. 1868, being 3 years yesterday since last endorsement, of $120.00,

It has been a long time since I let Calvin have the money, a part of it 14 years ago this Fall, balance in Jan. following, Calvin agreed to pay interest annually, as the note states, which would make some $50.00 more than I ask you to pay, as I suppose it is hard enough for you to pay simple interest, or 7 per ct. However I have been the loser, of that amount, I trust you will send me the amount due me, as soon after you recieve this, as possible, that I may send you mortgage & note satisfied, Write us fully about your Family, Nancy & myself are both getting old. I paised my 65 birth day on the 7 of this month, Write soon,

From your Brother, Hamilton Colman

is not wholly paid yett, but if Providence will spare my life 2 or 3 years more I hope to see the last Dollar paid, Have you a likeness of Calvin? Nancy wishes you to send it if you have it to spare, also your likeness, & the likeness of all your Children, if you have the likenesses you can have them Photographed, If you you can send them deduct the expense of the same from what you owe me, Please write us all about your family, I am glad your circumstances are as good as they are, that you have only a few debts left for you to pay, Write often & believe us as ever your Brother & Sister Hamilton Colman & Nancy Colman

Richfield Springs March 8th 1865
Mary B. Woodard
North Plains Michigan

Dear Sister

Your letter of Feb. 26th 1865 unexpectedly notifying us of the sudden (& ~~to~~ you as well as us ~~of the sudden~~ death of your Husband and our Brother, & to be taken from you in the way he was, & you to know nothing of it, until his lifeless body was brought into your presence must have been a trying time to you, and a time that required resignation to the inscrutable ways of Divine Providence, How singular that his Brother Henry as well as himself should both lose their lives in the same way and from the same cause

Nancy & I both thought much very much of Calvin, He has lived with us a great deal, I have worked with him many, very many days, & I do not recollect that there ever passed an unpleasant word between us, Nancy always took pains with his clothes, & kept them clean & well repaired, & when he went in company, there was no young man whose dress was more tidy than his, Calvin was honest as far as I knew him, & was justly entitled to the proverb "that an honest man is the noblest work of God." My Dear Sister we feel to sympathize with you in this your severe loss, & affliction, May a kind Providence support you, and your dear Children in this time of your severe trial, and may you place implicit confidence in his promises, that He will be the Widows God, and a Father to the fatherless. You write you have eight Children, the youngest 3 years old. Are any of your children married? How many boys, & how many girls? How old is your oldest boy? Is his health, & age such that he can manage the farm? You als ask me what your indebtedness is to me On the first day of April next it will be ($157.00) One Hundred & fifty seven Dollars, with simple interest, If interest had been computed annually as both & Mortgage specify — it would amount at same time to $190.29, but I only claim simple interest, & as you are now situated I will not take any more, I wish I was able to present you the debt, but I have had a hard time almost ever since I let the money to Calvin, I let him have the money in 1854, Jan. 21st, that year & the next I lost over $20,000.00 (Twenty thousand Dollars) & the debt

26 Feb 1865 sudden death of Calvin Woodard

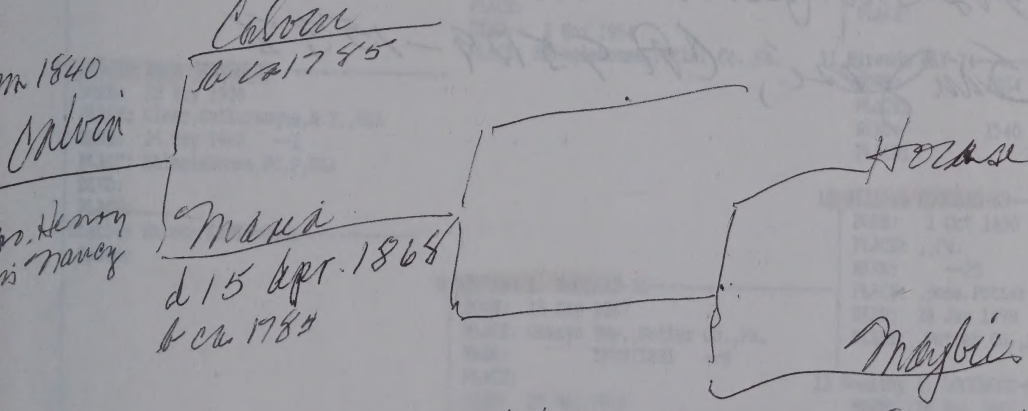
m. 1840 wife — Mary B. (Smith) of Richfield Springs, Hubbardston, Mi

8 ch. - youngest in 1865 - 9 yrs.

Calvin Woodard had bro. Henry who d. suddenly.

" " had sister, Nancy Coleman m. to (Hamilton) Coleman

In 8 Mar 1865 Mary B. Woodard, widow of Calvin lived in Richfield Springs, North Plains, Mich. Coleman still owed debt to brother in law, Hamilton ~~Coleman~~ $158. borrowed by Calvin.



2nd letter from Hamilton Coleman husband of Nancy Woodard Coleman dated 15 Oct 1868. Hamilton states he is 'old' birthday on 7 Oct. 1868 he was 65. He asks for payment of $52.00 past due'

20 July 2001.

Vivian,
Maybe there are some more clues in this stuff that you can figure out. Ths is the first time I've seen three clues (Woodard, Montgomery county, NY, and "Hammie" and Pennsylvania) all together.
It'll probably be a bust but you never know.

Calvin the younger disappeared in 1860 and doesn't show up again til his death in 1865. Maybe he went off to join the army (either side) in Arkansas???

Good luck!

Descendants of Calvin Woodard

Generation No. 1

1. CALVIN[1] WOODARD was born Abt. 1785. He married MARIA. She was born Abt. 1785, and died April 21, 1868.

Notes for CALVIN WOODARD:
Ref to this Calvin WOODARD is found twice in the church record from Lutheran St Paul's Church, Milnden, Montgomery Co, NY., otherwise known as " The Geisenberg Church".

#2064 "Henry , geb. 24tn Decemb.1810, get.d 31st Mears, 1811Calvin Woodard frau Maria, (wil) Heinrich Baum und frau Catharina.

#2550 "Calvin, geb d 13tn Mehli, 1813, get d 13tn Juny, 1813, Calvin Woodard frau Maria (wil) Conrad Ruff und Elizabeth Haus
(Ref to LDS IGI film 1002781)

NOTE!! The link from this Calvin WOODARD to Calvin WOODARD whose spouse is Mary B. SMITH is SPECULATIVE. The existance of the baptism record does not necessarily prove the link. Time and location of the baptism seem to fit other factual information, especially age, for that of Calvin WOODARD, spouse of Mary B. SMITH. The above are all facts from which the case can be made that Calvin WOODARD baptized in Milnden in 1813 is the same Calvin Woodard who Married Mary B. Smith in Ionia MI in 1840. I can find no other Calvin WOOD(W)ARDS in that area during at that time period.

Milnden is on the far West border of Montgomery county, bordering on Herkimer. Danube,a town in Herkimer county, was originally part of Milnden and split off in 1817.

In various post-1850 census for listing Calvin and Mary's issue I have found several instances of their father's (Calvin) birthplace given as Pennsylvania. Therefore I cannot state Calvin was b and/or baptized in NY with out having a at least little doubt. Calvin was not listed in 1850 or later census that I could find. I have found no other vital records, probate records, obits, etc for him. A church record from the Methodist Episcopal Church in Hubbardston, was located in Carson City, Montcalm County by researcher, Lavonne Bennett, that states Calvin Woodard died Feb 13, 1868. I have numerous land records from Ionia County that indicate Calvin was still alive in 1861. Additionally his youngest son, Adelbert, was b. in 1862 (date subject to some argument).

Children of CALVIN WOODARD and MARIA are:
i. HENRY WOODARD, b. December 24, 1810.

Notes for HENRY WOODARD:
Baptism record from the records of Lutheran St Paul's Church in the Town of Milnden, Montgomery county, New York.

"Henry, born 24 December, 1810, baptised 31st of May, 1811, parents Calvin Woodard and Maria.
Witnesses were Henrich Baum and his wife Catharina"

In a letter from Hamilton Coleman to Mary B. Woodard (wife of Calvin Woodard) written March 8, 1865, Mr Coleman writes (about Calvin): "How singular that his brother Henry, as well as himself should both loose their lives in the same way, and from the same cause".

Considering the preceding two items I believe there is no doubt that the brothers Calvin and Henry, sons of Calvin and Maria WOODARD who were baptised at Lutheran St. Paul's in Minden , NY are the same Calvin and Henry of this family.

10/12/97: No additional information available on this Henry WOODWARD.

2. ii. CALVIN WOODARD, b. March 13, 1813, Minden Twp, Montgomery Co. NY; d. February 13, 1865, North Plains, Ionia Co, Michigan*.

Generation No. 2

2. CALVIN[2] WOODARD (CALVIN[1]) was born March 13, 1813 in Minden Twp, Montgomery Co. NY (Source: LDS film # 0925958), and died February 13, 1865 in North Plains, Ionia Co, Michigan* (Source: Evangelical Methodist Church Records, North Plains, IOCO, MI. This Church burned and records were found in the EM church in Carson City, Montcalm Co, MI). He married MARY B. SMITH March 08, 1840 in Ionia, Ionia MI (Source: Marriage records, Ionia County, MI, 1837-1867, LDS film # 0925958), daughter of JESSE SMITH and POLLY. She was born August 30, 1819 in Ontario Co., NY (Source: marriage record from Ionia Co, MI), and died September 16, 1881 in MI.

I have in my possession, land transaction records made by Calvin and Mary WOODARD btween 1835 an 1876. These records were researched for me by Lavonne Bennett in Ionia and Clinton counties.

I have been unable to locate Calvin WOODARD in any other MI census except for the 1840 and 1850. The whole family except for Melissa and Calista do not show up in any MI census for 1860. Melissa and Calista are enumerated with other families as live in domestic servants in 1860.

2/6/97: Called and spoke to Carolyn (WOODARD) Long.Phone 517-834-2132. Her father was Lester WOODARD, Mother was Doreen (Taber) WOODARD. Carolyn has an aunt whose name was Calista Jane,same as Calvin's daughter. Carolyn informed me her mother had initiated a genealogy room at the public library in Elsie (Shiawassee County) and had donated copies of her WOODARD genealogy work which is still in the library. She referred me to Doris Gregor whom I called, 517 862 4406 on No Warren Road, 48831, Elsie MI.

Doris provided me with a pedigree chart for a Calvin WOODARD b. Clinton Co, MI, 1882. His fa name was John Clayton WOODARD, b 1853, Steuben Co, NY, son of John Calvin WOODARD b.1824, Steuben Co, his fa John WOODARD, b 10 april 1786. Could this be bro to Calvin WOODARD of Minden? Also in this line are brothers, Clayton Edwin WOODARD b 10 Feb, Shiawassee and Lester Calvin WOODARD b 24 Feb, 1917 Shiawassee Co.

Info received from Sharon K. Merren 1/23/98:
Calvin and Mary belonged to the Hubbardston Methodist Episcopal Church

Notes for MARY B. SMITH:
Census data:
1880:MI Fed census, Clinton Co, Lebanon twp, p9, line 24, with Lorin W. Dexter.
1870:MI Fed census, Clinton Co, Lebanon twp, p5, line 39: age 46, NY. Owns real estate valued at 2700.00, pers prop $140.00.
1860: Not found.
1850: MI Fed census, Ionia Co, Easton twp,
1840: would not be listed, not head of household.

Calvin and Mary were married by Justice of the peace Thomas Cornell Witnesses were Chester SCOVILL , ABIGAIL SCOVILL and Betsey B. WEBSTER, All residents of the twp and county of Ionia, MI.

The following excerpt is taken from the " History of Ionia County" be Rev E.E.Branch.

"The identity of the first person born in Orleans is not easily defined, for there appear to be claims to that distinction on behalf of three children, of whom one was Abbey, daughter of Chester Scofield, born in 1841; in that year were born George Palmer, son of Asa Palmer, and Calista, daughter of Calvin Woodard, who married Mary Smith, sister of Chester Scofield's wife."

The above information is the only indication found thus far that Calvin and Mary lived in Orleans twp.

Mary married Loren DEXTER of Lebanon,MI. Mary lived in Lebanon at this time also.

between 1835 an 1876. Three records were researched for me by LaVonne Bennett in Ionia and Clinton counties.

I have been unable to locate Calvin WOODARD in any other MI census except for the 1840 and 1850. The whole family except for Melissa and Celiata do not show up in any MI census for 1860. Melissa and Celiata are enumerated with other families as live in domestic servants in 1860.

2/8/97: Called and spoke to Carolyn (WOODARD) Long.Phone 317-834-2132. Her father was Lester WOODARD. Mother was Doreen (Taber) WOODARD. The following is a accounting of the actions of the 10th Michigan during the Civil War:

10th Regiment Michigan Cavalry 1863-65
The rendezvous of the Tenth Cavalry was at Grand Rapids, and was raised under the direction of Colonel Thaddeus Foote of the Sixth Michigan Cavalry. Its recruitment commenced July 4, 1863, then was mustered into the United States service on the 18th. of November, having on its rolls 912 officers and men.
The Regiment left its rendezvous December 1, 1863, under the command of Colonel Foote, with orders to proceed to the field in Kentucky via Cincinnati to Lexington, where they remained until the 25th. of January, 1864, when they moved to Burnside Point, having engaged the confederates at House Mountain.

The Tenth remained at Burnside Point from the 2nd to the 29th. of February, when they traveled to Knoxville, East Tennessee, thence marched on the 16th., to Strawberry Plains, having met the rebels on the 26th., at Bean's Gap.

On the 24th. of April, the Regiment moved from that point with orders from General J.D. Cox, commanding 3rd. Division, 23rd. Corp, to destroy a railroad bridge over the Watanga River at Carter's Station. Having skirmished with the confederates at Rheatown on the 24th., at Jonesboro and Johnsonville on the 25th. Reaching Carter's Station on that day, where under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Trowbridge, together with the 3rd. Indiana Cavalry,supported if necessary by Manson's Brigade of Cox's Division, which marched up as far as Jonesboro, twelve miles from Carter's Station, the rebels were discovered in strong force, in a well defended position, and an assault was at once commenced.

The bridge was defended by the confederate General A.E. Jackson, called the "Mudwall Jackson", with a strong redoubt, with extensive and well constructed rifle pits.

The union force had one mountain howitzer, commanded by Lieutenant E.J. Brooks, but owing to a very limited amount of ammunition, he was unable to accomplish much, made some remarkably telling shots. It was soon ascertained that there was no possible way of reaching the bridge without first dislodging the rebels from their strong position, and this had to be accomplished at much risk by passing over perfectly open ground for Having skirmished with the confederates at Rheatown on the 24th, at Jonesboro and Jonesville on the 25th, Reaching Carter's Station on that day, where under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Throwbridge, together with the 3rd, Indiana Cavalry supported if necessary by Manson's Brigade of Cox's Division, which marched up as far as Jonesboro, twelve miles from Carter's Station, the rebels were discovered in strong force, in a well defended position, and an assault was at once commenced.

The bridge was defended by the confederate General A.E. Jackson, called the "Mudwall Jackson", with a strong redoubt, with extensive and well constructed rifle pits.

The union force had one mountain howitzer, commanded by Lieutenant E.J. Brooks, but owing to a very limited amount of ammunition, he was unable to accomplish much, made some remarkably telling shots. It was soon ascertained that there was no possible way of reaching the bridge without that dislodging the rebels from their strong position, and this had to be accomplished at much risk by passing over perfectly open ground for a distance of 200 yards, swept by a very sharp and hot cross fire from the opposite side of the river. Yet, being the first heavy undertaking by the Regiment, Colonel Trowbridge felt unwilling to retire without accomplishing something, as it would produce an unfavorable effect upon his command. He therefore decided to make an attempt, dismounting about one third of his men. With this small force he ordered an advance upon the opposite position at the double quick, when they gave way in great disorder, leaving their works, and taking shelter in a large mill near at hand. Major Smith being the first to enter the redoubt, with Captain Weatherwax the second. As soon as the redoubt was gained, an attempt was made to drive the confederates from the mill, but the charging force was met with such a terrible and destructive volley, that it was abandoned. In this daring and gallant attempt, Captain Weatherwax lost his life, being shot through the heart.

The fight was a brilliant success, though obtained at a loss of seventeen killed and wounded, and must be recognized as an uncommon victory, considering it was gained by dismounted cavalry, new and undisciplined, over a much superior force of well trained infantry, holding strong defensive works, and having, in addition, to meet a most galling cross fire, thus rendering the success uncommon at that stage of the rebellion, and should be classed among the most gallant minor victories of the war.

The Regiment was engaged at Powder Springs Gap on April 28th., 1864, then at Dandridge on May 19th. On the 28th., a reconnaissance was made from Strawberry Plains by one hundred and sixty men of the Regiment. Next day they reached Bull's Gap, the following at Greenville, where at 2:30 P.M., the confederates were encountered, over one hundred strong. A brisk fight ensued, the rebels loosing 24 killed, 14 wounded.

In June they met the southerners in skirmishes at Morristown on the 2nd., at Bean's Station the 16th., Rodgersville the 17th., Kingsport the 18th., Cany Branch the 20th., New Market the 21st., Moseburg the 23rd., William's Ford the 25th., and then at Dutch Bottom on the 28th.

During the month of July and the early part of August, detachments of the Regiment were constantly engaged in scouting and pursuing small bands of rebels in East Tennessee, meeting them at Seveirville July 5th., at Newport July 8th., Morristown August 5th., then at Greenville on the 4th.

On the 17th. of August, the Tenth was ordered to report for temporary duty to Brigadier General Gilliam, commanding the East Tennessee Expedition, then on the 18th., left Strawberry Plains, 325 strong, three companies "D", "F" and "I", being left at Knoxville. Proceeding on the march, skirmishes with the rebels occurred at Mossy Creek on the 18th., and at Bull's Gap on the 21st.

On the 23rd., Giltner's Brigade was met at Blue Springs, where a sharp fight took place when the confederates being dislodged from a strong position, then pursued for seven miles, in great confusion, through Greenville, the Tenth losing six wounded, two of whom died.

Having moved through Rodgersville, Bean's Station and Bull's Gap, the Regiment returned on the 31st., to Strawberry Plains.

While the Tenth was absent a detachment of the Regiment, numbering about 125 men, was left in garrison at Strawberry Plains, along with 150 men from other commands. They were attacked on August 24th., by a rebel cavalry corp under the command of General Wheeler, numbering about 6000 to 8000 men, with nine pieces of artillery. The union troops made a successful defence against this force, and thus saved the post from capture and the great railroad bridge from destruction.

During the month of July and the early part of August, detachments of the Regiment were constantly engaged in scouting and pursuing small bands of rebels in East Tennessee, meeting them at Sevierville July 5th., at Newport July 6th., Morristown August 5th., then at Greenville on the 4th.

On the 17th. of August, the Tenth was ordered to report for temporary duty to Brigadier General Gillem, commanding the East Tennessee Expedition, then on the 18th., left Strawberry Plains, 325 strong, three companies "D", "F" and "I", being left at Knoxville. Proceeding on the march, skirmishes with the rebels occurred at Mossy Creek on the 18th., and at Bull's Gap on the 21st.

On the 22nd., Gillem's Brigade was met at Blue Springs, where a sharp fight took place when the confederates being dislodged from a strong position, then pursued for seven miles, in great confusion, through Greenville, the Tenth losing six wounded, two of whom died.

Having moved through Rogersville, Bean's Station and Bull's Gap, the Regiment returned on the 31st., to Strawberry Plains.

While the Tenth was absent a detachment of the Regiment, numbering about 125 men, was left in garrison at Strawberry Plains, along with 130 men from other commands. They were attacked on August 24th., by a rebel cavalry corp under the command of General Wheeler, numbering about 6000 to 8000 men, with nine pieces of artillery. The union troops made a successful defence against this force, and thus saved the post from capture and the great railroad bridge from destruction.

During this attack, seven men, by hard fighting, held McMillan's Ford, on the Holston River, for three and one half hours, against a brigade of rebel cavalry, killing 40 to 50 of them, but were finally surrounded and captured.

On the same day, Major Smith, of the Tenth, was sent out from Knoxville, with 72 men, all that could be mustered, to scout in the direction of Strawberry Plains and ascertain the position of the confederates. With the spirit of a cavalryman, he ordered his advance guard to charge the first group of rebels they might encounter. They discovered a force about two miles from Flat Creek Bridge, where according to orders, charged them in gallant style. Smith followed up with his command. The rebels proved to be the 8th. Texas Cavalry, 400 strong, Smith routed them completely, capturing their commanding officer, along with 40 men, hotly pursuing them until he came to the Flat Creek Bridge, a long, high and narrow bridge. Over this Smith charged, to find himself confronted by Hume's Division of cavalry, 2000 strong, drawn up in line of battle, scarcely 300 yards from the bridge. Of course he had to get away, which he succeeded in doing without any great loss, though the rebels chased them for seven miles. The boldness of the thing annoyed the rebels, not a little, and they ever after entertained a wholesome fear of the 10th. Michigan.

On the 4th. of November, General Morgan, with a force of 7000 men and 9 pieces of artillery, two regiments of infantry and his entire cavalry force, were encamped along the Greenville Road in East Tennessee. The Tenth Michigan was camped near Bull's Gap, and they are ordered to attack the confederate camp. Marching all night, they dismount at daybreak and charges into Morgan's first camp, driving the rebels in hot haste, leaving their breakfast half cooked, along with their dead and wounded. Reaching the second camp, the rebels are found better prepared. General Gilliam comes up with the Ninth Tennessee Cavalry, orders them to charge with sabres, but a sharp fire from the southerners drives the regiment back. The Thirteenth Tennessee Cavalry comes up, the rebels driving the Ninth rapidly, with a large force, filling the road from fence to fence. The Tenth Michigan opens fire at half pistol range with their carbines, and soon the road is blocked with dead and wounded, men and horses both. The Confederates confused, hastily falls back, pursued to the woods, but is shelled out and pushes on to Greenville, is again charged on, becomes demoralized, breaks up and flees. Morgan and his staff are discovered under the shelter of a house, a Company of the Thirteenth Tennessee are sent to capture him, he rushes for his horse, but is shot in the attempt by a sergeant of the Company.

During the month the Tenth was constantly engaged in pursuing the forces of Morgan and Wheeler, and skirmished at Sweet Water and Thorn Hill on the 10th., then at Sevierville on the 18th. On the 30th., the Regiment assisted in driving the Confederates from Carter's Station.

In October they were employed on picket duty and scouting, having encountered the rebels at Johnson's Station on the 1st. and 2nd., Chucky Bend the 10th., Newport on the 18th., Irish Bottom the 25th., then Madisonville on the 30th.

The Regiment was stationed at Strawberry Plains on the 1st. of November, 1864, engaged in fortifying that point, also in the usual camp duties, including scouting. On the 16th., General Breckenridge, with a large rebel force, made his appearance in front of the garrison, where on the 17th., commenced a vigorous with artillery fire from the opposite shore of the Hudson River, at the same time threatening the rear with a heavy cavalry force. Constant skirmishing and occasional artillery firing kept up for four days, the rebels finally withdrawing on the 24th.

During the remaining portion of the month, and up to December 6th., the Regiment remained at Strawberry Plains, when they moved to Knoxville, then soon after made an expedition to Saltville, where they destroyed the salt works, being engaged at Kingport the 12th., Bristol, the 14th., then at Saltville on the 20th. Returning to Knoxville, they

During the month the Tenth was constantly engaged in pursuing the forces of Morgan and Wheeler, and skirmished at Sweet Water and Tiram Hill on the 10th., then at Sevierville on the 18th. On the 30th., the Regiment assisted in driving the Confederates from Cantor's Station.

In October they were employed on picket duty and scouting, having encountered the rebels at Johnson's Station on the 1st. and 2nd., Chuckey Bend the 10th., Newport on the 18th., Irish Bottom the 26th., then Madisonville on the 30th.

The Regiment was stationed at Strawberry Plains on the 1st. of November, 1864, engaged in fortifying that point, also in the usual camp duties, including scouting. Constant skirmishing and occasional artillery firing kept up for four days, the rebels finally withdrawing on the 24th.

During the remaining portion of the month, and up to December 6th., the Regiment remained at Strawberry Plains, when they moved to Knoxville, then soon after made an expedition to Sativille, where they destroyed the salt works, being engaged at Kingport the 12th., Bristol, the 14th., then at Sativille on the 20th. Returning to Knoxville, they had a skirmish at Chucky Bend January 10th., 1865. Remaining at Knoxville until March 21st., they marched to Upper East Tennessee, to join General Stoneman's expedition into North Carolina, where they were engaged at Brabson's Mills on the 25th., then at Boonville, N.C. on the 27th. Proceeding via Wilkesboro, thence down to the Yadkin River, in the direction of Salisberry, reaching the Tennessee and Virginia Railroad at Christianburg, April 5th., they assisted in destroying over one hundred miles of that railroad, together with the bridges. This accomplished the Regiment made a rapid march of ninety-five miles to Henry Court House, making the distance in twenty-two hours.

At that point, they became engaged with a superior force of Confederate cavalry and infantry on the 8th., after a brisk fire fight, retired, the Regiment losing many men.

The Regiment had been detached at Salem on the 10th., sent to destroy the bridge over Abbott's Creek, then, if not opposed, to join General Stoneman at Salisberry. The Tenth marched all night, one battalion was sent to High Point to attract the Confederates in that direction, and succeeded in destroying $300,000 worth of southern supplies without loss, Meanwhile the other two battalions, not numbering more that 250 men, were marching in the other direction. It was important to destroy the bridge before daylight, and on being informed that there were no rebels nearby, the Colonel sent forward two companies for that purpose. While the remaining force was moving leisurely along, and as daylight was breaking, they suddenly came upon southern pickets, where it was ascertained that Ferguson's Brigade, of Wheeler's cavalry, numbering about 1200 men, were about a mile ahead. The horses of the command were much worn out, and the force about one sixth that of the rebels, and twenty miles from any support, rendering a contest extremely hazardous and with little hope of success, but as General Stoneman was at work in Salisberry, and needed assistance, it was important to draw off as soon as the two detached companies returned.

While awaiting them, the command was put in a position of defence, determined if attacked, to make the best defence possible. Soon the companies returned, reporting they had destroyed the bridge. The main objective having been accomplished, the command commenced to withdraw by alternate squadrons, leaving one company to hold the southerners in check until the withdrawal was complete. As soon as the movement was detected, the Confederates attacked with great vigor, not only with cavalry, but with a large body of infantry, sending a column on each flank, making an attempt to surround the little band. This fight lasted for six miles, when the rebels, despairing on closing with the handful of brave men and disheartened by their losses, stopped their pursuit, allowing the Union men to retire to the main command.

They were also engaged at High Point on the same day, while the main body captured Salisberry, destroying a large amount of stores.

The Regiment then was employed along the Catawaba River, when news of Johnston's surrender arrived, whereupon they set out on a scout mission for the purpose of preventing the escape of Jefferson Davis, but they were soon ordered to proceed to Tennessee, where they remained, at Memphis until November 11th., when they were mustered out of the service, returned to Michigan, arriving at Jackson on the 15th., to be paid off and disbanded.

During their term of Federal service, they were engaged at:

House Mountain,Tn/ Bean's Gap,Tn/ Rheatown,Tn/ Jonesboro,Tn/ Johnsonville,Tn/ Watanga,Tn/ Powder Spring Gap,Tn/ Dandridge,Tn/ Greenville,Tn/ White Horn,Tn/ Morristown,Tn/ Bean's Station,Tn/ Rogersville,Tn/ Kingsport,Tn/ Cany Branch,Tn/ William's Ford,Tn/ Dutch Bottom,Tn/ Sevierville,Tn/ Newport,Tn/ Mossy Creek,Tn/ Bull's Gap,Tn/ Blue Spring,Tn/ Strawberry Plains,Tn/ Flat Creek Bridge,Tn/ Sweet Water,Tn/ Thorn Hill,Tn/ Johnson Staton,Tn/ Irish Bottoms,Tn/ Madisonville,Tn/ Bristol,Tn/

had a skirmish at Chuckly Bend January 10th, 1865. Remaining at Knoxville until March 21st, they marched to Upper East Tennessee, to join General Stoneman's expedition into North Carolina, where they were engaged at Henderson's Mills on the 23rd, then at Boonville, N.C. on the 27th. Proceeding via Wilkesboro, thence down to the Yadkin River, in the direction of Salisbury, reaching the Tennessee and Virginia Railroad at Christiansburg, April 5th, they assisted in destroying over one hundred miles of that railroad, together with the bridges. This accomplished the Regiment made a rapid march of ninety-five miles to Henry Court House, making the distance in twenty-two hours.

At that point, they became engaged with a superior force of Confederate cavalry and infantry on the 8th, after a brisk fire fight, retired, the Regiment losing many men.

The Regiment had been detached at Salem on the 10th, sent to destroy the bridge over Abbott's Creek, then, if not opposed, to join General Stoneman at Salisbury. The Tenth marched all night, one battalion was sent to High Point to attract the Confederates in that direction, and succeeded in destroying $300,000 worth of southern supplies without loss. 2/13/97 Info from Lavonne Bennett, my genealogist researcher in Ionia, MI.
She found the "Woodward cemetery" which is located on the NE corner of Section 15 in North PlainsTwp on property that was once owned by Calvin WOODARD. This is just West of Hubbardston.
The land was covered by a foot of snow but she located the grave stone of Dillucina WOODARD. which is inscribed " Died Feb 5, 1875 Aged 17Y 2M 13D"

Later info.
I visited this cemetery with LIB, Sept17, 1997. There are only three stones one of which is for Dellusena (sic) WOODARD. We attempted to probe the ground but there were too many rocks to locate grave stones that might have fallen over and become covered. There were no more WOODARD stones. It appears grave stones may have been hauled away. The following is a summary of the transaction for the sale of the cemetery plot from Calvin to the Plainfield corp.:

and Rev. C. J. Cruse officiated. Burial was at Sumner Cemetery beside Mrs. Woodard;s late husband, Lester C. Woodard. Two of her three granddaughters, children of her only daughter, the late Mrs. Wesley Parr, were in Alma for the funeral and are Mrs. Beulah Parr Wood of Royal Oak and Mrs. Helen Parr McIntyre of State College, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Alta Parr Kline of Williams, Arizona, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Woodard's life had all the variety, including hardships and joys, which pioneer women knew in the early days. She was born in Deleware county, Ohio, August 14, 1846, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rosencrans. Coming to Michigan when the small Ximena was nine years old, the family located for a time in Clinton county and then came on to Gratiot where they purchased a farm three miles west of Alma. Her father was a Civil War veteran, a member of Company K, 21st Michigan Infantry, and the Civil War period was a familiar one to her. At about 16 she began to teach school and continued for about 4 years until she was married to Lester C. Woodard. They located at Sumner and lived in that community for many years, their children Mattie and Vance being born there. In 1904 Mr. Woodard died and for many years Mrs. Woodard made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Parr and family. When Mrs. Parr was also sumoned by death, Mrs. Woodard returned to her home community and entered the Masonic Home for her remaining years.

The little woman was cheerful and friendly and made many friends wherever she went. Always busy, she was an expert seamstress, making her own clothing, and also made a great deal of beautiful lace, knitting and crocheting it in her leisure moments. She was much interested in the local Methodist church of which she was a member, and of Alma Chapter No. 43, Order of Easter Star.

Surviving Mrs. Woodard are her son, three granddaughters, a niece, Mrs. Nellie Stoughton of Duluth, and other more distant relatives and friends."

John Lowe served with Co. K, 21st Michigan Infantry. Following accounting of the 21st Michigan's actions in the Civil War:

21st Regiment Michigan Infantry 1862-5
The Twenty-First was recruited in the Fourth Congressional District, comprising the counties of Barry, Ionia, Montcalm, Kent, Ottawa, Muskegon, Oceana, Newago, Mecosta, Mason, Manistee, Grand Traverse, Leelanaw, Manitou, Oceola, Emmet, Mackinac, Delta and Cheyboygan and was mustered into service Sept. 4, 1862, with an enrollment of 1,000 officers and men.
A beautiful silk flag was provided by the ladies of Ionia and delivered to the Regiment, on the 6th of September, at that city. he center of the flag was decorated with a American Eagle, holding its quiver of arrows, olive branch, etc. Over this, a small national flag, and beneath it, the words "Union" and "Constitution". At the same time, another flag was presented to Company "G" by the children of the Grand Haven Sunday School.

The flag was carried by the Regiment through all of its engagements, brought back to the State, and at a celebration on the 4th. of July 1865, was formally returned to the ladies by the honorable John Avery of Greenville, the highest ranking officer present, being recieved by the Hon. John Hutchins, of Ionia.

The Regiment was rendezvoused at Ionia and it left that place for Cincinnati, Ohio the 12th of Sept. and upon arrival proceeded to Louisville, Ky. It was soon to experience the realities of war, for the 8th of October it served in Sheridan's division at the battle of Perryville and though newly organized, received flattering notice from the commanding general for it's splendid deportment in this hard fought engagement.

After the battle of Perryville the Twenty-First joined General Rosecran'sarmy at Nashville for a forward movement upon Murfreesboro. Sheridan's division, having the advance, came in contact with the Confederates near Lavergne at Stewart's Creek, skirmishing heavily with him until he made his stand at Stone River. The division to which the Twenty-First belonged was on the right of the Union line which was crushed by the savage onslaught of the Confederates and driven back to the Nashville Pike. Sheridan's men were wherever the fighting was the fiercest. For hours the fate of the battle rested on him and his division, which fought with reckless daring being compelled to change front under fire several times, but always maintaining a compact body and only yielding ground after other troops had retired and his ammunition was exhausted. His men were assailed in front and in the flank, his three Brigade commanders were killed, but he brought his forces from the field in good order, ready to renew the conflict when supplied with ammunition. In the Five day's fighting in front of Stone River, the Twenty-First lost 17 killed, 89 wounded and 37 missing.

Colonel Steven's resigned Feb. 3, 1863, on account of ill health, and William B. McCreery, who had formerly served in the First Infantry was commissioned Colonel of the Twenty-First, the same date as the resignation of Colonel Steven's. During June and July of 1863, the Regiment was at Tullahoma, Cowan and Anderson Station, then occupying Bridgeport, Ala., where the Brigade was commanded by Colonel Lytle.

The Twenty-First was in General McCook's Corp and was engaged at Chickamauga, Ga., in one of the most desperate battles of the war. General Sheridan's Division was on the right of the line when General Longstreet's Division made his fierce assault, there the Twenty-First was where the battle raged fiercest. The Union forces were cut to pieces by the terrific fire of the Confederates, with their ranks broken, General Lytle killed, they slowly fell back a few hundred yards, but did not lose their organization as did other troops on that part of the battlefield. Colonel McCreery was severely wounded, falling into the hands of the Confederates, while the Regiment lost heavily in killed and wounded during the three days of carnage. The Twenty-First was specially complimented by General Sheridan for the splendid

The Twenty-First was in General McCook's Corp and was engaged at Chickamauga, Ga., in one of the most desperate battles of the war. General Sheridan's Division was on the right of the line when General Longstreet's Division made his fierce assault, there the Twenty-First was where the battle raged fiercest. The Twenty-First was specially complimented by General Sheridan for the splendid work it did during the battle.

After the battle of Chickamauga, the Regiment was placed in the Engineer Corp, working diligently during the summer, building bridges and hospital building around Chattanooga, then in November, under command of Colonel Bishop, joined the Fourteenth Corp at Kingston, Ga., then proceeded to Atlanta. The Regiment marched with its Corp, on Sherman's March to the Sea from Atlanta to Savannah, where it arrived the 10th of December.

After the fall of Savannah the Twenty-First started on its long march through South and North Carolina, reaching Bentonville, N.C. where it suffered severely in an attack upon the citys works March 19th. It fought with its usual gallantry, but this was the last severe engagement the Regiment was called upon to take part in. Upon the retreat of the Confederates from Bentonville the Twenty-First marched to Raleigh, being there when General Johnston surrendered to General Sherman.

The Twenty-First, with the balance of the Fourteenth Corp, then marched to Richmond, Va., thence to Washington, D.C., where it took part in the Grand Review, held May 24th., from whence they set forth immediately for Michigan. The Regiment was mustered out of service June 8th., paid off and disbanded at Detroit, Mich. June 22, 1865.

During their term of federal service, they were engaged at:

CIVIL WAR VETERAN HEARS FINAL CALL

John LOWE Responds to Last Roll Call.
Leaves Widow and One Brother Here

SERVED WITH SHERMAN IN HIS FAMOUS MARCH TO THE SEA

After several Months of Illness John Lowe, one of the few surviving soldiers of the 21st Michigan Infantry closed his earthly career and final taps have been sounded.
Several years ago Mr Lowe retired from active work and he and his wife spent their summers at their home here but their winters traveling extensively in the southern parts of the country.
Mr Lowe was of a cheery, likable disposition and made friends wherever he went He loved to tell of his experiences in the Great Civil War but never tired his listener with uninteresting details. He lived them again in a way that made his stories real.

The funeral was held at the home Friday afternoon. Mr and Mrs. Scott Redlem of Chicago, a cousin of the deceased, and Miss Isobel Becker, a friend of Mrs. Lowe, of Lansing, with Wortley and Blaine had Charge of arrangements. The sermon was by Rev. G.L.Stahl of the Congregational Church and the singing was by Mr and Mrs. George Johnson accompanied by Stanley White of Muskegon.

Those in attendance from far away besides many old neighbors from Burnfield, Vermontville, and Woodbury were Mrs. E. L. Burdick of Grand Rapids, Mr and Mrs. Frank Redlem of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Loo of Zeeland. Mr. Van Loo is the son of the Commanding Lieutenant under whom Mr. Lowe served in the war.

It might be interesting to note here that Jesse Holcomb of Stanton, a pal of the deceased who visited Mr Lowe in September, in good health, was buried the day Mr Lowe died.

OBITUARY

Mr. John LOWE, a Civil War veteran, the last member of Company K, 21st Michigan Infantry, passed away at his home in Lake Odessa at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, Dec.2, 1930. He was born in London, England, February 28, 1844 and came to Philadelphia with his parents at the age of four years. His father William Lowe, a noted veterinary surgeon, had the care of the horses on the stage route between buffalo and Philadelphia. He was later transferred to Buffalo and was given charge of the horses between Buffalo and Detroit on the stage route from Detroit through Ionia to Grand Rapids on the old Clinton trail. After living a short time in Detroit he bought a tract of land at a place now known as Sebewa center and moved his family into the wilderness.

From this place John Lowe, at the age of 17 years, enlisted at Ionia in the 21st Michigan Infantry, serving three years and nine months in the war. He was at the battles of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Lookout Mountain, At Atlanta he was transferred from the ranks to be Gen. Buell's orderly and went with Buell on Sherman's March to the sea.

Mr. Lowe lived his life, with the exception of a few years in Wisconsin, within the vicinity of Ionia. He was a man of sterling quality, a brave soldier, a worthy citizen and a beloved neighbor.

He is survived by one brother who still lives at Sebewa Center, and his wife of Lake Odessa, two sons of Miami, Fla., and two nieces of California.

Card of Thanks

I desire to express my sincere thanks to the friends and neighbors for their kindness, sympathy and flowers at the time of the illness and death of my husband and especially the help of the American Legion who so gently bore away the old soldier of the Civil War. To the ministers and singers I also express my appreciation. Everything was so appropriately done.

Children of FRANCES WOODARD and JOHN LOWE are:

Notes
I never knew my Grandmother Hill, Mother to my Dad. She was orphaned early, family story goes. She had several siblings, two brothers were named Ham and Jade. I believe that I have found Daniel Hamilton Woodard living in Little Rock, AR in the Census. He was living close to my Grandmother's address on Center Street. I have also found in the City Directories of 1893-1898 the following which I hope to use to 'build a Woodard family' so to speak.

Listed in Arkansas Directory: Asa Woodard, Printer boards at 813 Center St. 1893,4;5 and 1896, Asa A. listed 1897,8-same address
Eliza F Woodard, (Wid/Hamilton) boards at 220 n Cross 1895,6. Listed 1897,98 same address.Also, Jady Woodard (Jared??) brakeman, for the StLIM&S Ry line both living at 220 n Cross. Note: Jady/Jared? is NOT listed in 1897,9 Irvin Woodard, bkbinder for Gazette Pub. Co. also lives at same address for Asa...813 Center.1895,6, 1897,8.
Andrew J. Woodard (An 'A.J.Woodard is listed as Father on Charlotte's death certificate) he boards at 1113 w 3d, works same railroad line as Jared, StLIM&Ry,1897,8 Widow of Ham is listed as 'Lida Woodard and lives 113 w3d in 1897,98-same address as Andred J.
It is hope that the 1900 census will tell me some ages and places of birth and help the family composition!

Also found in the 1978 NY State IGI file from SLC there is listed a 'Jared Woodard marrying a Margaret Couse-(rest is cut off) 4 Oct 1792, Dutchess Co. Dangall First, Stanford Baptist Chu' Jared is a rather unusual first name so there might be a connection.

In the City Directories of OK Hist. Soc. in O.K. for 1903/4 I found listed Mrs. L. Hill 610 E 3rd St. and W. K. Hill, (my Father) listed as working for the OK Duck & Rubber co. (his brother-in-law's, m big sis Lottie, Canvas Co.) In the 1905/6 Directories, Lottie Hill, wif of Enders resides at the same address. My dad, W. K. Hill is not listed.

This is the result of my searching the 1860 Vt. census... using the newly acquired census Index for VT.

This is the only Charlotte/Lotte are approx. the right age that I found.
My 'gut' feeling is that this is not my Charlotte....perhaps because of the names of the two brothers. I'm still waiting for the 1860 N.Y. Index to come out....then I'll look through that!!

COMMENTS:

Genealogical Society of Vermont

If you are interested in genealogy professionally or as a hobby, perhaps you would like to know more about the GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF VERMONT.

This society, which was formed in 1971, is the first and only genealogical group organized in Vermont. Its purpose is to foster genealogical interest and activity; to assemble, preserve and make available genealogical records; and to assist those in need of genealogical information and help.

The founder of the GSV is Prof. Leon W. Dean of Burlington, who is well known in this state and elsewhere as a writer and historian. Although now retired, he is one of the founding fathers of the VERMONT OLD CEMETERY ASSOCIATION, the GREEN MOUNTAIN FOLKLORE SOCIETY and the CHITTENDEN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Since its formation, the GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF VERMONT has grown beyond all expectations. Membership now exceeds 1000 members who represent nearly all of the 50 states and several different Vermont communities.

MEMBERSHIP

$4.00 per individual which is renewable annually each October 1st. (New members joining during the period of July 1 through September are paid for the coming membership year.) A family membership for the same period is available at $6.00.

NEWSLETTER

Membership includes the newsletter, "BRANCHES & TWIGS" which is published about four times a year. Members are invited to submit articles, cemetery lists, Bible records and other material of general interest for publication, directly to our newsletter editor, Mrs. Carol Church, RFD#3, Putney, VT 05346.

QUERIES

Members may submit specific queries, within limits, for publishing in future issues of the newsletter. These queries may pertain to a particular ancestor or some other research problem. Queries are limited to TWO per member per issue, and 30 words per query (or 60 to ONE query) plus your name and address. We feel that short, understandable queries get better results than long complicated ones.

All queries must be sent directly to our society archivist. Only queries which are accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be acknowledged. Since our archivist indexes all family surnames mentioned in the queries, she would appreciate a copy of any correct information which is received in answer to each query. Our present archivist is Mrs. Vivian Bryan, 17 Slate Avenue, 05663 Northfield, VT ~~05633~~. Members are encouraged to assist each other with any query which may be related to their own family researching interest or their own geographical location.

ANCESTRY SERVICE

Members are invited to submit the known data on their direct ancestors for listing in the newsletter. The exact directions for using this service are outlined in the more recent issues of "BRANCHES & TWIGS" (Vol. IV, V, VI, etc.).

PUBLICATIONS

In addition to BRANCHES & TWIGS, the Society has available a booklet entitled "YOUR GENEALOGICAL HERITAGE" at the price of $2.50 postpaid. It is a step-by-step program in which the individual is shown basically how effortless and enjoyable it can be to gather a family record. The booklet, within its 28 pages, includes instructional material, sample forms, charts, and suggested research sources and aids. It is especially designed for persons who wish to begin researching their Vermont roots. This handbook is available from the Society's treasurer.

As our Bicentennial Project, the Society issued an 83 page booklet entitled SOME VERMONT ANCESTORS: THE BICENTENNIAL PROJECT OF THE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF VERMONT. This booklet contains articles and anecdotes contributed by members and friends of the Society about their early Vermont ancestors. Copies of this booklet are available for $4.00 which includes postage and handling from the Society's president, Mrs. A. G. Nichols, 46 Chestnut Street, Brattleboro, VT 05301.

PROGRAMS

Special meetings and programs are planned for the members at least twice each year within the State of Vermont. They are tentatively planned for the third Saturdays of each May and October. A public announcement of each program will be made in advance as the time approaches. As possible, these programs will be reviewed afterwards in the newsletter for the benefit of those unable to attend.

If you are interested in becoming a member, please send your name and full mailing address with check as follows: GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF VERMONT, c/o Mrs. Fred Harvie, Treasurer, Box 422, Pittsford, VT 05763.

Because of increasingly heavy demands made by students, faculty and other researchers, the Department of Special Collections can no longer perform genealogical researches. As much as we regret this decision we do believe that our primary responsibility is to meet the needs of our on-campus researchers. Should you be able to visit the library, however, we shall be happy to provide you with the materials you require.

The Public Records Division of the State of Vermont will conduct a search for birth or death records for a small fee. The more specific information you can give to this office, the more likely they will be able to help. Write to:

Vital Records
Vermont Public Records Division
133 State Street
Montpelier, VT 05602

Other persons willing to perform genealogical research are listed below: most of these researchers will charge a fee for their services.

Alice Daniels, 195 So. Prospect Street, Burlington, VT 05401
Alice Hagen, 36 Franklin Square, Burlington, VT 05401
Mrs. Peter Haslam, Box 224, Stowe, VT 05672
Information Control, 86 Hazel Street, Rutland, VT 05701
Anne Cummings Riddell, RD #3, 10 Belair Drive, Colchester, VT 05447 (Chittenden County ONLY)
Mrs. Alton Swan, 5 Crown Street, Rutland, VT 05701 (Rutland County ONLY)
Miss Madeleine Wilkinson, P.O. Box 61, Montpelier, VT 05602

We are enclosing a leaflet describing the Genealogical Society of Vermont.

Sincerely yours,
Department of Special Collections

WOODARDS OF THE TOWN OF MINDEN

By Chuck Rose

My great-great-grandfather was Calvin Woodard, baptised at the Lutheran St Paul's Church, Minden, Montgomery County, March 13, 1813. His parents were listed as Calvin and Maria Woodert and witnesses Conrad Ruff and Elizabeth Haus. Calvin married Mary Burns Smith in Ionia MI, March 8, 1840 and he d. February 13, 1865, cause/place unknown.

Henry Woodard was also baptised at St. Paul's December 24, 1810, parents listed as Calvin and Marie Woodard. Witnesses Heinrich Baum and his wife Catharina. Presumably young Calvin and Henry were brothers.

This Woodard family was associated and in some way related to Henry House who was born in Minden in 1765, died June 26, 1834 in Springfield, Otsego County. He served in the Rev War. To wit:

Henry House was married to Nancy House(?), on February 15, 1789 at Minden and they had a daughter named Mary who married James Sprague about 1808.

Mary and James Sprague had a daughter named Nancy, b. June 30, 1809, in Minden or Danube, NY.

Nancy Sprague was married to Hamilton Colman of Springfield and Richfield Springs, November 24, 1825 Otsego Co., NY. (Notice the proximity of Springfield to Minden and Danube.)

I have two letters written by Hamilton Colman to my g-g-gramma, Mary B. (Smith) Woodard. One in 1865 in which he expresses synpathy for her loss at the death of her husband Calvin and mentions that his brother Henry died the same way of or for or by the same cause. Colman refers to Calvin as "brother" and extols the virtues of Calvin, who had lived with he and Nancy in earlier tiles. He refers to Nancy as his sister.

In another letter written in October, 1868, Colman writes:

"Write us fully about your family. Nancy and myself are both getting old. I passed my 65 birthday on the 7 of this month. Write soon, From your Brother, Hamilton Colman.

WOODARDS OF THE TOWN OF MINDEN

By Chuck Rose

My great-great-grandfather was Calvin Woodard, baptized at the Lutheran St Paul's church, Minden, Montgomery County, Mar. 13, 1813. His parents were listed as Calvin and Maria Woodard and witnesses, Conrad Ruff and Elizabeth Hess. Calvin married Mary Ann Sinkin in Ionia (?), March 2, 1840 and died February 12, 1895, cause/place unknown.

Henry Woodard was also baptised at St. Paul's December 24, 1810, parents listed as Calvin and Marie Woodard. Witnesses Heinrich Baum and his wife Catharina. Presumably young Calvin and Henry were brothers.

This Woodard family was also listed and in some way related to Henry Hess who was born in Mohlen in 1795, died June 26, 1874 in Springfield, Otsego County. He served in the Civil War. To wit:

Henry Hess was married to Nancy Hoyes(?), on February 15, 1840 at Minden and they had a daughter named Mary who married James Sprague about 1866.

Mary and James Sprague had a daughter named Nancy, b. June 20, 1869, in Minden or Canajoha, NY.

Nancy Sprague was married to Hamilton Colt and of Springfield and Richfield Springs, November 24, 1825 Otsego Co., NY. (Notice the proximity of Springfield to Minden and Canajoha.)

I have two letters written by Hamilton Colman to my g-g-grandma, Mary E. (Smith) Woodard. One in 1895 in which he expresses sympathy for her loss at the death of her husband Calvin and mentions that his brother Henry died the same way or for or by the same cause. Colman refers to Calvin as "brother" and exists the wishes of Calvin, who had lived with he and Nancy in earlier days. He refers to Nancy as his sister.

In another letter written in October, 1896, Colman writes:

"Write us fully about your family. Nancy and myself are both getting old. I passed my 65 birthday on the 7 of this month. Write soon.
From your brother, Hamilton Colman.

P.S. Nancy wishes me to add, that her & Calvin's Mother died on the 15th of April last. You have probably heard of it.
She also wishes me to write you that there is some prospect of getting a large fortune from Holland that belong to the Heirs of the House family, in conjunction with the Maybie family who emigrated from Holland some 200 years ago. Calvin's Great Grandmother was a Maybie.
The rumor is that $15,000,000 have been deposited with the Holland government, for Maybie & House heirs. The House and Maybie families are very numerous, therefore each heirs cannot expect many thousand Dollars.
The report may be true & it may be false. It is being investigated. Will write again as soon as I get any news. H.C. "

There seem to be a lot of clues in all this but I cannot find another thing about the Woodards in all this. I have been unable to define the relationship between Calvin/Henry Woodard and the Spragues or Houses, especially between Nancy (Sprague) Colman and the Woodards. This is my "brick wall"!

In some way the names Woodard, Sprague, House, (or Haus) Colman, and Mabie, all link together. They center around the corner where Montgomery, Otsego and Herkimer counties adjoin. I cannot figure it out even with all these clues.

I have been looking at thousands (it seems) of Woodards for years but can make no connection between mine and any others. This leads me to conjecture that perhaps the name was not really Woodard in any of it's common (English) forms such as Woodward/Woodard/Woodert etc., but perhaps a Dutch or German name that when spoken in those languages could be interpreted as we know it.

I am hoping you might add another clue or in some way, by some means be able to offer some advice or commentary on this scenario.

Dear Ms. Jordan:

In response to your letter dated July 11, 2001...

Dear Ms. Jordan,

St L I M A & S Ry. could possibly stand for the St Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad (I don't know what the "A" would represent). You may try checking railroad reference books at your local library or checking to see if a railroad club meets in the area for more expert advice on the subject.

STOCKS, COTTON AND GRAIN DOWN

Futures Break Sharply on New York Market — Government Control, Adverse Weather and Peace Rumors Factors.

Cotton futures broke sharply on the New York market Wednesday and there was a sympathetic downward trend upon all other quotations. All stocks were off two to three points, and grain went downward, wheat going off nearly 3, corn 4 3-4, and oats 1 3-8 cents from the closing quotations of Tuesday.

Threatened governmental control of grain, as well as peace rumors, were responsible for the decline in those commodities, while peace suggestions were given as the controlling factor in the tobogganing of stocks.

There were several factors at work in the decline of cotton futures, first and foremost of which was the heavy realization of big buyers, who deemed the time most opportune for profit taking. Continued fair weather chased away the bugaboo of freezes and frosts, and peace rumors played a hand. Combined with all of this was the belief of big investors that the market had gone high enough for the present, and that a reaction would be good for the trade.

Liverpool closed 10 points down, good middling being quoted at 19.06d, or about [illegible] cents American.

January opened at 26.45, which was the closing figure of that option for Tuesday, and reached its highest altitude at 26.[illegible]. From that it gradually [illegible] to 25.[illegible], which was 107 points under the previous day's close. This showed a range Wednesday of 121 points.

Following is a history of the various [illegible] as reported over the [illegible] of the Little Rock Cotton Exchange:

Jan[illegible] opened and close 26.45, Wednesday [illegible] 26.45, and close 25.54, [illegible] points. March, Tues[illegible] Wednesday's opening

STOCKS, COTTON AND GRAIN DOWN

Futures Break Sharply on New York Market — Government Control, Adverse Weather and Peace Rumors Factors.

Cotton futures broke sharply on the New York market Wednesday, and there was a sympathetic downward trend upon all other quotations. All stocks went off two to three points, and grains went downward, wheat going off nearly 5, corn 4 3-4, and oats 1 3-8 cents from the closing quotations of Tuesday.

Threatened governmental control of grain, as well as peace rumors, were responsible for the decline in those commodities, while peace suggestions were given as the controlling factor in the tobogganing of stocks.

There were several factors at work in the decline of cotton futures, first and foremost of which was the heavy realization of big buyers, who deemed the time most opportune for profit taking. Continued fair weather chased away the bugaboo of freezes and frosts, and peace rumors played a hand. Combined with all of this was the belief of big investors that the market had gone high enough for the present, and that a reaction would be good for the trade.

Liverpool closed 30 points down, good middling being quoted at 12.06d, or about 8.12 cents American.

January opened at 26.45, which was the closing figure of that option Tuesday, and reached its highest altitude at 26.55. From that it gradually slipped to 25.05, which was 107 points under the previous day's close. This showed a range Wednesday of 121 points.

Following is a history of the various options of the day, as reported over the wires of the Little Rock Cotton Exchange:

January: Yesterday's close 26.45, Wednesday's opening 26.45, and close 25.54, down 107 points; March, Tuesday's close, Wednesday's opening

Glimpses of Yesterday

By LUCY MARION REAVES

Mrs. Francis Emily Vandivere Hill (left) and Mrs. Charlotte Woodard Hill, late grandmother and mother of Mrs. O. D. Tucker Sr., are subjects of these pictures.

Mrs. Francis Emily Vandivere Hill was the wife of Asbury Hill. They were the parents of Enders Stanton Hill, father of Mrs. Tucker. Mr. and Mrs. Asbury Hill were descendants of old New York families. Mrs. Hill's parents gave land, later known as Vandivere Park in New York, and property, which is now the site of the Little Church Around the Corner, founded in 1849, as the Church of the Transfiguration. Mrs. Hill was known for her great beauty, her friendliness, kindliness and wealth. She died at the age of 19. This picture of her was taken from a very fine miniature made by European artists on ivory when she was 17 years old.

Mrs. Charlotte Woodard Hill was the wife of Enders Stanton Hill of New York. They went to Chicago following their marriage and lived on an estate near the city. Mr. Hill invested in thoroughbred horses and had his own race track on which to train his horses. After bringing his family to Little Rock in 1880 he sold a span of black horses that had taken a prize in a Chicago horse show to Rush Brown here for $500. The Hills lived on the River road, near Little Rock, prior to moving to town. They came here to be with Mrs. Hills' brother, Ham Woodard. Mr. Hill died over 30 years ago. This picture of Mrs. Charlotte Woodard Hill was made at the age of 77, a few months before her death. Mrs. Hill died a number of years ago.

Besides Mrs. Tucker, who was Lotta Vera Hill, children of Mr. and Mrs. Enders Stanton Hill were Mrs. Montrose French of Tucson, Ari., who was Sophia Geer Hill; the late Mrs. Floyd Davidson, who was Francis Emily Hill; the late Raymond Hill, who married Mrs. Maude Henderson; and Will Kline Hill of Houston, Tex., who married Nora Flanagan. Grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hill in the Arkansas line are O. D. Tucker IV., Vernon Hill Tucker, Mrs. Mildred Tucker Porter, Mrs. Irma Tucker Eagle, Mrs. Mary Lou Tucker Garner of Los Angeles and Jack Randolph Tucker. There are six great grandchildren: Pat Tucker, Shirley Eagle, Jean Tucker, Mary Ann and Cherron Garner of Los Angeles and O. D. Tucker V.

Mrs. Tucker and her daughters have inherited features that strikingly resemble those of the two Mrs. Hills pictured here.

HI there,
Interesting story about Your Woodards. I have been seeking the parents of Calvin and Henry Woodard from Montgomery county NY. I figured they must have died because Calvin, as a young man, was living with HAMILTON Colman of Richfield Springs, Otsego County sometime between 1813 (when he was born) and 1834. when he moved to Ionia county, MI. These Woodard boys were baptized at Lutheran St Paul's Church, Minden Montgomery Co, NY. This is just below where Montgomery and Herkimer counties adjoin.
I guess I'm hoping there's a connection with your Woodards. I do know Cal and Henry's parents were named Calvin and Maria.
Would like to hear your comments.
Thank you
Chuck Rose

Hi Vivian,
Well that's what I thought tooo, about being able to find Woodards in Montgomery county. That name Hamilton convinces me there is a connection because evidently he was an important and highly thought of person by my Woodards. He loaned Calvin (Jr) some money and after Cal died in 1865 Hamilton wrote a couple letters to his widow, Mary B. Smith, and mentioned he would like to be repaid. Calvin's son, Lester paid off the loan.
Too bad we didn't get this from our folks before they passed!!
I live in San Jose, CA and I'm going on 64. If you would like, I'll send you copies of these old letters and maybe the information in them will mean something to you! i'll need your adress.
Best to ya,
Chuck

Nancy,
I do not have Seth as a relation to my Michigan Woodard Family. Mine was of Calvin Woodard b. March 13, 1810 in Minden, Montgomery County, New York. He had a brother, Henry b. Dec 1810, same place. Calvin m. Mary B. Smith, dau of Jessie Smith b Aug 30, 1819, and Polly, ?, b NY, at the Muir Hotel, North Plains twp, MI on Mar 4, 1840. Their issue were: Calista Ann, Melissa Jane. , Lester Coleman, Martin Arillous, Benjamin Franklin, Frances Louise, Maria Sophia (Ida), Marian Ione, Dellusena, and Adelbert Eugene.
I 've run across many other Woodards in MI but none seem to fit with mine. I would like to find Calvin's parents, Calvin and Marie/Mary. I believe her maiden name was House.
IF any of this is familiar please let me know.
Thanks,Chuck

I thought I would try again to see if anyone could help with my many years old problem. I have a grandmother, (not a great but a grandmother!) that I can't seem to pin down. She was orphaned 'young', as the story goes. She had siblings, in particular two brothers whose names were 'Ham' and 'Jade'.

Charlotte 'Lotte' M. Woodard was b ca 1840-44 in NY State. Census have been no help so far. She m 1863, at Fort Jackson, NY (Montgomery Co.,) to Enders Stanton HILL. She d in Little Rock, AR Oct 1917. She spent a little time in OK, so I checked the City Directories for Ok. City and found a Hamilton and a Jade...both worked for the railroad. Can anyone tell me how to go about finding these men??
They were listed as working for the " St L I M A & S Ry". The Butler Center in Little Rock, AR suggest that this stands for St. Louis Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad.

Could sure use some help on Lottie. Vivian Hill Jordan

Hi Vivian,
Same luck as with MyZggt Calvin Woodard. I have visited Montgomery County since we last communicated, I dotted up a little additional infor mation that helps me make a plausible scenario, but no hard facts. If this proves out I'll let you know.
I think the mother of Calvin Woodard and Henry Woodard was Mary Hoosego was m. to James Spragg early,

"about 1808 ,He went away , it is thought to Sandusky , OH. She had a child right away who was Nancy Sprague,.Later m. John Cassler/Kesslar and they moved to Palmyra, NY where she was still living in 1857. (from the Sprague Family in America

There was the right amount of time after Nancy was b such that she could have had the 2 boys.
Nancy, wife of Hamilton Colman, was Calvin and Henry's sister, per Hamilton Colman in a letter to Mary Woodard, wife of Calvin, Oct 1868. (I have) She could have later m, John Cassler. He stated in his letter that "Nancy and Calvin's mother died April 15, last"
There was other Woodards in the area, James for one, I am still working on all of this.

Find where to write the St. Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad for the employment record of the men you are looking for. I did that for my husbands grandfather who worked for the Southern Pacific Railroad. Received a wealth of information. The marriage date, His birth date plus the children's names and age. Where they came into the United States from

About 1928, He went away, it is thought to Seattle, WA. She had a child 'Ann' who was Nancy Swagger. Later in Jobs Cassem/Kessler and they moved to Fullerton, NY where she was still living in 1987, from the Swagger Family in America.

There was the right amount of time after Nancy was born that she could have had the 2 boys, Marcy, wife of Hamilton Cadman, was Calvin and Henry's sister, per Hamilton Cadman in a letter to Mary Woodward, wife of Calvin, Oct 1966. (I think) She could have later in John Cassler. He stated in the letter that "Henry and Calvin's mother died April 23, 1947."
There was other Woodards in the area, James for one. I am still working on all of this.

Famous for tearing down the old and for being oblivious of its past, New York City would hardly seem to be the kind of place in which to find a distinguished collection of fine old houses. Yet a surprising number do exist—sentinels from another era, survivors that stand quietly and incongruously in the midst of the city's endless cycle of growth and obliteration. Among the most remarkable are sixteen properties that have recently been awarded special attention by the city and that provide an unexampled look at architectural styles, craftsmen's skills, and social customs in the New York area over two and a half centuries. They range all the way from the serene, elegant, and nobly situated Gracie Mansion, home of New York's mayors, down to the humble little Wyckoff House in the far reaches of Brooklyn, which, dating from about 1652, is the city's oldest dwelling. Many have been home to personages like Aaron Burr and Edgar Allan Poe; one was the temporary residence of George Washington. Others have been the sites of great events. A 1776 meeting in Staten Island's Conference House affected the course of the American Revolution. Together they serve as a reminder that New York, for all its apparent disregard for the past, is by far the oldest large city in the United States and has plenty to show for it. Not only most Americans but most New Yorkers, too, are scarcely aware that the houses are there and are surprised to learn that nearly all of them—even the extraordinary Richmondtown Restoration on Staten Island, a kind of Williamsburg in the making—are readily reachable by public transportation. All are open to the public.

Many survived to the present by some fluke—a single family's continued ownership, or the chance near miss of the bulldozer. Even so, despite the recent vogue for historic preservation and despite the dedication of volunteer groups that have kept many of them going during hard times, most of the properties have been chronically strapped for funds for repairs or improved programs. Recently, however, a mechanism for providing money and expertise was set up with the creation by the city of the Historic House Trust of New York City, a body of public-spirited, influential citizens whose fund-raising efforts are already showing results. The lovely buildings look better and are receiving more expert attention. Said the trust's director, Mary Ellen W. Hern of New York's Parks Department (which administers the project), "Our goal is to have pristine, properly set gems." As the work progresses, they should glow even more brightly.

The six of these exceptional properties shown here give a sense of the scope and charm of one of New York's least-known resources.

The Pieter Claesen Wyckoff House

The spare furnishings reflect the house's seventeenth-century heritage. The fireplace tiles came from Holland in the 1600s.

Wedged in between an auto repair shop and a busy car wash in a thoroughly unprepossessing Brooklyn neighborhood, the modest Wyckoff House hardly looks like a place that was once the home of one of the area's most important citizens and the centerpiece of a vastly successful four-hundred-acre farm. Yet Pieter Claesen Wyckoff was one of early New York's great success stories.

As Pieter Claesen he had come to America at age twelve in 1637 from East Friesland, in today's Germany, to work as an indentured servant. He was untrained and illiterate but extremely ambitious. After completing his indenture on Kiliaen van Rensselaer's holdings south of Albany and accumulating a little cash, he moved back down to the Nieuw Amsterdam area, to the fertile farming region east of the village of Breuckelen, and in the 1650s acquired—by means of his recently minted friendship with the colony's director general, Peter Stuyvesant—a choice tract of land in the community of Amersfoort, today's Flatlands.

A tiny house dating probably from 1638 sat on the land; Claesen, after moving in, enlarged it, as did later generations, though by today's standards it is still compact. Direct access to Jamaica Bay enabled Claesen to ship his produce to Manhattan, and as he prospered, he acquired other parcels of land. Following the British conquest of Nieuw Amsterdam, Claesen (whose name meant only that he was the son of Claes), like many other Dutch settlers, adopted the English custom of using fixed surnames. He chose Wyckoff, probably adapting it from a place-name in Friesland. By 1675, though still illiterate, he was Amersfoort's richest citizen and biggest landowner.

Pieter and his wife, Grietie, had ten children, and those had more, so that in due course there were Wyckoffs living not only throughout Long Island but all over the United States. Eight generations of them lived in the house and continued to farm, but in 1902 the family sold its holdings (by then reduced to forty-four acres). The house deteriorated; in 1952 it narrowly escaped demolition when the city at the last moment changed its plans for a new street that was to cut through the property. Some years later the Wyckoff family nationwide formed a foundation to repurchase the house, and in 1965 the city's newly formed Landmarks Preservation Commission designated it as New York's first landmark. Five years later the foundation donated its venerable possession to the city.

Restored in the early 1980s, the house—with its mauve and white ceramic tiles imported from Holland, its open hearth trimmed with lace, its Dutch cupboard and wide floorboards and its round-bottomed shingles and distinctive Dutch Colonial flared eaves—is operated by the foundation as a museum showing how a well-to-do farm family lived for a quarter of a millenium. Touring groups of schoolchildren enjoy the demonstrations of spinning, weaving, and other early crafts offered in the small rooms. Open wall sections show the original construction of wooden slats filled with handmade bricks and mud for insulation. Outside, a kitchen garden is planted with flax, mint, parsley, and other crops that would have grown there. On some days, indeed, it is hard not to believe that the industrious early owner, Pieter Claesen himself, is still in residence, wondering at his unlikely prosperity while being shown how to fix his mark on yet another land acquisition.

The Van Cortlandt House

Because it is surrounded by ample acreage in the large city park that bears its name, the Bronx's Van Cortlandt House appears much as it would have two centuries ago, when it was the rural manor house of a large working plantation. Its back windows, in fact, look out on broad open fields ringed by seemingly timeless woodlands.

The land—today's park—was part of a large tract originally obtained from the Mohican Indians in 1646 by a prominent citizen of Nieuw Amsterdam, Adriaen Van der Donck, who is thought to have built himself a stone house near where the present structure stands. (Van der Donck, incidentally, was known as the jonkheer, or young lordship, and so his property was the jonkheers—thus the latter-day neighboring city of Yonkers.) After his death in 1655 his widow sold off the property; in 1694 Jacobus Van Cortlandt, a wealthy merchant and future mayor of what was by then New York, purchased a small central portion and over a thirty-year period bought back much of what Van der Donck had owned. Around this time wheat growing suddenly became highly profitable in the New York region, and Van Cortlandt set up an efficient grain-growing and milling operation on his property. In 1748 his son Frederick erected the present mansion of gray fieldstone (quarried nearby) in a style its current custodians call vernacular Georgian, a handsome mix of Georgian, Dutch, and other motifs. This was no rural retreat for leisurely living; it was a simple (though ample) house, comfortably furnished but very much the core of a lucrative wheat plantation, some of whose workers were slaves.

A carved-stone face looks out over each of the front windows. The device, fairly common in Europe, is rare in America.

During the American Revolution the house had its brief brush with history. With the British threatening New York City, Augustus Van Cortlandt, Frederick's son, who was the city clerk, hid the most valuable of the city's records in the family burial vault northeast of the house, where they remained for the duration. In October 1776, as George Washington pulled his forces back from the lost city, he spent a few nights at Van Cortlandt House on his way to fight the hopeless Battle of White Plains; seven years later, in November 1783, he again slept there on the eve of his triumphal return to New York as victor.

Augustus Van Cortlandt's descendants remained in the house through most of the nineteenth century; under the terms of his will, those bearing other names assumed the name of Van

The mansion was built of locally quarried fieldstone in a vernacular Georgian style that combines Dutch and other motifs.

The dining room has been restored to appear much as it did in the late eighteenth or early nineteenth century.

THE WYCKOFF HOUSE

THE SOCIETY wishes to call attention to the Wyckoff House. The House is Brooklyn's most famous extant landmark and is located at Ralph Avenue and Clarendon Road in Flatlands. It is considered to be one of the oldest wood-frame dwellings in the country, dating back in its earliest part to the 1640's.

The preservation of the House now seems likely. The governments, Federal, State and City, are all in agreement and the means are available. The Wyckoff family will maintain the House once it has been restored by the City. The effort to accomplish preservation began in 1937 — 40 years ago — and has been sustained by unusual perserverence on the part of many people, particularly the Wyckoffs.

The House is known by the name "Wyckoff" because the family lived in it for over 250 years, starting in the 1640's with the family's colonial progenitor, Pieter Claeson Wyckoff. In the 1970's the Wyckoffs reacquired the House real property and gave it to the City for preservation.

Mr. William S. Wyckoff of Stroudsburg, Pa., the Society's special guest, is a direct descendant of Pieter Claeson Wyckoff. He has been preeminent and indefatigable in the effort to preserve the House.

The unique exhibit that will be on view at the Bank for the Society's May 18th event and thereafter until June 30 is the "Lloyd Eastwood Seibold Collection" of authentic 18th century miniature furniture, displayed in 10 residential rooms in scale and decorated in keeping with the period. Mr. William S. Wyckoff and family own the Collection and volunteered its display for the Society. Descriptive literature will be available.

The Society, on behalf of itself, Brooklyn, the City and Long Island, salutes the Wyckoffs for the historical treasure — the Wyckoff House — which they have done so much to preserve. Theirs is truly an act of American patriotism.

The Independence Savings Bank (formerly South Brooklyn) was founded April 11, 1850 — 127 years ago. The Bank's building in which the Society's Meeting is being held was designed by the architects McKenzie, Voorhees & Gmelin and was erected in 1923. It stands on the site of the American Revolutionary Fort called "Ponkiesberg" a/k/a "Cobble Hill" and "Corkscrew". The Fort had a prominent role in the Battle of Long Island, August, 1776. Washington is said to have launched the effort of the American forces in the Battle from this point.

THE WYCKOFF ANCESTRAL HOUSE

Flatlands, Brooklyn, N.Y. Built about 1638, occupied by Pieter Claesen and his wife, Grietje Van Ness, about 1650, this was the home of their Wyckoff descendants for more than 250 years.

Oldest House Saved

As a result of quick action by the staff of the City Planning Commission, arrangements have been made to preserve and restore the Pieter Claesen Wyckoff House. The building is the oldest house in the City and State, and is possibly the oldest frame house in the nation.

The one-story Dutch Colonial farmhouse, which dates back to 1641, has a steep sloping roof and scalloped shingle siding. It stands on its original site at Clarendon Road and Ralph Avenue in Brooklyn, on a muddy patch adjoining an auto junkyard. Officially declared a landmark in 1965, the house is badly in need of repair.

Donald H. Elliott, Chairman of the City Planning Commission, brought these dangerous conditions to the attention of Mayor Lindsay. The Mayor immediately requested Constantine Sidamon-Eristoff, Commissioner of Highways, to direct his department to erect a temporary fence around the house as protection from vandalism and souvenir hunters.

Restoration Talks

Discussions have been initiated among the Planning Department, Department of Parks and the owners of the building, the Wyckoff Family Association and the Wyckoff House Foundation, to develop plans for restoring and preserving the building.

Since the Wyckoff house is located within walking distance of several schools and is near the proposed Linear City development, it is believed that, when restored, it could become an important community and educational resource. In speaking of the house, Mayor Lindsay said, "It is a part of our heritage and should be a part of the future, for all New Yorkers and all Americans to visit and enjoy."

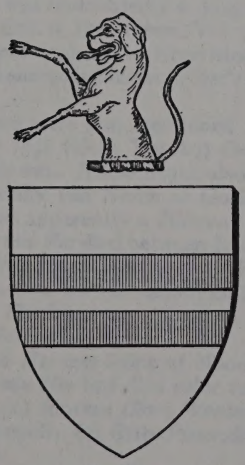
VAN NESS — VAN DEN BURCHGRAEFF

VAN NESS

Acting on the suggestion made in the statement by Hoppin in Vol. III, p. 184, of The Washington Ancestry of McLain, Johnson, etc., relative to Cornelis Hendricksz van Ness, namely: "The emigrant presents an inviting prospect for an inquiry in Holland," I herewith present the data which I have collected, as a result of such an inquiry.

From the records published in ERA III:278 we learn that on July 31, 1625, Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes and Marijgen Hendricks (van den Burchgraeff) made on that date a post-nuptial agreement, probably shortly after their marriage. They were then living at Vianen, on the Havendijk. Vianen is a small city on the river Lek. Hendrick's wife was from the neighboring town of Leksmond. (See next article.)



Van Ness

That members of the family continued to live in this prosperous river-shipping center is proved by the fact that "Jan Gerrits van Nes living at Vianen" in 1662 was mentioned in a record published in the second Duercant article (Rec. 1935, p. 185). There was still on Nov. 28, 1742, one Willem Gerard van Nes, an attorney, residing at Vianen, while in 1726 the marriage took place at Vianen of Willem Kelderman and Cornelia Maria Royer, a daughter of Coenraad Royer and Maria Magdalena van Nes.

Americana on p. 372 of the 1933 volume shows a van Ness coat, namely: Argent two bars Gules, and Charles D. Allen lists an armorial van Ness bookplate in his American Bookplates. The authority for these arms is not given in these publications, but it seems worth while to investigate by which family this coat was borne in the Netherlands.

A seal with these arms was used by Joris van Nes on a record dated Jan. 9, 1546, when he was rentmeester, steward of the lord of the manor of Goudriaan. The same arms appear on the seal of Adriaen van Nes on Sept. 12, 1593, when he was stadhouder der leenen, or steward-supervisor of the property held in tenure from the seigniory of Noordeloos. On Jan. 5, 1625, probably the same as the foregoing, Adriaen van Nes, drossaert or sheriff of the seigniory Noordeloos, uses the same arms.

In the roll-of-arms of the Magistracy of Gorinchem by van der Lely, Maria van Nes the wife of Nicolaes Reversz Kemp, in 1592 burgomaster of Gorinchem, is given the same arms. The connection between Adriaen van Nes just mentioned and Maria van Nes is evident from a Schepen Record of Gorinchem dated Oct. 20, 1597 (F xiv, Vol. 20), for it is there stated that Adriaen van Nes, sheriff of Noordeloos and Claes Kemp, the latter as husband and guardian of Maria van Nes his wife, stand surety for their brother Aert van Nes [1] who is absent, buyten lands wesende, abroad, not necessarily in a foreign country but outside of the county.

From the seals it follows that the crest used in connection with these arms is a demi-dog or a demi-dog between a pair of wings.

The towns of Goudriaan, Noordeloos, Gorinchem and Vianen mentioned above are all situated in the same small district in the eastern part of the province of South Holland and are only a few miles apart.

Among the Schepen Records of Gorinchem there are two, dated respectively Jan. 20, 1550, and Mar. 23, 1552 (F xiv, Vol. 13), from which the following genealogical fragment can be assembled, together with data from other records as indicated below.

1. Gerrit van Nes had the following 4 sons:

   i. Joris van Nes, schout, or sheriff of Noordeloos (see his seal mentioned above) mentioned in 1550. On May 27, 1569 (Gorinchem, Aanwinsten 1890, No. 27a, Vol. 78) there is mentioned Maryken Joris van Nes dochter whose lawful husband had been Symon Jans and who then appeared with her lawful husband and guardian Adriaen Huyghens. Maryke was undoubtedly a daughter of the above named Joris.

   On Oct. 6, 1564 (idem, Vol. 75) there was mentioned Hendrik van Nes, schout or sheriff of Noordeloos. This was possibly a son of Joris who had succeeded in his father's position, a prevalent custom in those days.

   There were also mentioned Naestlesten (next to the last) Marty (March) 1598 (idem, Vol. 89) Cornelis Joriss van Nesch and Jan Cornelisz, his son. These might also belong to this group, although there was a family van Nesch at Gorinchem, mostly engaged as skippers, which was apparently a different family.

   ii. Hendrik van Nes died between Jan., 1550 and March, 1552, the dates of the records mentioned above. His brother Frans van Nes was the guardian over his (unnamed) children. One of his sons was possibly Cornelis Hendricxz van Nes from Noordeloos mentioned Dec. 1, 1599 (idem, Vol. 90).

   iii. Frans van Nes was living at Noordeloos in 1552 (see ii).

   iv. Cornelis van Nes had died prior to Jan. 20, 1550. He married 4 times namely, (1) Reylken Claes Woutersdr, (2) Anna Cornelis de Greef, (3) Maria Aertsdr., (4) Griet Pietersdr. His wives had died prior to Jan. 20, 1550.

   He had the following children:

   by first wife: i. Claes van Nes. ii. Geertgen van Nes. iii. Maryken van

[1] Although the name Aert van Nes is remarkable and makes one think of the famous Dutch Admiral of that name, there does not seem to be any connection as is evident from the genealogy of the Admiral's family published in Rotterdamsche Historiebladen.

Nes. iv. Maryken van Nes. (Both iii and iv were living in 1550, that is there were two daughters of the same name.) By third wife: v. Cornelis van Nes. By fourth wife: vi. Jaepgen van Nes. vii. Anneke van Nes. (iv) Maryke van Nes was still a minor on Jan. 20, 1550, and was, as were the younger children, under the guardianship of their uncle Hendrik van Nes. Either (iii) or (iv) Maryke van Nes married Joris Vinck Aertss. She died prior to Apr. 17, 1592. According to the then prevalent custom in the Netherlands one of the children of this couple had the surname of his mother: Claes van Nes Jorisz.

This custom is extremely confusing and there always exists the possibility that persons bearing the same surname are only related in the female line. It is interesting from an heraldic standpoint that in countless cases such families retained their agnatic arms thereby founding various families with the same surname each with a different coat-of-arms, or, of course, several families with the same arms but with different surnames.

It is my conviction that the American settler belonged to the same van Nes family of which I have given a genealogical fragment. They and the ancestor of the American family lived in and were identified with towns situated within a five mile radius. The similarity of Christian names is striking and in the family at Noordeloos there is even mentioned the same combination of given name and patronymic as borne by the American founder. A further search in the judicial archives of Vianen might bring the documentary proof of the connection. But on the strength of these considerations it seems reasonably certain that the American family is entitled to bear the arms as shown in the illustration herewith.

The published accounts of the van Ness family are incomplete and in several instances inaccurate. Mr. Richard Schermerhorn, Jr., has collected authentic data on this family based on the available records. I have been fortunate indeed to have his permission to publish here an account of the first three generations of this family, based on his researches. The name appears in the records in the customary variations of spelling, van Esch being very prevalent. I have used van Ness throughout, unless actual records are being quoted.

1. Cornelis Hendrickse van Ness, came probably with Andries de Vos to Rensselaersyck in 1641. He is mentioned in 1643 with Andries de Vos and Cornelis Segers van Egmont as being the principal farmers of the Colony, whose terms all other farmers must accept. A record under date of March 4, 1649, contains the phrase "in the first part of the year 1643, as the wedding guests were going over the ice to the wedding of the daughters of van Es" . . . In April 1649, Cornelis van Ness made preparations to leave the Colony but for some reason stayed and on Aug. 25, 1650, he leased for eight years at f. 225 per year a farm at Greenbush, formerly occupied by Cornelis van Vechten. This farm contained nine morgens of land and he had three horses. He served as Councilor of Rensselaersyck from 1652 to 1658 and again in 1661 and 1663, at an annual salary of f. 50. On May 23, 1659, he was granted a patent of 50 morgens at Amersfoort (Flatlands), Long Island, where in 1664 his daughter Grietie and her husband, Pieter Claesz (Wyckoff) lived. On March 21, 1664, at the occasion of his second marriage, he made an agreement with the children by his first wife to turn over to them certain property in satisfaction of their share in their mother's estate, his sons and daughters being mentioned and the latter's husbands. His brewery in Greenbush was mentioned in joint ownership with Jan Oothout, his son-in-law.

On June 16, 1664, he was granted a patent of 21 morgens of land in Schenectady. He and his wife Maritie Damen are recorded as owners of Lot No. 7, N. side of State St., Albany, between James St. and Broadway, 1668–79. Maritie Damens, wife of Cornelis van Ness is mentioned June 8, 1670, as the owner of "land called Canestagoine" (patent from Richard Nicolls). The name of Cornelis van Ness is mentioned frequently in various, records and last appears Nov. 12, 1684, when he is termed "old van Ness.'

He married, as is evident from the records mentioned in the first part of this article, in 1625, prob. at either Leksmond where his wife's family lived or in nearby Vianen where he and his wife settled and were living when making their post-nuptial agreement referred to above, Mayken Hendrickse van(den)Burchgraeff. She died prior to 1664 when on March 14 of that year he made an antenuptial contract with his wife to be, Maritie Damen, widow of (1) Dirck van Eps. and (2) Hendrick Andriessen van Doesburgh. She was deceased July 3, 1682.

Children (by first wife):

i. Gerritie born circa 1627, mar. 1643 (see remarks about wedding of dau. in 1643, previously mentioned) Roelof Cornelisz van Houten (ch. Hellewey bp. 1648 New York).

ii. Hendrickje mar. Jan Janse van Oothout.

2. iii. Hendrick, who follows.

3. iv. Gerrit, who follows.

4. v. Jan, who follows.

vi. Grietje mar. Pieter Claes (Wyckof) from Nordingen, East Friesland who ~~sailed in 1636 in the Rensselaerswyck~~, settled first at Albany where he was in the employ of Symon Walichs. He removed later to Amersfoort, Long Island.

2. Hendrick Cornelisse van Ness born ca. 1638, died bef. 1717. Among the manuscripts in the collections of the New York State Library, Albany, is the following not heretofore published record, in which are enumerated the children of Hendrick van Ness. It proves the parentage of Symon and Evert van Ness which has been wrongly stated in several publications (Pearson, Van Deursen Geneal., etc.).

THE WYCKOFF FAMILY IN AMERICA

The name is spelled: Waychoff, Wickoff, Wicoff, Wikoff, Wychoff, Wyckoff, Wycoff, Wykoff, and in at least a dozen other ways; but it is, nevertheless, the same Family name.

The common ancestor of the Wyckoff Family in America was Pieter Claesen, who migrated from Holland at the age of twelve, arrived at New Amsterdam March 4, 1637, went on to Fort Orange and there worked as a farm laborer until 1648, when he took a farm near Bethlehem, Albany County, New York. About 1644 he married Grietje van Ness and in 1649 moved to New Amsterdam. In 1652 he purchased property in Amersfoort, Long Island, later known as Flatlands and now a part of Brooklyn, where he lived until his death, June 30, 1694.

Pieter Claesen for a number of years under the Dutch regime was a magistrate of Amersfoort. After the British took New Amsterdam in 1664, family names were required of all citizens. Pieter, in accord with Dutch usage, had none and adopted one which was first used in his oath of allegiance to the British Crown. In the original form this surname was Wijkhof, a composite of Wijk, a town or parish (bailiwick), and hof, a court or seat of authority. Pieter Claesen Wyckoff (the spelling he adopted) therefore signifies Pieter Claesen of the town court. In the early days when illiteracy was common, a score of different spellings of the name were used; but for the last one hundred years the spelling has been fairly well fixed in the eight forms shown above.

Anyone who now bears this name, however spelled, is descended from Pieter Claesen by one of the following five progenitors:

1. Nicholas, born about 1646; married Sara Montfort and had four sons, three of whom had male descendants.
4. Mayken, baptized October 19, 1653; married Willem Willensen, and her male descendants bear the name, Wyckoff, because her brother Hendrick, having no children, left his estate to her grandson Johannes, who at his great-uncle's request assumed the name, Wyckoff.
5. Cornelius, born about 1656; married Gertrude Van Arsdalen and had six sons, all of whom reached maturity and married.
8. Garret, born 1662; married Catherine Nevius and had three sons, two of whom had male descendants.
10. John, born February 16, 1665; married Neeltje Couwenhoven and had three sons, of whom William had male descendants.

The other children were:

2. Margarietje, born about 1648; married Matthys Brower.
3. Annatje, baptized November 20, 1650; married Roelof Martensen Schenk.
6. Hendrick, born about 1658; married twice but left no children. (See Mayken above.)
7. Greetje, born about 1660; married Christoffel Janse Romeyne and became the mother of the Romeyne family in New Jersey.
9. Marten, born 1663; married Hannah Willemse and left female children only.

Some of these descendants have joined the ASSOCIATION.

THE WYCKOFF ASSOCIATION IN AMERICA

Organized March 4, 1937, invites the co-operation of all descendants of Pieter Claesen in uniting the Wyckoff Family in America by clearing the lines of descent for all of its members whose genealogies are tangled or obscure. If all known descendants will send to the Secretary their family records, our objective will be attained.

From which of the sons or daughters do you trace your descent?
If you do not know, we may be able to help you.

Dear Cousin:

The Wyckoff Association in America is definitely at work on the publication of a Supplement to the Volume "The Wyckoff Family in America" which was issued in a limited edition of 200 copies. We plan to bring the material up to date in the Supplement, and hope to print a large edition at a low price - as genealogies go.

The collection of data for the Supplement has been assigned to three family line representatives:

Nicholas, Mayken and John Lines:
Miss Harriet E. Wyckoff
116 North Clinton Street, Olean, New York.

Cornelius Line:
Miss A. Amelia Wyckoff
Christodora House
601 East 9th Street, New York, N. Y.

Garret Line:
Mr. & Mrs. Oliver ~~C.~~ N. Rathbun
Danforth Street
Hoosick Falls, New York.

We find a reference to your name in our files as belonging to the _____, and are sending you herewith an Information Sheet to cover more complete data. If you will fill this out and send it at your earliest convenience to your Line representative, we shall be glad to see that the information is included in the publication.

The assembling of the material is being undertaken by the representatives on a volunteer basis, and since it must be done as their time permits, we must emphasize the necessity for a prompt response.

WYCKOFF HOUSE FOUNDATION MEETINGS: The Annual Meeting of the Board of Trustees was held on Saturday, May 13, 1961 at the New York Athletic Club, New York City. Guests present were Dr. Albert B. Corey, Historian of the State of New York and Chairman of our Advisory Council and Mrs. Helen Duprey Bullock, Director of Information of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Washington, D.C. Mrs. Bullock spoke of the work of the National Trust and invited members of the Wyckoff Foundation and Wyckoff Association to attend the 15th annual meeting and preservation conference of the National Trust to be held Thursday, October 12 through Monday, October 16, in New York City, with headquarters at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Details will be found on back page 4.

The May 13 meeting was continued in the afternoon at the Museum of the City of New York with Dr. Corey speaking on "Wyckoff, House of Destiny". Mr. Ralph Miller, Director of the Museum of the City of New York spoke a few words of welcome and stated he was glad to make their facilities available for our special Trustees' meeting.

Mrs. Durham announced that the Wyckoff House Foundation would be signing the papers which would eventually bring the Wyckoff House back to the Wyckoff Foundation. She also mentioned that only in the actual restoration would the story of the Wyckoff House be known, as to which part came first.

After a few words by Col. Streeter, Ernest Wyckoff and William S. Wyckoff, and the election of officers, the meeting was adjourned. Punch and tiny cakes were served. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Daniel D. Streeter and Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff. Acting as hostesses were Mrs. Mabel F. Oakes and Mrs. Aubrey L. Wyckoff. Backing up the "gals" with their "efficient and expert" assistance were Capt. Aubrey, Mabel's "Al Oakes" and Emily's "better-half, Colin".

Officers and Trustees of the Foundation for 1961-62 will be:

MEETING JUNE 23,1961: This meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in the lounge of the Explorers Club in New York City to approve the final Contract of Sale for the Wyckoff House. Frederick A. Wyckoff, Chairman of the House Purchase Committee, gave his report on various meetings between his Committee and the attorney for the owner of the Wyckoff House.

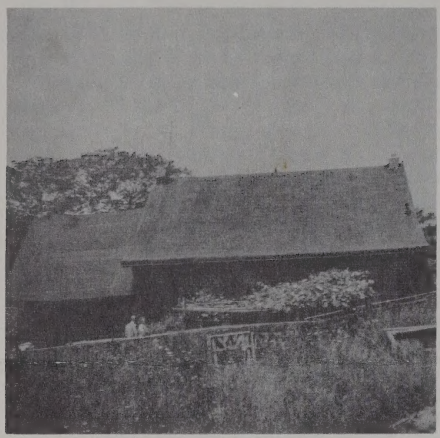
The Contract of Sale is for $30,000 with final payment, December, 1962. We can, however, have the House within ninety days, upon full payment. It has safeguards for the Foundation and covers contingencies such as destruction of the House. Thorough and protective, it was written by Attorney Archibald H. Cashion of Whitman, Ransom & Coulson, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NEXT MEETING SEPTEMBER 16: The Board of Trustees will meet in the lounge of the Explorers Club, New York City with a meeting at 11 a.m. and invitations to the Foundation Trustees and members of the Advisory Council will go out separately. Theme will be a discussion of the Site for the House, clearing the title and fund-raising.

The Wyckoff House Foundation is a New York State Chartered educational corporation and a member organization of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. We gratefully acknowledge all the valuable advice and assistance we have received from the National Trust, the State Counsel, and many others.

Our Foundation is still following a Master Plan drawn up at the Historic-Housekeeping Conference, Cooperstown, N.Y., September, 1957, sponsored by the National Trust and the New York Historical Association. We have placed our feet on the path of preservation. We will be guided all the way by the hands of experts in the field. All we need now is the price of the "ticket" to send us on our way. We hope that all Wyckoffs will want to have a part in the preservation of this old family homestead. Enclosed is an envelope with several ways to do so. Pay dues in advance or send gifts. In 1934 the United States Secretary of the Interior made the Wyckoff House a National Historic Landmark. The New York Municipal Art Society has placed the Wyckoff House on its list of Landmarks of New York City to be preserved. Its value as a House of History is well-known. It is on Director General Wouter Van Twiller's first purchase of land on all of Long Island and Flatlands had its 325th anniversary on June 16, 1636 according to original Book I of Patents, Office of Secretary of State, Albany, p. 91.

Make plans in October to come East! Not only attend the meeting of the Wyckoff Association on October 7 in Stroudsburg, but stay over in New York and learn about Preservation of Historic Landmarks and Sites, here and abroad. Attend the Friday afternoon session when reports of member organizations such as ours will be made by delegates. Stay for the banquet on Saturday night; make a tour on Sunday, and an excusion up the Hudson River on Monday.



The above pictures show Emily and Frederick on their inspection trip to the Wyckoff House June, 1961. Others on the trip were Colin Durham who took the pictures and Edwin Thatcher, A.I.A. who inspected the timbers for soundness.

NATIONAL TRUST ANNUAL MEETING, NEW YORK CITY, OCTOBER 12-16: Headquarters Walforf-Astoria Hotel. A special block of rooms has also been reserved across the street at the Belmont Plaza Hotel. If you want to attend, send your name and address immediately to the National Trust for Historic Preservation, 815 17th St. N.W., Washington 6, D.C. and ask for a registration blank and program. There is a registration fee of $5.00 for members of the National Trust (and you can join for $5.00 a year) and $10.00 registration fee for non-members. This covers several functions.

Friday and Saturday there will be preservation sessions and tours to interesting buildings and exhibits and many things to do and see and hear. Saturday night is the annual banquet at the Waldorf.

Sunday, Oct. 15, the following tours have been planned.
Manhattan Island tour: Gracie Mansion (The Mayor's Home); Abigail Adam Smith House, the Union Club, the University Club, and the New York City Hall.
Oyster Bay tour: stopping at Bowne House, Sagamore Hill (Teddy Roosevelt's home), and Raynham Hall.
Three Mansions tour: will be received at Jumel Mansion, Van Cortlandt Mansion and Bartow-Pell Mansion.
Gardener's Choice tour: will visit Dyckman Farmhouse, the Bartow-Pell Mansion, and New York Botanical Garden
Geo. Washington in New Jersey: Morristown, N.J. headquarters, Liberty Hall, Ford Mansion, Boxwood Hall.
Long Island Arts and Architecture: open house by Society for the Preservation of Long Island Antiquities. Stops planned for Thompson and Sherwood-Jayne houses, Suffolk County Museum, the Carriage Museum.
Brooklyn Heights tour: sponsored by Brooklyn Heights Association and Long Island Historical Society

MONDAY, OCTOBER 16: Excursion to the Hudson River area - tour of the Dutch Van Cortlandt Manor, Sunnyside, and the Dutch Philipsburg Manor.

Some of us plan to be there. If you are coming, let us know, and we can get together.

CHAPTER II

PIETER CLAESEN

Pieter Claesen, founder of the Wyckoff Family in America, came to Fort Orange, Province of New Netherland, Apr. 7, 1637, in the ship Rensselaerwick. In the log of that ship is the following: "This ship sailed from Amsterdam, Holland, 25 Sept. 1636, anchored off the seaport, The Texel, 8 Oct. 1636, reached New Amsterdam, New Netherland, 13 March 1637, and Tuesday 7 April, 1637, about three o'clock in the morning, we came to anchor before foort aeranien, the end of our journey upward."

The Rensselaerwick was outfitted by Killian Van Resselaer, a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, who had a speculative contract with the West India Company for the grant of a large body of land near the headwaters of the Hudson River, under which he was required to transport men and animals to the new country. There is no complete list of the passengers on this ship, but among those named are Pieter Cornelissen from Monnickendam, North Holland, Pieter Claesen Van Norden and Simon Walischez. These three did not remain in New Amsterdam, but went on to Fort Orange. Here Pieter Cornelissen became prominent in the affairs of the colony. He may have been the Uncle of Pieter Claesen, although the two are not mentioned together in the records of the Van Rensselear estate.

These records show that Pieter Claesen was one of the thirty-eight laborers sent on the Rensselaerwick to be assigned to various farmers on the Rensselaer estate, and that under the date Apr. 3, 1637, he was assigned to Simon Walischez. According to a scorched fragment of the records of the estate, saved from a fire in the State Library at Albany in 1911, he was to receive 50 guilders per year for the first three years and 75 guilders for the last three years. About the time when the contract matured, Simon Walischez' lease was canceled on the ground that he was an unsatisfactory tenant and the final settlement was made by the Van Rensselaer Estate.[1]

According to the report submitted to William Forman Wyckoff after research in Europe (See Chapter I), Pieter Claesen was the son of Claes Cornelissen van Schouen, who was the son of Cornelius Peterson and belonged to a family of traders who lived at Borgholm on Oland Island and carried on trade in the Baltic and North Seas. This family was apparently of Scandinavian descent. Cornelius Peterson married, on May 12, 1593, in the Cathedral in Calmar, Sweden, Johanna, daughter of Jacob van der Goes, and engaged with his father-in-law in trade on the Baltic and the Zuyderzee, to Nordinge in East Friesland and as far as Walcheren in Zeeland. He had three sons, Jacob, Claes and Peter Cornelissen, and one daughter Cornelia. His son Claes Cornelissen, born on

PETER CLASSEN

Peter Classen, founder of the Wyckoff Family in America, came to Fort Orange, Province of New Netherland, Nov. 7, 1637, in the ship Herscwerck. In the log of that ship is the following: "This ship sailed from Amsterdam, Holland, 22 Sept. 1636, anchored at the seaport, The Texel, 4 Oct. 1636, reached New Amsterdam, New Netherland, 13 March 1637, and Tuesday 7 April 1637, about three o'clock in the morning, we came to anchor before Fort Orange, the end of our journey upward."

The Herscwerck was outfitted by Killian Van Rensselaer, a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, who had a speculative contract with the West India Company for the grant of a large body of land near the headwaters of the Hudson River, under which he was required to transport men and supplies to the new country. There is no complete list of the passengers on this ship, but among those named are Peter Claessen, Jacob Adamsz Hellaard, Peter Classen Van Norden and Simon Walraven. These three did not remain in New Amsterdam, but went on to Fort Orange. Here Peter Corneliesen became prominent in the affairs of the colony. He may have been the Uzele of Peter Classen, although the two are not mentioned together in the records of the Van Rensselaer manor.

There records show that Peter Classen was one of the thirty-eight inhabitants on the Rensselaerwyck to be assessed in various farmers for the Hinsdale estate, and that under the date Apr. 3, 1637, he was assessed to Simon Walraven. According to a recorded fragment of the records of the estate, now a part of the State Library at Albany in 1641, he was in receipt of wages per year for his four sons and 77 guilders for the last three years. About the time when the contract ended, Simon Walraven's house was erected on the ground that he was at liberty to occupy, constituting the first settlement was made by the Van Rensselaer family.

According to the report submitted to William Forman Wyckoff after research in Europe (See Chapter I), Peter Classen was the son of Claes Corneliesen van Zutphen, who was the son of Cornelius Petersen, and believed to be a family of traders who lived at Bergholm on Orland Island and carried on trade in the Baltic and North Seas. This family was apparently of Scandinavian descent. Cornelius Petersen married, on May 11, 1583, in the Cathedral in Colmar, Sweden, Johanna, daughter of Jacob van der Goor, and engaged with his father-in-law in trade on the Baltic and the Zuyderzee. In Scandinge is East Friesland and as far as Wesmen in Zeeland. He had three sons, Jacob, Claes and Peter Corneliesen, and one daughter Cornelia. His son Claes Corneliesen, born in Oland, Apr. 3, 1597, was a minor when his father died in 1599, and in 1603 was under the guardianship of his maternal grandfather, Jacob van der Goes of Walcheren, Holland, and Calmar, Sweden, and with him engaged in trade which often took him to the Dutch islands. Here he married, on Nov. 9, 1623, a grand niece of his guardian, Margaret, daughter of Martyn van der Goes of Middelburg, Walcheren. In 1624, Claes Cornelissen returned to Böda on Oland, probably to introduce his wife to his relatives and to arrange the paternal inheritance with his brothers and sister. Here his son Pieter Claesen was born, Jan. 26, 1625. In Dec. 1625, Claes appears again in Walcheren as the owner of a ship of his own, Svenska Kronan. His home seems to have been at Zierikzee on the island of Schouen, for here his wife Margaret died, Aug. 2, 1631. From here he engaged in trade over the familiar route, perhaps taking with him his little son Pieter. By this time the Thirty Years War was making trade in those waters dangerous and unprofitable and this, added to the death of his wife, caused him to sell his ships and migrate to America, where he was known as Claes Cornelissen van Schouen.[2] He married again and had four children, the eldest of whom, Pieterse, was baptised in the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam, Oct. 28, 1649. This Pieterse married, about 1658-1660, Simon Jansen van Arsdalen, and their daughter Geertje (Gertrude) married on Oct. 13, 1678, Cornelius, second son of Pieter Claesen. From this marriage came the Cornelius line of the Wyckoffs. This Pieterse was the only one of the children of Claes Cornelissen to take the name of Wyckoff.

Pieter Claesen was 18 years old when he made his settlement with the van Rensselaer estate. Soon after this he rented a farm for himself and married Grietje van Ness, the daughter of a prominent citizen of the colony. Their two eldest children were born in Rensselaerwick, but the church in which were kept the records of their birth and the marriage of their parents was burned and the records were destroyed. With his wife and two children he went to New Amsterdam in 1649. Here he remained until 1655, when he signed a contract "to superintend the Bowery and cattle of Peter Stuyvesant in New Amersfoort" and moved into the house on Canarsie Lane in Flatlands, Brooklyn, now known as the Wyckoff Homestead.

Pieter Claesen prospered and became one of the most influential citizens of the little frontier settlement. He had bought land in that section in 1652 and continued to buy land from time to time, but he never owned the house in which he lived. He became a local judge, something like our justice of the peace, and was influential in establishing the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church at the juncture of Flatbush Avenue and King's Highway. His remains are supposed to have been buried in land now covered by the altar of this church. On May 22, 1938, The Wyckoff Association in America planted a tree in the churchyard of this edifice in

[2]Riker's History of Harlem says that Claes came from Holland in 1636 on the ship King David and that Pieter Claesen was his son. It also says that from him are descended the two families, the Wyckoffs and the van Arsdales.

Claes, Apr. 3, 1637, was a minor when his father died in 1650, and in 1655 was under the guardianship of his maternal grandfather, Jacob van der Goes of Wijkbroen, Holland, and Cornelis, Everson, and with him engaged in trade which often took him to the Dutch islands. Here he married, on Nov. 6, 1662, a grand niece of his guardian, Margreta, daughter of Martyn van der Goes of Middelburg, Walcheren. In 1664, Claes Cornelissen returned to Beda on Texel, probably in somewhat his wife's interests and to arrange the paternal inheritance with his brothers and sister. Here his son Pieter Claesen was born, Jan. 29, 1666. In Dec. 1669, Claes appears again in Wijkbroen as the owner of a ship of his own, Swanken Kroon. His home seems to have been at Zierikzee on the island of Schouwen, for here he with Margaret died, Aug. 2, 1671. From here he engaged in trade over the familiar route, perhaps taking with him his little son Pieter. By this time the Thirty Years War was making trade in these waters dangerous and unprofitable and the, added to the death of his wife, caused him to sell his ships and migrate to America, where he was known as Claes Cornelissen van Swanen.[1] He married again and had four children, the eldest of whom, Pieter, was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam, Oct. 2, 1683. This Pieter married, about 1685-1690, Simon Janesen van Arsdalen, and their daughter Cornelia (Corrinde) married on Oct. 13, 1708, Cornelius, second son of Pieter Claesen. From this marriage came the Cornelius line of the Wyckoffs. The Pieterse was the only one of the children of Claes Cornelissen to take the name of Wyckoff.

Pieter Claesen was 18 years old when he made his settlement with the van Rensselaer estate. Long after this he rented a farm for himself and married Grietje van Aken, the daughter of a prominent citizen of the colony. Their two oldest children were born in Rensselaerwick, but the church records were kept the records of their birth and the marriage of their parents were burned and the records were destroyed. With his wife and two children he went to New Amsterdam in 1689. Here he remained until 1696, when he signed a contract "to superintend the Bowery and cattle of Peter Stuyvesant in New Amsterdam" and moved into the house on Heerenpad Lane in Flatlands, Brooklyn, now known as the Wyckoff Homestead.

Pieter Claesen prospered and became one of the most influential citizens of the little frontier settlement. He had bought land in this section in 1652 and continued to buy land from time to time, but he never owned the house in which he lived. He became a local judge, presiding over the Court of the Ryndt, and was influential in establishing the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church at the junctions of Flatbush, Avenue and Kings Highway. His relatives are supposed to have been buried in land now covered by the altar of this church. On May 22, 1723, The Wyckoff Association in America placed a tablet in the church in his honor.

[1] Tradition has it that Claes came from Holland to New Amsterdam in 1636 on the ship Eagle. Land and deed records show Claes Cornelissen van Swanen. Tradition says the Jans boys are descended from the two families, the Wyckoffs and the van Arsdales.

memory of Pieter Claesen and his descendants. On May 26, 1940, the same Association unveiled a bronze tablet inside the church, suitably inscribed in honor of Pieter Claesen.

When the British took over the Dutch colony, they had difficulty with the Dutch names and demanded that the Dutch families take surnames by which they could be identified. It was then that the name Wyckoff first came into use. In a roll of those who took the oath of allegiance in King's County in 1687, the names of Pieter Claesen and his six sons appear with the surname Wijckoff. The origin of the name, as accepted by William Forman Wyckoff, is as follows: Pieter Claesen had been a local judge and the name came from this fact, the "Wyk" meaning a parish and "hof", meaning a court. Thus the name would mean Pieter Claesen of the town court. A member of the Wyckoff family, wandering through a Dutch town during World War II, was surprised to see the name Wyckoff on a place of business, which suggests that the name may have been taken because of some old world association. Dr. Max Wickhoff of Vienna, Austria, in a letter dated Dec. 20, 1929, writes that his family came from Friesland in the seventeenth century and that he believes that the Austrian Wickhoffs and the American Wyckoffs derive from the same Friesian gentry, living in the Austrian Netherlands, which then comprised a large part of Holland, Belgium and East Friesland. He also refers to the house in the province of Drente which is called Hof in der Wijk, or Wijkof. "Hof" would here mean house or farmstead and "Wijk" would designate the locality.[3] There can be no certainty as to which explanation is correct.

There are many spellings of the name, but the original spelling is as given in the document referred to above, and the nearest approach to that is Wyckoff. The others are corruptions that have arisen from carelessness or illegible writing.

Pieter Claesen had ten children, six boys and four girls, all of whom married and had families. The family had a high standing in the Dutch colony, as is shown by the families into which they married. All were families of importance. He died in 1694.

CHAPTER III

GRIETJE VAN NESS

If the founder of the Wyckoff name is entitled to mention in this book, surely the mother of this great family should also have consideration. She contributed much to the family that she helped to found. Even among the Dutch of that time there were distinctions of station, and she ranked high. Many of the plain people carried no family name. With them there was the coupling of the name of father and child, like Pieter Claesen, meaning Pieter, son of Claes. Others of apparently higher social or property advantages carried a family name from one generation to another. GRIETJE VAN NESS belonged to this latter class. She was the daughter of Cornelis Hendrick Van Ness and Maycke Hendrieux van der Burchgraeff. Cornelis was the son of Hendrick Gerritse Van Ness of Ameland, Holland. Maycke was the daughter of Hendrick Adriense van der Burchgraeff and Annetje Janse of Laeckervelt, Holland. These surnames indicate that these families were of high rank. A lengthy document, copied in the Wyckoff Family in America, shows that they also had wealth. This is the will of Annetje Jans, widow of Hendrick Adriens, dwelling at Laeckervelt, in which she divides her estate between her son and her daughter Maycke, and provides that Maycke shall have the use of this estate during her lifetime and that it shall then be divided among the six children of said Maycke, whom she names as follows:

1. Gerritie Cornelis, wife of Roeloff Cornelissen.
2. Hendricke Cornelis, wife of Jan Jensen van Oothout.
3. Hendrick.
4. Gerrit.
5. Jan.
6. Grietje Cornelis, wife of Pieter Claesen of Amersfoort, L. I.

Maycke died before her husband, but he carried out her wishes. Thus Grietje Van Ness, when she married Pieter Claesen, brought to him wealth as well as rank.

Cornelis van Ness, son of Hendrich van Ness, was doubtless a native of the village of Nes on the island of Ameland in the province of Friesland, North Holland. He later lived in Vianen, near Utrecht in South Holland, which was the home of Killian van Rensselear, patron of the colony of Rensselaerwick on the upper Hudson River. To this colony came Cornelis van Ness and his wife Maycke Hendricke van den Burghgraef in Aug. 1641. He was a man of education and ability and was influential in the affairs of the colony. He owned a farm near Greenbush, but he was no farmer. His main income was derived from his brewery and from his mercantile and political activities. He and his son-in-law Pieter Claesen engaged in a prolonged controversy with van Slichten-

CHAPTER III

DIEDRICK VAN NESS

It is the longest of the Wyckoff name is entitled to mention in this book, since the mother of this great family should also have considerable. The contributed much to the family that she helped to found. Even among the Dutch of that time there were distinctions of station, and she married well. Many of the plain people married no family name. With them there was the coupling of the name of father and child, like Peter Clausen, meaning Peter, son of Claus. Others of superiority higher social or property attributes carried a family name from one generation to another. Diedrick Van Ness belonged to this latter class. She was the daughter of Cornelis Diedrick Van Ness and Maayke Hendricks van der Bruyn. Cornelis was the son of Hendrick Cornlise Van Ness of Ameland, Holland. Maayke was the daughter of Hendrick Adriaan van der Bruyn and Annetje Janse of Leeuwarden, Holland. These surnames indicate that these families were of high rank. A family document, copied in the Wyckoff Family in America, shows that they also had wealth. This is the will of Annetje Jans, widow of Hendrick Adriaan, dwelling at Leeuwarden, in which she divides her estate between her son and her daughter Maayke, and provides that Maayke shall have the use of this estate during her lifetime and that it shall then be divided among the six children of said Maayke, whom she names as follows:

1. Cornelis Cornelis, wife of Rooloff Cornelissen.
2. Hendrickje Cornelis, wife of Jan Jansen van Gelderen.
3. Hendrick.
4. Harmen.
5. Jan.
6. Diedrick Cornelis, wife of Peter Clausen of Amerdam, L. I.

Maayke died before her husband, but he carried out her wishes. Then Diedrick Van Ness, when she married Peter Clausen, brought to him wealth as well as rank.

Cornelis van Ness, son of Diedrick van Ness, was doubtless a native of the village of Ness on the island of Ameland in the province of Friesland, North Holland. He later lived in Vianen, near Utrecht in South Holland, which was the home of Adriaan van Rotselaer, patron of the colony of Rensselaerwick on the upper Hudson River. To this colony came Cornelis van Ness and his wife Maayke Hendricks van den Bruyn, about 1651. He was a man of substance and ability and was influential in the affairs of the colony. He owned a farm near Greenbush, but he was an farmer. His main income was derived from his brewery and from his commercial and political activities. He and his son-in-law Peter Clausen engaged in a protracted controversy with van Rensselaer.

horst, the autocratic director of the colony, which ended only when Pieter Claesen left the colony in June 1649 and van Slichtenhorst was arrested, on Apr. 18, 1652, by order of Pieter Stuyvesant, Director General of the colony.[4]

Considering the prominence of Cornelis van Ness, one can but wonder what old world connection between the two families there may have been which led to the marriage of Grietje van Ness and Pieter Claesen, who so recently had been a laborer on the farm of Simon Walischez. Her superior education and rank must have been of immense importance to her young husband when he took up his new duties in Amersfoort.

Grietje outlived her husband, who died in 1694. She died between 1699 and 1703 and was buried beside her husband in Flatlands, L. I.

the Canarsie Lane house were secured from the Department and a model has been made, on a 1-48 scale, which gives a very good idea of the exterior of the house. When it has been decided where Wyckoff records are to be stored, this model will go with them.

The shingled roof was replaced in 1890 by a metal roof and most of the shingles on the sides are of recent date, but on the south side, sheltered by the overhanging roof, are some of the original shingles. They are of thick cypress wood, forty-two inches in length, fourteen inches of which is exposed. The ends are rounded and thus they can be readily distinguished from the square-cut cedar shingles on the remainder of the house.[5] These have been used as models in the reproduction.

The house consists of a main building fronting north and a smaller addition on the west end, built somewhat later and now in poor repair. The main building is one story high with a roomy garret and has the characteristic overhanging roof. In the garret, the oak timbers bear the marks of the axes that hewed them and the numbers cut in the beams to guide those who put the frame together. The floor of the garret is of well laid oak boards that form the ceilings of the rooms below, some of which have now been lathed and plastered. One room in the west end has the original oak ceiling, darkened by time and the smoke of many pipes.

In the main part there are two fireplaces, one at each end, which are now closed; and in the western addition is a Dutch oven and a third fireplace large enough to take in whole logs. There are two outside doors, opening north and south. On the north is the original Dutch door, divided horizontally in the middle and hung on heavy wrought-iron hinges. This was originally the front of the house, but the south entrance is now used; this south door is not divided and may be of later construction. The windows are fitted with solid wooden shutters of early date. In spite of its great age, the house is still solid and sturdy, with no evidence of weakness in its floors or frame.

The interior of the house has been changed much more than the exterior. Paint, lath and plaster and modern conveniences have made it more comfortable and sanitary, but they have taken away the fine flavor of the time-darkened ceilings and made the interior common-place.

PIETER CLAESEN WYCKOFF

(1.) PIETER CLAESEN WYCKOFF, born in Boda, Oland Island, Jan. 6, 1625, the only son of Claes Cornelissen van Schouwen and Margaret van der Goes; died June 30, 1694 (a contract between his heirs in 1697 calls him "late deceased"); married before 1646, Grietje Van Ness, born in the Netherlands between 1624 and 1630, died between 1699 and 1703 in Amersfoort (Flatlands), L. I. She was the daughter of Cornelius Hendrickse Van Ness, who came to New Amsterdam in 1641; settled in 1642 in Beverwyck, across the Hudson river from Albany, N. Y., where he had a house, lot and brewery.

PIETER CLAESEN WYCKOFF

(I. 5) PIETER CLAESEN WYCKOFF, born in Leeds, Greene County, N. Y., Feb. 6, 1679 (the only son of Claes Jacobsen van Couwenhoven and Marretje van der Grant; died June 30, 1764 (a tombstone between his father and his wife bears this date, and he is reported "before 1764" in the Dutch Church records); married before 1710 Grietje Van Siem, born in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn, 1694 and 1699; died between 1759 and 1763 in Amwell (Hillsborough), N. J. She was the daughter of Cornelius Hendricksen Van Siem, who came to New Amsterdam in 1661, settled in 1662 in Gravesyck, across the Hudson river from Albany, N. Y., where he had a bouwerie, lot and brewery.

Children:

Clark traces descent to Pieter Claesen (10th generation). She was born in 1891 at Albia, Iowa; m. in 1915, Emmett C. Gardner, born 1888; lived (1944) in Iowa City, Iowa, where he was Director of Extension work in Iowa University. They have one daughter, Margaret Frances Gardner, born Jan. 2, 1918, married May 29, 1940, Dr. Frederic E. Simpson, who was (1944) on the resident staff of the University Hospital at Iowa City.

Neeltje, born Jan. 3, 1682; married Oct. 2, 1701, Albert Couwenhoven of New Jersey; died May 7, 1751.

Mayken, born Jan. 14, 1684; died Nov. 25, 1736; married Mar. 5, 1704, Jan. Lucasse Van Voorhees. Through the Schenck, Van Voorhees, Van Liew and Gordon families, her descendant Adeline Gordon of Brooklyn, N. Y., traces her descent for nine generations from Pieter Claesen. Miss Gordon was born Aug. 30, 1870, and lived in New Brunswick, N. J. (1947). She and her niece, Marjorie Redshaw Bachman (born Dec. 23, 1899, married Dec. 31, 1924, Fred Bachman) are members of the Wyckoff Asso. They also trace their descent from Pieter Claesen through his son Cornelius and his wife, Gertrude Van Arsdale, through his daughter Petronella who married Joremyas Aertse Vanderbilt and thence through the Van Liew and Gordon families.

CHAPTER II

PIETER CLAESEN

Pieter Claesen, founder of the Wyckoff Family in America, came to Fort Orange, Province of New Netherland, Apr. 7, 1637, in the ship Rensselaerwick. In the log of that ship is the following: "This ship sailed from Amsterdam, Holland, 25 Sept. 1636, anchored off the seaport, The Texel, 8 Oct. 1636, reached New Amsterdam, New Netherland, 13 March 1637, and Tuesday 7 April, 1637, about three o'clock in the morning, we came to anchor before foort aeranien, the end of our journey upward."

The Rensselaerwick was outfitted by Killian Van Resselaer, a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, who had a speculative contract with the West India Company for the grant of a large body of land near the headwaters of the Hudson River, under which he was required to transport men and animals to the new country. There is no complete list of the passengers on this ship, but among those named are Pieter Cornelissen from Monnickendam, North Holland, Pieter Claesen Van Norden and Simon Walischez. These three did not remain in New Amsterdam, but went on to Fort Orange. Here Pieter Cornelissen became prominent in the affairs of the colony. He may have been the Uncle of Pieter Claesen, although the two are not mentioned together in the records of the Van Rensselear estate.

These records show that Pieter Claesen was one of the thirty-eight laborers sent on the Rensselaerwick to be assigned to various farmers on the Rensselaer estate, and that under the date Apr. 3, 1637, he was assigned to Simon Walischez. According to a scorched fragment of the records of the estate, saved from a fire in the State Library at Albany in 1911, he was to receive 50 guilders per year for the first three years and 75 guilders for the last three years. About the time when the contract matured, Simon Walischez' lease was canceled on the ground that he was an unsatisfactory tenant and the final settlement was made by the Van Rensselaer Estate.[1]

According to the report submitted to William Forman Wyckoff after research in Europe (See Chapter I), Pieter Claesen was the son of Claes Cornelissen van Schouen, who was the son of Cornelius Peterson and belonged to a family of traders who lived at Borgholm on Oland Island and carried on trade in the Baltic and North Seas. This family was apparently of Scandinavian descent. Cornelius Peterson married, on May 12, 1593, in the Cathedral in Calmar, Sweden, Johanna, daughter of Jacob van der Goes, and engaged with his father-in-law in trade on the Baltic and the Zuyderzee, to Nordinge in East Friesland and as far as Walcheren in Zeeland. He had three sons, Jacob, Claes and Peter Cornelissen, and one daughter Cornelia. His son Claes Cornelissen, born on

PIETER CLAESEN

Pieter Claesen, founder of the Wyckoff family in America, came to New Netherland, Provinces of New Netherland, April 7, 1637, in the ship Rensselaerwyck. In the log of that ship is the following: "This ship sailed from Amsterdam, Holland, 25 Sept. 1636, anchored off the seaport, The Texel, 5 Oct. 1636, reached New Amsterdam, New Netherland, 13 March 1637, and Tuesday 7 April, 1637, about three o'clock in the morning, we came to anchor before fort Amsterdam, the end of our journey upward."

The Rensselaerwyck was outfitted by Killian Van Rensselaer, a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, who had a speculative contract with the West India Company for the grant of a large body of land near the headwaters of the Hudson River, under which he was required to transport men and animals to the new country. There is no complete list of the passengers on this ship, but among those named are Pieter Cornelissen from Monnickendam, North Holland, Pieter Claesen Van Norden and Simon Walichen. These three did not remain in New Amsterdam, but went on to Fort Orange. Here Pieter Cornelissen became prominent in the affairs of the colony. He may have been the father of Pieter Claesen, although the two are not mentioned together in the records of the Van Rensselaer estate.

These records show that Pieter Claesen was one of the thirty-eight laborers sent on the Rensselaerwyck to be assigned to various farmers on the Rensselaer estate, and that under the date Apr. 3, 1637, he was assigned to Simon Walichen. According to a sworn statement of the records of the estate, proved down a fire in the State Library at Albany in 1911, he was to receive 50 guilders per year for the first three years and 72 guilders for the last three years. About the time when the contract matured Simon Walichen died and the final settlement was made by the Van Rensselaer Estate.

According to the report submitted to William Forsyth Wyckoff after research in Europe (See Chapter II), Pieter Claesen was the son of Claes Cornelissen van Schouw, who was the son of Cornelius Pieterson and belonged to a family of seafarers who lived at Berghelen on Texel Island and carried on trade in the Baltic and North Seas. This family was originally of Scandinavian descent. Cornelius Pieterson married, on May 12, 1591, in the Cathedral in Calmar, Sweden, Johanna, daughter of Jacob van der Clos, and surveyed with his father-in-law in trade on the Baltic and the Dniester, to Nordkaja in East Finland and as far as Wallachia in Roumania. He had three sons, Jacob, Claes and Pieter Cornelissen, and one daughter Cornelia. His son Claes Cornelissen, born on

See Dorpin, Wyckoff Genealogy and Early Other Families, Vol. III, page 168.

Oland, Apr. 3, 1597, was a minor when his father died in 1599, and in 1603 was under the guardianship of his maternal grandfather, Jacob van der Goes of Walcheren, Holland, and Calmar, Sweden, and with him engaged in trade which often took him to the Dutch islands. Here he married, on Nov. 9, 1623, a grand niece of his guardian, Margaret, daughter of Martyn van der Goes of Middelburg, Walcheren. In 1624, Claes Cornelissen returned to Böda on Oland, probably to introduce his wife to his relatives and to arrange the paternal inheritance with his brothers and sister. Here his son Pieter Claesen was born, Jan. 26, 1625. In Dec. 1625, Claes appears again in Walcheren as the owner of a ship of his own, Svenska Kronan. His home seems to have been at Zierikzee on the island of Schouen, for here his wife Margaret died, Aug. 2, 1631. From here he engaged in trade over the familiar route, perhaps taking with him his little son Pieter. By this time the Thirty Years War was making trade in those waters dangerous and unprofitable and this, added to the death of his wife, caused him to sell his ships and migrate to America, where he was known as Claes Cornelissen van Schouen.[2] He married again and had four children, the eldest of whom, Pieterse, was baptised in the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam, Oct. 28, 1649. This Pieterse married, about 1658-1660, Simon Jansen van Arsdalen, and their daughter Geertje (Gertrude) married on Oct. 13, 1678, Cornelius, second son of Pieter Claesen. From this marriage came the Cornelius line of the Wyckoffs. This Pieterse was the only one of the children of Claes Cornelissen to take the name of Wyckoff.

Pieter Claesen was 18 years old when he made his settlement with the van Rensselaer estate. Soon after this he rented a farm for himself and married Grietje van Ness, the daughter of a prominent citizen of the colony. Their two eldest children were born in Rensselaerwick, but the church in which were kept the records of their birth and the marriage of their parents was burned and the records were destroyed. With his wife and two children he went to New Amsterdam in 1649. Here he remained until 1655, when he signed a contract "to superintend the Bowery and cattle of Peter Stuyvesant in New Amersfoort" and moved into the house on Canarsie Lane in Flatlands, Brooklyn, now known as the Wyckoff Homestead.

Pieter Claesen prospered and became one of the most influential citizens of the little frontier settlement. He had bought land in that section in 1652 and continued to buy land from time to time, but he never owned the house in which he lived. He became a local judge, something like our justice of the peace, and was influential in establishing the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church at the juncture of Flatbush Avenue and King's Highway. His remains are supposed to have been buried in land now covered by the altar of this church. On May 22, 1938, The Wyckoff Association in America planted a tree in the churchyard of this edifice in

[2]Riker's History of Harlem says that Claes came from Holland in 1636 on the ship King David and that Pieter Claesen was his son. It also says that from him are descended the two families, the Wyckoffs and the van Arsdales.

Claesen, Apr. 2, 1697, was a minor when his father died in 1702, and in 1706 was under the guardianship of his mother, Grietje Hendrickse, daughter of Wouter, Holland, and Claesen, Gerdien, and with him moved to Wyckoff, on Nov. 9, 1706, a grant made him in the Dutch Islands. Here he married memory of Pieter Claesen and his descendants. On May 26, 1940, the same Association unveiled a bronze tablet inside the church, suitably inscribed in honor of Pieter Claesen.

When the British took over the Dutch colony, they had difficulty with the Dutch names and demanded that the Dutch families take surnames by which they could be identified. It was then that the name Wyckoff first came into use. In a roll of those who took the oath of allegiance in King's County in 1687, the names of Pieter Claesen and his six sons appear with the surname Wijckoff. The origin of the name, as accepted by William Forman Wyckoff, is as follows: Pieter Claesen had been a local judge and the name came from this fact, the "Wyk" meaning a parish and "hof", meaning a court. Thus the name would mean Pieter Claesen of the town court. A member of the Wyckoff family, wandering through a Dutch town during World War II, was surprised to see the name Wyckoff on a place of business, which suggests that the name may have been taken because of some old world association. Dr. Max Wickhoff of Vienna, Austria, in a letter dated Dec. 20, 1929, writes that his family came from Friesland in the seventeenth century and that he believes that the Austrian Wickhoffs and the American Wyckoffs derive from the same Friesian gentry, living in the Austrian Netherlands, which then comprised a large part of Holland, Belgium and East Friesland. He also refers to the house in the province of Drente which is called Hof in der Wijk, or Wijkof. "Hof" would here mean house or farmstead and "Wijk" would designate the locality.[3] There can be no certainty as to which explanation is correct.

There are many spellings of the name, but the original spelling is as given in the document referred to above, and the nearest approach to that is Wyckoff. The others are corruptions that have arisen from carelessness or illegible writing.

Pieter Claesen had ten children, six boys and four girls, all of whom married and had families. The family had a high standing in the Dutch colony, as is shown by the families into which they married. All were families of importance. He died in 1694.

CHAPTER III

GRIETJE VAN NESS

If the founder of the Wyckoff name is entitled to mention in this book, surely the mother of this great family should also have consideration. She contributed much to the family that she helped to found. Even among the Dutch of that time there were distinctions of station, and she ranked high. Many of the plain people carried no family name. With them there was the coupling of the name of father and child, like Pieter Claesen, meaning Pieter, son of Claes. Others of apparently higher social or property advantages carried a family name from one generation to another. GRIETJE VAN NESS belonged to this latter class. She was the daughter of Cornelis Hendrick Van Ness and Maycke Hendrieux van der Burchgraeff. Cornelis was the son of Hendrick Gerritse Van Ness of Ameland, Holland. Maycke was the daughter of Hendrick Adriense van der Burchgraeff and Annetje Janse of Laeckervelt, Holland. These surnames indicate that these families were of high rank. A lengthy document, copied in the Wyckoff Family in America, shows that they also had wealth. This is the will of Annetje Jans, widow of Hendrick Adriens, dwelling at Laeckervelt, in which she divides her estate between her son and her daughter Maycke, and provides that Maycke shall have the use of this estate during her lifetime and that it shall then be divided among the six children of said Maycke, whom she names as follows:

1. Gerritie Cornelis, wife of Roeloff Cornelissen.
2. Hendricke Cornelis, wife of Jan Jensen van Oothout.
3. Hendrick.
4. Gerrit.
5. Jan.
6. Grietje Cornelis, wife of Pieter Claesen of Amersfoort, L. I.

Maycke died before her husband, but he carried out her wishes. Thus Grietje Van Ness, when she married Pieter Claesen, brought to him wealth as well as rank.

Cornelis van Ness, son of Hendrich van Ness, was doubtless a native of the village of Nes on the island of Ameland in the province of Friesland, North Holland. He later lived in Vianen, near Utrecht in South Holland, which was the home of Killian van Rensselear, patron of the colony of Rensselaerwick on the upper Hudson River. To this colony came Cornelis van Ness and his wife Maycke Hendricke van den Burghgraef in Aug. 1641. He was a man of education and ability and was influential in the affairs of the colony. He owned a farm near Greenbush, but he was no farmer. His main income was derived from his brewery and from his mercantile and political activities. He and his son-in-law Pieter Claesen engaged in a prolonged controversy with van Slichten-

CHAPTER III

CORNELIE VAN NESS

If the founder of the Wyckoff name is entitled to mention in this book, merely his mother of this great family should also have consideration. She contributed much to the family that she helped to found. Even among the Dutch of that time there were distinctions of station, and she married high. Many of the plain people married on family name. With them there was the coupling of the name of father and child, thus Peter Cornelise, meaning Peter, son of Cornel. Others of apparently higher social or property advantages married a family name from one generation to another. Catryna Van Ness belonged to this latter class. She was the daughter of Cornelis Hendrick Van Ness and Maycke Hendricus van der Bunkgen. Cornelis was the son of Hendrick Gerritse Van Ness of Ameland, Holland. Maycke was the daughter of Hendrick Adriaens van der Bunkgen and Maycke Jansen of Leeuwarden, Holland. These surnames indicate that these families were of high rank. A lengthy document, copied in the Wyckoff Family in America, shows that they also had wealth. This is the will of Maycke Jans, widow of Hendrick Adriaens, dwelling at Leeuwarden, in which she divides her estate between her son and her daughter Maycke, and provides that Maycke shall have the use of this estate during her lifetime and that it shall then be divided among the six children of said Maycke, whose names are as follows:

1. Cornelis Cornelis, wife of Hendrick Cornelissen.
2. Hendricka Cornelis, wife of Jan Jansen van Oothout.
3. Hendrick.
4. Gerrit.
5. Jan.
6. Cornelia Cornelis, wife of Peter Classen of Amsterdam, I. E.

Maycke died before her husband, but he carried out her wishes. Thus Cornelie Van Ness, when she married Peter Classen, brought to him wealth as well as rank.

Cornelie van Ness, son of Hendrick van Ness, was Schuldeiss a native in the village of Ness on the island of Ameland in the province of Friesland, North Holland. He later lived in Vlissen, near Utrecht in South Holland, which was the home of Kilian van Rensselaer, patron of the colony of Rensselaerwyck on the upper Hudson River. To this colony came Cornelis van Ness and his wife Maycke Hendricks van den Bunkgen in the 1661. He was a man of education and ability and was instrumental in the affairs of the colony. He owned a farm near Greenbush, but he was an farmer. His main income was derived from his conveyancing from his measurable and political activities. He and his son-in-law Peter Classen engaged in a prolonged controversy with van Rensselaer horst, the autocratic director of the colony, which ended only when Pieter Claesen left the colony in June 1649 and van Slichtenhorst was arrested, on Apr. 18, 1652, by order of Pieter Stuyvesant, Director General of the colony.[4]

Considering the prominence of Cornelis van Ness, one can but wonder what old world connection between the two families there may have been which led to the marriage of Grietje van Ness and Pieter Claesen, who so recently had been a laborer on the farm of Simon Walischez. Her superior education and rank must have been of immense importance to her young husband when he took up his new duties in Amersfoort.

Grietje outlived her husband, who died in 1694. She died between 1699 and 1703 and was buried beside her husband in Flatlands, L. I.

the Canarsie Lane house were secured from the Department and a model has been made, on a 1-48 scale, which gives a very good idea of the exterior of the house. When it has been decided where Wyckoff records are to be stored, this model will go with them.

The shingled roof was replaced in 1890 by a metal roof and most of the shingles on the sides are of recent date, but on the south side, sheltered by the overhanging roof, are some of the original shingles. They are of thick cypress wood, forty-two inches in length, fourteen inches of which is exposed. The ends are rounded and thus they can be readily distinguished from the square-cut cedar shingles on the remainder of the house.[5] These have been used as models in the reproduction.

The house consists of a main building fronting north and a smaller addition on the west end, built somewhat later and now in poor repair. The main building is one story high with a roomy garret and has the characteristic overhanging roof. In the garret, the oak timbers bear the marks of the axes that hewed them and the numbers cut in the beams to guide those who put the frame together. The floor of the garret is of well laid oak boards that form the ceilings of the rooms below, some of which have now been lathed and plastered. One room in the west end has the original oak ceiling, darkened by time and the smoke of many pipes.

In the main part there are two fireplaces, one at each end, which are now closed; and in the western addition is a Dutch oven and a third fireplace large enough to take in whole logs. There are two outside doors, opening north and south. On the north is the original Dutch door, divided horizontally in the middle and hung on heavy wrought-iron hinges. This was originally the front of the house, but the south entrance is now used; this south door is not divided and may be of later construction. The windows are fitted with solid wooden shutters of early date. In spite of its great age, the house is still solid and sturdy, with no evidence of weakness in its floors or frame.

The interior of the house has been changed much more than the exterior. Paint, lath and plaster and modern conveniences have made it more comfortable and sanitary, but they have taken away the fine flavor of the time-darkened ceilings and made the interior common-place.

Declaration of Jacob Wykoff for a Pension

State of Indiana } ss
Ripley County }

On this 25th day of December Anno Domini 1833 personally appeared before the Honorable Joseph Robinson one of the Judges of the Ripley County Circuit Court in and for the said County of Ripley and State of Indiana Jacob Wykoff a resident of the said County of Ripley, aged Seventy Eight years on the 3d of November last (who by reason of bodily infirmity of the most distressing kind (to wit) the Female Palsey for the last Twelve years is unable to appear in open Court for the purpose of making this his declaration for a pension therein) who being first duly sworn according to Law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress passed June 7th 1832.

That he entered the service of the United States under the following named officers and served as herein stated. The first of July 1775 he enlisted in the service of the United States and served for Three years in either the 3d or 5th Regiments of the New Jersey Line under Col Maxfield (and also under Genl Dayton he thinks) Col Barber. Major Ezekiel Anderson (who was killed near Springfield) Capt. Thomas Patterson. Lieut John McKinney (Cannot forget) and 1st Sergeant Joseph Shrouds he thinks also that he served under Col Spencer. Col Chambers, Col Bishop and Major Chamberlain and some more that he cannot now remember. He left the service the first of July 1778. After serving faithfully for our Three years as an Enlisted Soldier aforesaid when he was duly discharged in writing by the Col (Col Spencer he thinks) of the Regiment in the month of August 1778. Volunteered and served for one year under Col Shudder, Major forgotten Capt. Patterson & Lieut John Potter (coming to the captains). He left the service this 2d time in the month of August 1779 when his year was up, and was regularly discharged. He then immediately to wit in the month of August 1779. Volunteered a second time and served for one year more in the Militia of New Jersey under Col. Chambers, Major Gummedi=ge Major Piatt, Capt. Garey. Capt. Case, Lieut Henry Bailey 1st Lieut Seguin Mount and some others which he cannot remember. He left the service in the Month of August or September 1780 when he was duly discharged, after serving one year more as a Volunteer which added to his former terms (to wit) Three years a Regular Soldier, and One year a Volunteer, makes the Term of Three years which he served (to wit) Three years in the Regular service and Two years in the Militia of New Jersey for which he claims a pension. At the time he entered the service and during the same he resided in Hunterdon County New Jersey and continued there until the war was over. The first time he enlisted the 2d time (of one year) the Volunteer and also the 3d time (of one year) he Volunteered. He was in the Battles of Brandywine, Trenton, Princeton Germantown, and Mon=mouth Court house. As it regards the Country through which the aforesaid Applicant marched it is impossible to ascertain the Point he marched, as applicant cannot talk nor write and only answers the Questions which are put to him "yes" or "no" according to the truth of them and as he remembers

(and he after signifies the negative or affirmative, by a nod or shake of his head — and the only way which could be adopted to ascertain this officers name was to ask if such an officer commanded. And at the same time calling the officers name, and if the right name is spoken he will nod his head as a token of assent (or "yes".) Therefore I have no doubts but many Errors have crept in to the declarations in that behalf but not as it regards the time which he served for he is perfectly sensible and will count the years on his fingers.) But from the said applicants answers, he marched to New Brunswick and remained there for some time, from thence he marched to Staten Island — from thence to New York from thence to Amboy — from thence to Mitts Farms — from thence to old Blazing Star from thence to Elizabeth town, and although the course of his marches as they accurd cannot be ascertained, yet in the manner just above spoken of, he can inform one by answering questions the places he was at he did and said he was at the following places, and served there on duty as an Enlisted Soldier (to wit) Brooklyn. Morristown. Scotch Plains Trenton. Princeton. Trappan Elizabeth town. Connecticut farms — Philadelphia. Brandywine. German town Monmouth Valley forge White plains &c. &c. During this two terms as a volunteer he served also at Morristown Princeton Trenton Elizabeth town Hackacks point Connecticut farms Springfield Chester (New) and many more places which he cannot remember but he served a great part of this time as a volunteer in Elizabeth town Chester Springfield and at the Connecticut farms — He was present at the engagement near Springfield when Maj. Ezekiel Cheeseman was shot and died in a short time. He was also present at what was termed the Battle of the Flags. He gives acquaintance with the Gen. Sullivan Gen. Maxwell Gen. Putnam Gen. Knox Gen. Greene Gen. Washington Col. Mathias Ogden Gen. Dayton and many others. He says that he well recollects many Militia Regiments and companies who were with the troops where he served and also Continental companies and Regiments but he cannot tell (to use his own language) (It was only with the assistance of persons who were acquainted with applicant 44 and 50 years since and who recollected the officers names under which he applicant served in consequence of the said applicant talking so much about the matter, that we have been able to ascertain as many of their names as we have.) He has no written or documentary Evidence and he knows of but one person living (to wit) Susana Hyde — who can testify to his service — (See affidavit) He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension Roll of the agency of any State —

=And the said Joseph Robinson one of the Judges of the Ripley County Circuit Court aforesaid does hereby declare his opinion after the investigation of the matters and after reading the Interrogatories prescribed by the War Department that the above named applicant was a Revolutionary Soldier and served as he has stated. And the said Judge further certifies that Meshack Hyatt whose signature and seal to the foregoing certificate is a Clergyman resident in the County of Ripley and State of Indiana and that Elijah Boswell whose signature is also a resident of the same County and State, is a credible person and ~~the~~ their statement is entitled to full credit. And the said Judge further certifies that the above named applicant Jacob Wykoff is wholly unable to appear in open Court for the purpose of making this his declaration for a pension therein by reason of extreme bodily infirmity caused by the Palsey so much so that he cannot walk, write nor speak intelligibly and the manner which was resorted to for the purpose of ascertaining the above facts as they are substantially set forth in the foregoing declaration was by asking him questions which he would immediately answer "yes" or "no" according to the truth of the same, and in answering the question "how many years or months he served" he would answer by counting his fingers. Yet notwithstanding all this bodily infirmity applicant appears to retain his mental faculties, and is fully aware of the nature and obligations of an oath. And the said Judge further thinks it his duty to add to the Secretary of the Department as a person worthy and fit to receive the just Bounties of a Government ever readily and willing to bestow its favors on the destitute and deserving. He has said this for the consequence of the peculiar nature of the case.

In Testimony that the foregoing proceedings in the matter of the application of Jacob Wykoff for a Pension were had before me at the residence of the aforesaid applicant on the 29 day of December 1833 I have hereunto set my hand and private seal the day and year aforesaid.

He was a descendant of Claes Cornelissin[1] Wyckoff, Dutch emigrant to New Amsterdam in 1636, through Pieter Claesen,[2] a prominent citizen of Long Island, whose wife was Gretia Van Ness, Claes,[3] Peter,[4] Nicholas,[5] Peter,[6] 1724–1807, William,[7] 1761–1847, whose wife was Isabella Covenhoven (or Crownover), James,[8] 1788–1840, of Hopewell, N. Y., who married Esther Gates, a descendant of John Alden of the Mayflower, and James,[9] his father, who was born at Hopewell 12 December 1820, married there, 3 October 1843, Caroline Wadsworth Tuttle (born at Seneca, N. Y., 26 August 1824, died at Perry 30 October 1905, daughter of Joseph and Amy (Read) Tuttle), and died at Perry 19 July 1890.

He was educated in the public schools of Perry, N. Y., and at a preparatory school at Ithaca, N. Y. At the age of nineteen he began work with the firm of Wyckoff & Tuttle, dealers in harvesting machinery, of which his father was a partner. Three years later he was elected secretary of the Perry Salt Company, and held that position for two years. He then spent several months in New York, and in 1891 went to Holyoke, where he entered the employ, as sales manager, of the Smith & White Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of writing paper. In 1893 he purchased an interest in the business, which was reorganized as the White & Wyckoff Manufacturing Company, and became its president, an office which he held until his death. The development of the company was marked by a steady and continual growth until it possessed three modern, fully equipped manufacturing plants, two at Holyoke and one at Davenport, Iowa.

Mr. Wyckoff was a trustee of the Holyoke Savings Bank and a director of the Holyoke Falls Trust Company. For forty years he was an ardent golfer, and it was due to his interest that the Mount Tom Golf Club was organized and its excellent golf course developed. For twenty years he was its president. He was a member of the Alden Kindred of America, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Holland Society of New York, the Connecticut Valley Historical Society, the Pelican Club of Boca Grande, Fla., and the Country Club of Springfield. He was a Mason, and attended the Congregational Church. Fond of travel, he had made several journeys around the world.

He married at Port Jervis, N. Y., 13 June 1893, Minnie Ann Branch, daughter of Thomas Henry and Olivia Ann (Roscoe) Branch, who survives him.

Rear Admiral Joseph Ballard Murdoch, U. S. N., Retired, of Hill, N. H., elected a resident (annual) member 7 February 1917, was born at Hartford, Conn., 13 February 1851, the son of Rev. John Nelson and Martha Ann (Ballard) Murdoch, and died at Manchester, N. H., 20 March 1931.

He was descended from Robert[1] Murdoch, a native of Scotland, who married first, at Roxbury, Mass., 28 April 1692, Hannah Stedman, and moved in 1703 to Newton, Mass., where he died 28 April 1754, aged 89 years, through John,[2] 1696–1743/4, of Newton, cordwainer, whose second wife was Sarah Read, Amos,[3] born in 1730, a soldier in the expedition to Canada in 1759, who married Sybil Flint, Capt. Ariel,[4] a soldier in the Revolution, a resident of Albany County, N. Y., where he died in 1803, whose wife was Eunice Murdock, Maj. Irvine,[5] 1797–1838, an officer in the War of 1812, who married Sarah Himes, and Rev. John Nelson,[6] his father, D.D. (University of Rochester, 1854), LL.D. (Madison University, 1888), a Baptist minister at Albany, N. Y., Hartford, Conn., and Boston, and later secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, who was born at Scriba, Oswego Co., N. Y., 8 December 1820, married secondly, at Brooklyn, N. Y., 10 January 1849, Martha Ann Ballard (born at Medfield, Mass., 11 March 1829, died at Dorchester (Boston) 2 January 1895, daughter of Rev. Joseph and Asenath (Gault) Ballard), and died at Clifton Springs, N. Y., 16 February 1897.

He attended the public schools in Boston and Cambridge, Mass., and was appointed from Massachusetts to the United States Naval Academy, where he was graduated in 1870.

Until his retirement in 1913 he was on active duty, and his experiences were varied. He served on the Coast Survey, on board the old frigate Constitution during her last cruise, on board the Dolphin, on board the Minneapolis in the

The name is spelled, Waychoff, Wickoff, Wicoff, Wikoff, Wychoff, Wyckoff, Wycoff, Wykoff, and in at least a dozen other ways; but it is nevertheless the same family name.

The common ancestor was Pieter Claesen, who migrated from Holland at the age of twelve, arrived at New Amsterdam March 4, 1637, went on to Fort Orange, where he worked until 1648, when he took a farm near Bethlehem, Albany County, New York. About 1644 he married Grietje van Ness and in 1649 moved to New Amsterdam. In 1652 he purchased property in Amersfoort, Long Island, later known as Flatlands and now a part of Brooklyn, where he lived until his death, June 30, 1694.

Pieter Claesen for a number of years under the Dutch regime was a magistrate of Amersfoort. After the British took New Amsterdam in 1664, family names were required of all citizens. In accord with Dutch usage, Pieter had none and so adopted one which was first used in his oath of allegiance to the British Crown. In the original form this surname was Wijkhof, a composite of Wijk, a town or parish, (bailiwick) and hof, a court or seat of authority. Pieter Claesen Wyckoff (the spelling he adopted) therefore signifies Pieter Claesen of the town court. In those days when illiteracy was common, a score of different spellings of the name were used; but for the last one hundred years the form has held mainly to the eight variations shown above.

Anyone who rightly bears this name, however spelled, is descended from Pieter Claesen Wyckoff by one of these five progenitors:

1. Nicholas, born about 1646; married Sara Montfort and had four sons, three of whom had male descendants.

4. Mayken, baptized October 19, 1653; married Willem Willemsen, and her male descendants bear the name of Wyckoff because her brother Hendrick, having no children, left his estate to her grandson Johannes, who at his great-uncle's request assumed the surname Wyckoff.

5. Cornelius, born about 1656; married Gertrude Van Arsdalen and had six sons, all of whom reached maturity and married.

8. Gerret, born 1662; married Catherine Nevius and had three sons, two of whom had male descendants.

10. Jan, born February 16, 1665; married Neeltje Couwenhoven and had three sons, one of whom, William, had male descendants.

Anyone who rightly bears this name, however spelled, is descended from Pieter Claesen Wyckoff by one of these five requirements:

1. Nicholas, born about 1644, married Sara Bantcot and had four sons, three of whom had male descendants.

4. Barent, baptized October 19, 1683, married William Williamson, and her male descendants bear the name of Wyckoff because her brother Hendrick, having no children, left his estate to her grandson Johannes, who at his great-uncle's request assumed the surname Wyckoff.

5. Cornelius, born about 1686, married Gertrude Van Arsdalen and had six sons, all of whom received maturity and married.

8. Gerret, born 1687, married Catherine Levine and had three sons, two of whom had male descendants.

10. Jan, born February 16, 1688, married Neeltje Conwenhoven and had three sons, one of whom, William, had male descendants.

The other children were:

2. Margrietje, born about 1648; married Matthys Brouwer.

3. Annatje, baptized November 20, 1650; married Roelof Martensen Schenck.

6. Hendrick, born about 1658; married twice but left no children. (See Mayken above.)

7. Geertje, born about 1660; married Christoffel Janse Romeyne.

9. Marten, born 1663; married Hannah Willemse and left female children only. Some of their descendants have joined the Association.
